DOLLAR IS STEADY AND BONDS FIRM

EXPORTS ARE HIGHER

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(UP)—Quiet strength in stocks was accompanied by steadiness in the American dollar, irregularity in commodities, firmness in bonds and favorable business reports.

Stocks slowly advanced to net gains of fractions to more than a point; wheat sagged off after a low opening; cautious operations in silver brought that metal down and affected mining issues to some extent; cotton was firm and so were sugar and rubber, while hides and coffee ruled steady.

Three bright spots stood out in the business situation:

1. Operations of steel mills in the Youngstown, Ohio, district at the beginning of next week will be at 35 per cent of capacity, an increase of 5 points over last week.

2. Exports during October reached the largest total for any month since October, 1931; were 21 per cent over September, and 27 per cent over October, 1932.

3. Prices and purchasing power of farm products increased in the second week of November, the bureau of agricultural economics reported. Farm price index as of November 15 was 71 per cent of prewar, against 70 in the previous week and 54 a year ago.

Canadian stocks were active and strong. Rather heavy dealings in Canadian Pacific was a feature of the rails. The stock rose nearly a point. International Nickel also had a heavy turnover, rising fractionally.

Wet issues recently under pressure recovered part of their losses, but others of the group were mixed with U. S. Industrial alcohol a loser. National Distillers at one time was at 25 1-4 up 7-8 and Schenley 27 1-8 up 1 3-8.

TAXICAB WARFARE IN S. D. IS AVERTED

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 25.—(UP)—A threatening "war" between Mexican and American taxicab drivers was averted today by an order from Mexico City, prohibiting American drivers from crossing the border.

Before the order arrived, police erected machine guns to prevent a possible outbreak between rival factions controverting an order of Augustin Olachea, governor of the northern district of Lower California, to allow American drivers the right to share in the brisk transportation business between San Ysidro, TiJuana and Agua Caliente. An American-owned bus was surrounded by a menacing crowd of Mexican drivers but the tension was snapped by the arrival of the Mexico City countermanding decree.

MORE DETAILS IN WYNEKOOP DEATH SOUGHT

Officials Convinced That Confession Has Only Scratched Surface

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—(UP)—Investigators sought another break today to unravel the operating table murder mystery involving the prominent Wynekoop family of physicians in whose home Rheta Gardner Wynekoop was found dead.

The confession of Dr. Alice Wynekoop, the girl's mother-in-law, "only scratched the surface," they said.

Police held Dr. Wynekoop, 62-year-old head of the family, and her son, Earle, 27, the victim's husband.

Writs of habeas corpus were returnable today before Judge James F. Fardy. Frank Tyrrell, the doctor's attorney, sought her release or commitment to county jail. He said that she could not be charged with anything more serious than manslaughter on the basis of her confession.

Detectives moved Enid Hennessey, schoolteacher who roomed with the Wynekoops, from the home to take her "to stay with friends." Miss Hennessey is considered an important witness.

Dr. Wynekoop confessed that she fired a shot into her daughter-in-law's body, but only after the girl was dead. Rheta, she said, died from an overdose of chloroform while submitting to a medical examination in her operating room. She was treating the girl for a pain in her side. Rheta wanted an anaesthetic, she said, and even poured some of the chloroform on a sponge herself.

Shoots Patient

Dr. Wynekoop then noticed that respiration had ceased and "on an impulse" she snatched a revolver from her desk and shot her patient through the heart, her confession said. She described her motive as the method to "ease the situation best of all."

This statement had been obtained after police told the mother that Earle had confessed to having killed his wife to save his mother.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty and Coroner Frank J. Walsh immediately reconvened a coroner's jury and presented the mother's admission of having been in the room when Rheta died. They blocked attempts to introduce the physician's full statement.

The jury returned a verdict reading:

"We, the jury, find that Rheta Gardner Wynekoop came to her death on Nov. 21 about the hour of 3 p. m. in the basement of her home at 3406 West Monroe street, as the result of shock and hemorrhage from a bullet fired in her back. We recommend that Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop be held to the grand jury on a charge of murder for the death and that her accomplices, if any, be arrested and held on a simliar charge."

GARLAND OPPOSED TO H. B. DRILLING

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 25.—(UP) — William May Garland, prominent Los Angeles civic leader, telegraphed Governor James Rolph's office urging action to prevent Huntington Beach wells from removing oil from a state-owned pool, the executive offices announced today.

"It appears certain," he said, "that certain oil companies have whipstocked their wells under the highway and are tapping state-owned oil land. I believe the property of the people should be preserved, and the state be protected from further despoilation of this valuable field which in time to come will be the best place on the coast to secure oil for naval operations."

GUARD AROUND SAN JOSE JAIL STRENGTHENED

Police Halt Efforts Toward Finding Body; Citizens Take Over Work

SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 25.—(UP)—Police authorities turned over to individuals today the search for the body of Brooke L. Hart, kidnap and slaying victim, in the vicinity of the San Mateo bridge, from which his self-confessed abductors said they threw him into San Francisco bay.

"We are convinced that the body is not near the bridge," Sheriff James McGrath, San Mateo county, was quoted as saying. "It now appears that the body may have floated away and may be found elsewhere in the bay. There is no use searching here any longer."

Spurred by an offer of a $500 reward for recovering the missing body, scores of individuals grappled in the mud and tramped along the bay shore line. The reward was posted by Alex J. Hart, wealthy father of the young college graduate who disappeared Nov. 9.

Meantime Santa Clara county authorities called in criminological and mental experts in building up the kidnaping case which they plan to present against Thomas H. Thurmond, 28, and John M. Holmes, 29. They allegedly admitted abducting young Hart and dropping him unconscious into the water. Heavily armed deputies guarded the jail here to prevent reported plans to seize the two men.

The prisoners were questioned by Dr. J. M. Scanlan, head of the Agnew State Mental hospital, and

CHAUTEMPS PLANS TO BUILD CABINET

PARIS, Nov. 25.—(UP)—Camille Chautemps accepted in principle today the invitation of President LeBrun to attempt to form a cabinet.

Minister of the interior in the short-lived Sarraut ministry, Chautemps was called to the Elysee palace to confer with President Albert LeBrun immediately after the departure of Edouard Herriot, leader of the radical socialist party, who declined the mission on the grounds of ill health.

Chautemps and the president discussed possible cabinet combinations with LeBrun stressing the necessity for placing majority harmony above party principles in negotiating the early passage of the controversial budget.

MERCHANTS OF SOUTH ATTACK STATE TAX LAW

Constitutionality of Retail Sales Tax Challenged in Suit

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 25.—(UP)—In a direct attack on the state sales tax law, 550 Southern California merchants today challenged the constitutionality of the law in a suit on file in the superior court here.

Repayment of the sales taxes paid under protest by the plaintiffs was demanded in the bulky document which reached the court late yesterday. The individuals asked rebates of sums ranging from $50 to $1000. Most of them were Los Angeles firms.

The suit alleged that the tax was unconstitutional because it had not received the approval of two-thirds of the legislature; because it was discriminatory; and because the requirement that legislative acts do not become effective until 90 days after passage hadn't been fulfilled. The complaint pointed out that the measure was passed in the latter part of July and became effective August 1.

The plaintiffs took the position that the sales tax was not "an urgency act" as its passage was not necessary for the "immediate preservation of peace, health and safety of the citizens."

It was understood that Attorney General U. S. Webb, who would be called upon to defend the suit, has maintained that the position of the Los Angeles firms is "untenable," and that the tax was immediately necessary, and did not require a two-thirds vote.

BAY BRIDGE GROUP TO ASK MORE FUNDS

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Nov. 25.—(UP)—Request for an additional $15,600,000 federal advance to finance construction of interurban facilities on the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge will be made within the next few weeks, Earl Lee Kelly, director of public works, said today.

The California toll bridge authority must act on the proposal, and if it approves the request, either Kelly or some other member of the group will go to Washington and seek the additional funds.

The R. F. C. agreed to advance $60,000,000 toward the bridge construction.

Terminal sites for bridge trains have not been chosen, Kelly said. Several plans are under consideration.

MRS. HEINZ SEEKS CUSTODY OF THREE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 25.—(UP)—Mrs. Sara Young Frazer, his former wife, today charged that Clifford S. Heinz, member of a wealthy Pittsburgh, Pa., canning family, was not a "fit person" to care for their three children, and asked to be appointed their guardian.

Mrs. Frazer petitioned in superior court for custody of Clifford S. Heinz jr., 14; Nancy Irene, 11; and Dorothy Louise, 10.

Ministers Take Action At Meeting

Temperance Forces Called on to Institute Initiative Proposal

THE OPENING GUN of a spirited state-wide campaign for the restoration of local control of liquor traffic, removed from the California statutes with the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, was sounded today in a call addressed to the temperance forces to institute an initiative proposal to that end, as set forth in resolutions adopted here yesterday by the Ministerial Association of Santa Ana.

The resolution calls for an initiative measure in the general election in the fall of 1934 on the proposal to restore to the local political subdivisions of the state the right to control liquor traffic. All control is vested in the state, under laws to go into effect when the Eighteenth Amendment is officially repealed.

Several speakers called attention to the fact that Orange county has been known as one of the strongholds of the temperance forces of the state and, because of that fact, it was proper that Orange county should take the leadership in launching a movement for restoration of what is known as "local option."

Adopt Resolution

The resolution, which follows, was introduced by the Rev. Clarence D. Hicks of the Missionary Alliance, and seconded by Ralph Smedley, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who also is serving as secretary of the ministerial body.

"Whereas, upon the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, all local option laws for the control of the liquor traffic in California will also be repealed, leaving all authority for control in the hands of the state, and,

"Whereas, Santa Ana and all of Orange county, in common with the other political divisions of the state, have long enjoyed the privilege of local control of the liquor traffic within their limits, with generally good and satisfactory results, and,

"Whereas, the proposed institution of state control promises to bring about conditions of political corruption and lawlessness such as have long been unknown in our state and county, therefore be it

Resolved, that the Ministerial Association of Santa Ana hereby calls upon the temperance forces of the state to unite in an effort

FOOTHILLS FIRE IS NOW UNDER CONTROL

PASADENA, Cal., Nov. 25.—(UP)—Patrol lines were established in the blackened La Crescenta and Tujunga foothills section to guard against a new outbreak of fire that has ravaged 5000 acres of valuable watershed.

The first was brought under control after a stubborn three-day battle. Unless wind hazards arose, firemen hoped to extinguish the simmering blaze within a day or two.

Damage to the denuded area was estimated at nearly $5,000,000.

U. S. C. DEFEATS NOTRE DAME BY 19 TO 0 SCORE

Warburton Gets Off Twice and Scores Two Touchdown for Trojans

NOTRE DAME STADIUM, SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 25. —(UP)—Southern California became the first football team in history to defeat Notre Dame three times in succession when the Trojans scored a 19-0 triumph over the Irish today before a crowd of 40,000. It was the fifth defeat of the year for Notre Dame.

The most games the Irish ever have lost in one season.

Irvine (Cotton) Warburton, Southern California's 147-Pound quarterback, started the Trojans' victory march in the second period after the two teams had played a scoreless first period. Warburton replaced Homer Griffith at quarterback at the start of the second period, and less than five minutes later had personally conducted the Trojans on a 52-yard drive over the Notre Dame goal line.

After Southern California obtained possession of the ball on a punt on its own 38-yard line, the Trojans drove straight down the field in 9 plays for the first score. Wotkyns made 2 yards and Warburton drove through for 10 yards in two attempts. Wotkyns made 5 yards and then Warburton knifed off Notre Dame's left tackle and raced 35 yards to Notre Dame's 10 yard line before Milner, Notre Dame end, caught him by one arm and yanked him out of bounds.

Wotkyns plunged two yards, and Warburton, in two drives, took the ball 4 yards to the 3-yard line. On fourth down with goal to go, Warburton cut around Notre Dame's left end, and just got over the line by inches before being forced out of bounds. Stevens kicked goal.

Southern California also scored touchdowns in both the third and fourth periods. Bob McNeish's 38-yard pass to Julius Bescos, Trojan end, put the ball on the 8-yard line near the end of the third period. Griffith made 5 yards, and then McNeish passed to Griffith for a touchdown.

The final touchdown was made by Warburton after Clemens had intercepted a Notre Dame pass on the Irish 29-yard line late in the final period. Warburton picked up 11 yards, and then Bescos lost 3. Propst plunged for 10 yards, and Warburton made another 10 to Notre Dame's 1-yard line. On the first play, Warburton went over for the score.

Notre Dame was hopelessly outclassed throughout, and never made a dangerous drive. The Irish never got inside the Trojan's 34-yard line, an only once reached that far.

WARDEN NAMED FOR ALCATRAZ PRISON

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—(UP)—An experienced penologist considered a pioneer in humanitarian methods of prison discipline was chosen today as warden of the United States prison on Alcatraz Island, where the department of justice plans to confine its most desperate prisoners.

The appointee is James A. Johnston, San Francisco, who gained a wide reputation as warden of Folsom and San Quentin state prisons. Announcement of Johnston's selection and of his acceptance was made here by William Stanley, an assistant U. S. attorney general.

AVOCADO CROP NETS GROWERS $328,000

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 25.—(UP)—The 1932-33 avocado crop netted California growers approximately $328,500, according to estimates today of George B. Hodgkin, general manager of the Calavo Growers' exchange.

The season's crop was estimated at 3,214,000 pounds of which the exchange handled approximately 70 per cent for a cash return from sales of $230,000, Hodgkin said. The crop cost consumers approximately $985,700.

ROLPH BACK OF PLAN TO PROBE UTILITY FIRMS

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 25.—(UP)—Senatorial investigation of reported power company activity in the Central Valley Water project campaign was praised by Governor James Rolph today.

"With Senator J. M. Inman a member of the investigation committee," Rolph said, "we should get some results. I wish Inman better luck this time than he had when he investigated my administration and failed to discover anything wrong."

Seven senators recently announced they would demand a sweeping investigation of power corporation expenditures in the campaign against the water project, and thus "put an end to corporation influence in California elections."

Rolph enthusiastically endorsed the plan.

"Are the people of the state going to permit private interests to dictate to public officials, or will the people stand behind the public officials as they should?" he asked. "Are the people willing to be bossed by private corporations?"

A statement from the senate bloc said:

"There is every reason to believe the great power companies of California are preparing to spend $500,000 in their desperate effort to defeat the Central Valley Water project.

"We believe the time is at hand to expose the methods of privately owned utilities in California in influencing elections. The power companies, when they enter a campaign, use the money paid by California consumers to defeat the will of California people. Such condition calls for immediate correction."

The statement was signed by Senators Bradford S. Crittenden, Stockton; William E. Harper, San Diego; J. M. Inman, Sacramento; Chris N. Jespersen, Atascadero; John B. McColl, Redding; Frank W. Mixter, Exeter, and Will R. Sharkey, Martinez.

U. S. FOREIGN TRADE JUMPS IN OCTOBER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(UP)—United States foreign trade continued to expand in October with exports reaching the highest level in two years, the department of commerce reported today.

Exports were valued in October at $194,000,000, against $160,000,000 in September and were the highest since October, 1931, when they were $204,905,000.

Imports in October rose to $151,000,000 from $146,652,000 in September and were the highest with one exception since December, 1931.

October exports were 27 per cent over October, 1932. Imports were 43 per cent above October, 1932.

"The increase in exports during the last two months," the department of commerce said, "has occurred while the import movement leveled off after the rapid rise from May through August.

PARTY LINES SPLIT OVER GOLD POLICY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(UP)—Party lines are being smashed as the battle over President Roosevelt's money policy grows.

Alfred E. Smith, Democratic standard bearer in 1928, has placed himself at the head of a procession of stalwart hard money Democrats who have refused to follow the president. With him are two other prominent Democrats, Sen. Carter Glass of Virginia and Bernard M. Baruch. Both were prominent in the Roosevelt campaign.

This breach, while it splits off from Mr. Roosevelt some of the biggest names in the party, was not regarded by administration supporters as seriously weakening the president's strength in congress where the money battle will be fought furiously beginning in January.

Speaker Henry T. Rainey spoke the mind of administration supporters when he commented on Smith's New Outlook criticism of what he called the "baloney dollar" of Mr. Roosevelt.

"Mr. Smith's attack on the president and his policies is regrettable," Rainey said. "There is no 'baloney' in the president's gold plan or in anything else he is doing to get us out of the depression and economically well again."

Mr. Roosevelt is seen here as having finally broken with eastern conservative opinion.

FEDERAL PRICE OF GOLD IS UNCHANGED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(UP)—The government held its gold buying price unchanged at $33.76 an ounce today for the fifth successive day.

Meanwhile, Gov. Black of the federal reserve board denied rumors of a rift between the board and the administration over the Roosevelt monetary policies.

Abandonment of open market government bond purchases by the reserve banks more than a week ago had raised vague rumors that the reserve board was working at "cross purposes" with the administration.

The R. F. C. agreed to advance $60,000,000 toward the bridge construction.

Terminal sites for bridge trains have not been chosen, Kelly said. Several plans are under consideration.

MRS. HEINZ SEEKS CUSTODY OF THREE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 25.—(UP)—Mrs. Sara Young Frazer, his former wife, today charged that Clifford S. Heinz, member of a wealthy Pittsburgh, Pa., canning family, was not a "fit person" to care for their three children, and asked to be appointed their guardian.

Mrs. Frazer petitioned in superior court for custody of Clifford S. Heinz jr., 14; Nancy Irene, 11; and Dorothy Louise, 10.

Temperance Forces Called on to Institute Initiative Proposal

THE OPENING GUN of a spirited state-wide campaign for the restoration of local control of liquor traffic, removed from the California statutes with the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, was sounded today in a call addressed to the temperance forces to institute an initiative proposal to that end, as set forth in resolutions adopted here yesterday by the Ministerial Association of Santa Ana.

The resolution calls for an initiative measure in the general election in the fall of 1934 on the proposal to restore to the local political subdivisions of the state the right to control liquor traffic. All control is vested in the state, under laws to go into effect when the Eighteenth Amendment is officially repealed.

Several speakers called attention to the fact that Orange county has been known as one of the strongholds of the temperance forces of the state and, because of that fact, it was proper that Orange county should take the leadership in launching a movement for restoration of what is known as "local option."

Adopt Resolution

The resolution, which follows, was introduced by the Rev. Clarence D. Hicks of the Missionary Alliance, and seconded by Ralph Smedley, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who also is serving as secretary of the ministerial body.

"Whereas, upon the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, all local option laws for the control of the liquor traffic in California will also be repealed, leaving all authority for control in the hands of the state, and,

"Whereas, Santa Ana and all of Orange county, in common with the other political divisions of the state, have long enjoyed the privilege of local control of the liquor traffic within their limits, with generally good and satisfactory results, and,

"Whereas, the proposed institution of state control promises to bring about conditions of political corruption and lawlessness such as have long been unknown in our state and county, therefore be it

Resolved, that the Ministerial Association of Santa Ana hereby calls upon the temperance forces of the state to unite in an effort

FOOTHILLS FIRE IS NOW UNDER CONTROL

PASADENA, Cal., Nov. 25.—(UP)—Patrol lines were established in the blackened La Crescenta and Tujunga foothills section to guard against a new outbreak of fire that has ravaged 5000 acres of valuable watershed.

The first was brought under control after a stubborn three-day battle. Unless wind hazards arose, firemen hoped to extinguish the simmering blaze within a day or two.

Damage to the denuded area was estimated at nearly $5,000,000.

NOTRE DAME STADIUM, SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 25.—(UP)—Southern California became the first football team in history to defeat Notre Dame three times in succession when the Trojans scored a 19-0 triumph over the Irish today before a crowd of 40,000. It was the fifth defeat of the year for Notre Dame.

The most games the Irish ever have lost in one season.

Irvine (Cotton) Warburton, Southern California's 147-Pound quarterback, started the Trojans' victory march in the second period after the two teams had played a scoreless first period. Warburton replaced Homer Griffith at quarterback at the start of the second period, and less than five minutes later had personally conducted the Trojans on a 52-yard drive over the Notre Dame goal line.

After Southern California obtained possession of the ball on a punt on its own 38-yard line, the Trojans drove straight down the field in 9 plays for the first score. Wotkyns made 2 yards and Warburton drove through for 10 yards in two attempts. Wotkyns made 5 yards and then Warburton knifed off Notre Dame's left tackle and raced 35 yards to Notre Dame's 19 yard line before Milner, Notre Dame end, caught him by one arm and yanked him out of bounds.

Wotkyns plunged two yards, and Warburton, in two drives, took the ball 4 yards to the 3-yard line. On fourth down with goal to go, Warburton cut around Notre Dame's left end, and just got over the line by inches before being forced out of bounds. Stevens kicked goal.

Southern California also scored touchdowns in both the third and fourth periods. Bob McNeish's 38-yard pass to Julius Bescos, Trojan end, put the ball on the 8-yard line near the end of the third period. Griffith made 5 yards, and then McNeish passed to Griffith for a touchdown.

The final touchdown was made by Warburton after Clemens had intercepted a Notre Dame pass on the Irish 29-yard line late in the final period. Warburton picked up 11 yards, and then Bescos lost 3. Propst plunged for 10 yards, and Warburton made another 10 to Notre Dame's 1-yard line. On the first play, Warburton went over for the score.

Notre Dame was hopelessly outclassed throughout, and never made a dangerous drive. The Irish never got inside the Trojan's 34-yard line, an only once reached that far.

WARDEN NAMED FOR ALCATRAZ PRISON

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—(UP)—An experienced penologist considered a pioneer in humanitarian methods of prison discipline was chosen today as warden of the United States prison on Alcatraz Island, where the department of justice plans to confine its most desperate prisoners.

The appointee is James A. Johnston, San Francisco, who gained a wide reputation as warden of Folsom and San Quentin state prisons. Announcement of Johnston's selection and of his acceptance was made here by William Stanley, an assistant U. S. attorney general.

AVOCADO CROP NETS GROWERS $328,000

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 25.—(UP)—The 1932-33 avocado crop netted California growers approximately $328,500, according to estimates today of George B. Hodgkin, general manager of the Calavo Growers' exchange.

The season's crop was estimated at 3,214,000 pounds of which the exchange handled approximately 70 per cent for a cash return from sales of $230,000, Hodgkin said. The crop cost consumers approximately $995,700.

ROLPH BACK OF PLAN TO PROBE UTILITY FIRMS

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 25.—(UP)—Senatorial investigation of reported power company activity in the Central Valley Water project campaign was praised by Governor James Rolph today.

"With Senator J. M. Inman a member of the investigation committee," Rolph said, "we should get some results. I wish Inman better luck this time than he had when he investigated my administration and failed to discover anything wrong."

Seven senators recently announced they would demand a sweeping investigation of power corporation expenditures in the campaign against the water project, and thus "put an end to corporation influence in California elections."

Rolph enthusiastically endorsed the plan.

"Are the people of the state going to permit private interests to dictate to public officials, or will the people stand behind the public officials as they should?" he asked. "Are the people willing to be bossed by private corporations?"

A statement from the senate bloc said:

"There is every reason to believe the great power companies of California are preparing to spend $500,000 in their desperate effort to defeat the Central Valley Water project.

"We believe the time is at hand to expose the methods of privately owned utilities in California in influencing elections. The power companies, when they enter a campaign, use the money paid by California consumers to defeat the will of California people. Such condition calls for immediate correction."

The statement was signed by Senators Bradford S. Crittenden, Stockton; William E. Harper, San Diego; J. M. Inman, Sacramento; Chris N. Jespersen, Atascadero; John B. McColl, Redding; Frank W. Mixter, Exeter, and Will R. Sharkey, Martinez.

U. S. FOREIGN TRADE JUMPS IN OCTOBER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(UP)—United States foreign trade continued to expand in October with exports reaching the highest level in two years, the department of commerce reported today.

Exports were valued in October at $194,000,000, against $160,000,000 in September and were the highest since October, 1931, when they were $204,905,000.

Imports in October rose to $151,000,000 from $146,652,000 in September and were the highest with one exception since December, 1931.

October exports were 27 per cent over October, 1932. Imports were 43 per cent above October, 1932.

"The increase in exports during the last two months," the department of commerce said, "has occurred while the import movement leveled off after the rapid rise from May through August.

PARTY LINES SPLIT OVER GOLD POLICY

Alfred E. Smith, Democratic standard bearer in 1928, has placed himself at the head of a procession of stalwart hard money Democrats who have refused to follow the president. With him are two other prominent Democrats, Sen. Carter Glass of Virginia and Bernard M. Baruch. Both were prominent in the Roosevelt campaign.

This breach, while it splits off from Mr. Roosevelt some of the biggest names in the party, was not regarded by administration supporters as seriously weakening the president's strength in congress where the money battle will be fought furiously beginning in January.

Speaker Henry T. Rainey spoke the mind of administration supporters when he commented on Smith's New Outlook criticism of what he called the "baloney dollar" of Mr. Roosevelt.

"Mr. Smith's attack on the president and his policies is regrettable," Rainey said. "There is no 'baloney' in the president's gold plan or in anything else he is doing to get us out of the depression and economically well again."

Mr. Roosevelt is seen here as having finally broken with eastern conservative opinion.

FEDERAL PRICE OF GOLD IS UNCHANGED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(UP)—The government held its gold buying price unchanged at $33.76 an ounce today for the fifth successive day.

Meanwhile, Gov. Black of the federal reserve board denied rumors of a rift between the board and the administration over the Roosevelt monetary policies.

Abandonment of open market government bond purchases by the reserve banks more than a week ago had raised vague rumors that the reserve board was working at "cross purposes" with the administration.

GRAVEL FIRM FILES ACTION AGAINST COUNTY

Launching a new attack on the contract between Orange county and L. D. Reynolds for the purchase of all cementaceous gravel used in repair work, Graham Brothers, Incorporated, has filed suit in superior court asking that the county be enjoined from making further purchases under the contract.

In addition to Reynolds the suit names as defendants J. C. Mitchell, Willard Smith, LeRoy Lyon, George Jeffrey, and W. C. Jerome, as individuals and members of the board of supervisors; E. B. Trago, as an individual and county treasurer, W. T. Lambert, as an individual and county auditor and F. W. Slabaugh, individually and as county purchasing agent.

The complaint for injunction urges that the court order the defendant Reynolds to present his contract with the county for cancellation, that the defendants be perpetually enjoined from taking further proceedings under the contract and that the auditor and board of supervisors be enjoined from paying any funds due and be required to repay to the county treasury such sums as may hereafter be paid Reynolds under the contract.

The complaint is based on a contract between Reynolds and the county under which the county agreed to purchase cementaceous gravel for all repair work providing the quantities are such that it is not necessary to submit the purchase to bid.

In the complaint it alleges that on June 14, 1932, while W. C. Jerome was acting as chairman of the board, the supervisors, pursuant to a resolution adopted by that body executed an agreement with Reynolds which, when tested later in court, was declared void insofar as future liability on the part of the county is concerned. (Editor's Note—W. C. Jerome was not a member of the board at the date in question.)

It is charged in this new complaint that on October 18, 1933, 1900 tons of quarry waste were ordered from a producer other than Reynolds, for use in the Wintersburg road district which is a part of supervisorial district No. 2 of which Mitchell is supervisor.

After 1200 tons of the material had been delivered, according to the complaint, Reynolds started action against the county alleging that his contract was valid and binding and required that the county purchase all materials mentioned from him. He also asked that the county be enjoined from purchasing material from any other producer.

Following filing of the suit, it is alleged in the new complaint, the producer was notified to discontinue furnishing material to the job. On November 1, Reynolds' case was dismissed.

The complaint now on file alleges that Reynolds is delivering to the job material at a cost in excess of a fair market price and that the gravel was not up to requirements and caused additional expense in laying it on the roads in question.

When the suit, referred to in the latest action by Graham brothers was heard in court, Judge G. K. Scovel held that it was binding upon the county for any material already delivered. He did say in his opinion that the contract was not binding upon the county as it was void through lack of mutuality. While he ruled that the contract was not obligatory upon the county they could continue to purchase from Reynolds if they so desired.

Check Passer Gets $11.85 From Store

Having passed a worthless check for $11.85 on Hockaday, Harlow and Phillips, auto parts jobbers, a man giving the name of W. J. Cast was being sought by Santa Ana police today.

Cast came to the auto store Thursday evening and bought some spark plugs, gaskets and other accessories. He gave a check for the exact amount and gave an address of 1706 French street, which is an orange grove. The man was described as six feet tall, 30 years old and weighing about 170 pounds.

WILL ROGERS says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Nov. 25. (To the Editor of The Register:) Big headlines in today's papers say that the big bankers to show Roosevelt his financial scheme don't suit them, they are unloading government bonds and securities by the bushel. He won't play their way so they are going to sell their ball and bat and get out. I can't just recall, but as well as I remember, wasn't they the fellows that the government was helping so much not long ago? They ought to pray every night, "God bless Mama and Papa, and all my family, and interest, and Roosevelt."

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

P. S.—I want to apologize to the President for putting interest ahead of him, but interest has been helping 'em out longer than he has.

"Thurmond's responses to my questions were prompt and lucid," Dr. Scanlan said. "They were those of an entirely normal person. He struck me as a man almost sick with fear and remorse but sane."

Proescher, an expert criminological technician, was given several concrete blocks and coils of wire found in the bay. On one of the coils reportedly were several strands of blonde hair. Proescher planned to compare the strands with several turned over to him at the Hart home. The kidnapers had said that they had weighted the youth with the blocks and tied him with the wire before throwing him from the bridge.

New reports of threatened "vigilante" action against Thurmond and Holmes reached the jail. The guard was strengthened. Despite general indignation and widespread threats, no demonstration has been staged since the prisoners were returned from San Francisco earlier in the week.

The authorities expected trouble if and when the missing body was found.

New Publication Of Junior H. S. Makes Appearance

Packed with interesting contributions by teachers, setting forth the activities, teaching methods, and objectives of the various departments of the Frances E. Willard Junior High school, is the November issue of the Willard Quarterly, a school paper published by the department of journalism of the school, under direction of Miss Vera Jacobs, assisted by Mrs. Golden Weston, both being member of the faculty.

Outstanding features of the publication, copies of the first edition of which were distributed yesterday to the parents of Willard students, are well written articles setting forth the value of cultural activities as well as vocational training courses. Listed among the contributors are Norman Hicks, Grace Lund, Robert Horn, Veda Ball, Marian Libby, Maurine Scott, Ruth Langley, Dorothy Broadway, and Lillian Fitz.

Other articles dealing with administration and associated activities appear under the names of Lyle B. Mitchell, principal of the school, Mabel Budd, and Marcella Stein, the latter being in charge of the school cafeteria. Another feature is a brief contribution by Dr. George Warmer, president of the Willard P.-T. A.

by the order of the New York Public Service commission directing an emergency reduction of 6 per cent in Electric company rates. Consolidated Gas, the company directly affected by the order, touched 38 3-4 in the early dealings where it was off 3-4 point. It later came back to the previous close.

Commonwealth & Southern came out 25,000 shares at 2 up 1-8 and later increased its advance. Gains ranging to more than a point were noted in Standard Gas, National Power & Light, American Power & Light, North American, and Columbia Gas.

American Telephone & Telegraph held a small gain in the communication group where Western Union fluctuated around the previous close and international telephone ruled firm.

Steel shares were featured by a rise of more than a point in National Steel. Bethlehem at one time touched 34 5-8, up 1-2, while U. S. Steel also made a half-point gain to 45 3-8. These issues were aided by the pickup in operations at Youngstown.

Du Pont rose a point in the chemical division and held most of it. Automobile shares held steady to firm, featured by Chrysler. Mack Trucks was steady despite profit-taking. Westinghouse Electric and General Electric were slightly higher.

Reports from tobacco centers of improvement on earnings of the large companies was a factor in quiet strength in those issues. Loriliard made a new high at 106 up 1. Rails were steady; mercantile shares firm, and oils dull around the previous close.

Stock sales today totaled 477,917 shares as against 577,800 shares last Saturday. Curb sales today were 100,000 shares as against 90,000 shares last Saturday.

PARTY'S LINES SMASHED OVER MONEY POLICY

He tagged his opponents as Tories.

Smith says he is for experience as against experiment and would prefer to trust men of practical experience rather than the group of college professors now dominant in administration counsels. This group feels that public confidence is a vital element in any monetary system and that Mr. Roosevelt is losing that confidence rapidly with the risk of undermining government credit and sending government bonds and other bonds down the toboggan slide.

Brain trust members—not for quotation—answer that the old system failed. They say the gold standard failed the country in the test last March. They say that when the public sought to take up the government on its pledge to redeem currency in gold, the structure collapsed demonstrating that it was an impractical mechanism. They also emphasize that the fixed gold dollar works hardship and inequities by compelling people in a time of declining prices, to pay back more than they borrowed in terms of goods.

They say that any money system is an artificially managed system and that they only propose to try another method which they hope will prove more workable. The greatest merit they see in the commodity dollar is that it would get rid of a fixed gold standard, which subjects the dollar's value to the shifting value of gold, and would instead peg it to an index which would be a less variable measure of value.

Opinion is growing in Washington that the money question is rapidly forging ahead with prospects of being the big political issue of the 1934 congressional elections.

IMPROMPTU SHOW PUT ON BY MOVIE STARS AT BEACH CITY

With George Bancroft, Vincent Barnett, Wallace Ford and Lew Cody, all famous Hollywood celebrities, playing the star roles, a one-act impromptu comedy was staged for the benefit of several hundred Laguna Beach citizens yesterday who happened to be near Frank Kibby's Sandwich Mill, on the state highway.

The four men drove up to the curb in a 16-cylinder car, and Bancroft, Barnett and Ford went inside the shop. Keeping up a rapid-fire of comment, the trio ordered hotcakes and sausages, and then Barnett, who enacts Jewish roles, jumped behind the counter and took the orders. Bancroft next took the spotlight when he took a full plate of hot-cakes and pushed them in Barnett's face.

Grabbing a fly-swatter, Bancroft chased his friend out on the boulevard and fell heavily on his face as Barnett sidestepped a wild swing. The chase finally ended back in the shop after Bancroft took the other man by the ear and growled:

"You've insulted this man (Kirby), now apologize." In the same breath he hit Barnett a resounding slap, and was astonished to see Barnett hold out his hand to Kirby and say, in Jewish accent:

"I accept your apology."

During the commotion, Ford was consuming his food and paying no attention to the horseplay. To the consternation of Bancroft and Barnett, he suddenly ran to the car and drove down the highway with the other men in full pursuit. Cody slept on the back seat and missed the fun, but a rapidly-formed crowd cheered as the two actors finally overhauled the car, clambered aboard and speeded away.

Far from satisfied, however, was Supervising Captain John Stege, dogged police investigator, who claimed that investigations have "only scratched the surface of this case" thus far.

After the coroner's jury's report Stege and other investigators instituted a new series of examinations of the material witnesses. Dr. Alice and Earle were taken over their previous stateements step by step. Dr. Catherine Wynekoop, daughter of Dr. Alice, Miss Hennessey, and Walker Wynekoop, oldest son of Dr. Alice, were kept under police surveillance.

All but Walker were interviewed. He was reported to have left the city on a business trip.

Stege's aim was believed to be directed toward a further clearing up of Earle's extramarital relations with other young women. Five girls with whom Earle made "dates" when he was employed at the World's Fair this summer were questioned.

Family Secrets

Police saw in the bond between mother and son a chance to dig into the heretofore guarded family secrets. Both broke their calm resistance to police questioning under the prodding of consciences disturbed by the clever suggestions of psychiatrists. Earle was constantly urged to "come clean" to spare his aged mother. His first "break" was in antagonism to the assumption that he was allowing his mother to bear the burden of suspicion. He said:

"I'll make an iron clad confession to spare her but I fear—"

With no more than this, investigators led the mother to believe that her son had acknowledged guilt in his wife's death. She expressed pride in her son's reported confession to save her but still claimed she knew no more than she had told.

Questioning gently led the thread of information over the possibilities that Dr. Alice had examined her daughter-in-law on various occasions. Assistant State's Attorney John M. Long suggested that Rheta might have died as the result of an accident with chloroform during such an examination.

Then the formal statement poured forth. As soon as Dr. Alice had identified her statement to the coroner's jury, the questioning was resumed. Police again were confronted with a firm adherence to the new explanation which could not be broken. When a halt was finally called, Dr. Alice and interrogators alike were worn out.

Events Of Civil War Topic of Meet

An old-fashioned country school at which the teachers told the pupils of the outstanding events of the Civil war, featured the entertainment program of the monthly dinner meeting of the Sons and Daughters of the Grand Army of the Republic, held last night at the K. P. hall on West Fifth street, this city. The dinner arrangements were in charge of the daughters, and the program was put on by the sons of the veterans. Matters taken up for discussion included plans for reception of the national commander of the G. A. R. and department officers who are expected to visit Santa Ana on December 8.

Counterfeiters Lodged In Jail

Using bogus money was profitable for a short time but nine men ended up in the Orange county jail yesterday on charges of counterfeiting after being arrested in Long Beach Thursday. They were arraigned in Los Angeles federal courts yesterday and will be held awaiting preliminary hearings.

Those booked at the jail by United States Deputy Marshal Besser, were Robert A. Timmons, 42, Al Young, 56, George Rowe, 36, Tom Smiley, 28, Jessie M. William, 33, Earl William, 30, Ralph Berry, 35, and Lawrence Jacobs, 30.

to secure a vote at the general election in the fall of 1934 on an initiative proposal to restore the right of liquor traffic control to the option of each political subdivision of the state, as has been the custom under the so-called 'local option' laws of the past, and be it further

"Resolved, that the president and secretary of this association be authorized to address an appeal to the Ministerial association of each county seat and of other strategic centers in the state to the end that united action under proper leadership may be secured in the effort to restore local autonomy in the regulation and control of the liquor traffic."

Costa Mesa Girl Called by Death

Victim of lingering illness, Lelas Chandler Elbertson, 17, of 261 Walnut street, Costa Mesa, passed away yesterday at the Orange County hospital. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Chandler; two sisters, Betty and Marjory, and two brothers, William and Robert, all of Costa Mesa. Private funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. from the Harrell and Brown funeral parlor, with interment at the Fairhaven cemetery.

TIDELAND OIL WELL PERMIT STILL IN FORCE

Presiding Judge G. K. Scovel yesterday afternoon issued a temporary restraining order preventing W. S. Kingsbury, chief of the Division of State Lands and Rolland Vandegrift, director of the Department of Finance, from terminating a tidelands drilling permit held by Matilda Shallenmiller and ejecting her from the property as a trespasser.

Mrs. Shallenmiller has asked for a permanent injunction but a date for hearing on that petition was not set. Attorney Web Shadle, representing the department of finance at the hearing did not resist the temporary restraining order and said that the defendants would have granted Mrs. Shallenmiller an extension of her permit but lacked the power. He said that the permit expired November 3, and the state officers automatically required to notify Mrs. Shallenmiller and her agents that the state would be forced to eject them.

Mrs. Shallenmiller, in her complaint for a permanent restraining order had alleged that the state refused to extend her permit on the grounds that she had not fulfilled all drilling requirements. She alleged that the requirements could not be fulfilled because of long drawn out litigation between the Bolsa Land company and the Vaqueros Major Oil company, her agents in drilling wells on the lease. She also alleged that drilling was prevented through an act of God by which she termed the recent burning of the gambling ship Johanna Smith. She alleged that the hulk of the ship drifted ashore and broke in two parts. Both parts according to her claim drifted ashore in positions that prevented transportation of materials and supplies to the derrick where a well was being drilled.

CORA A. LINDLEY CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Cora A. Lindley, 72, mother of Ward S. Lindley, credit manager of Hockaday, Harlow and Phillips, passed away last night at the home of her son, 1024 South Main street, this city, following a brief illness, Mrs. Lindley was a native of New York state, and lived in Des Moines for a number of years before coming to California. In addition to her son, Ward, she is survived by a grandson, Bayard Ellwood Lindley, of this city, and a brother, W. W. Selley, of Des Moines. The remains will be shipped to Des Moines, it was announced by Smith and Tuthill, in charge of arrangements.

Strength of Auto Insurance Firm Told In Article

More automobiles are insured in the State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance company than in any other company, according to a recent article in the American Insurance Digest and Insurance Monitor, the oldest Insurance paper in the United States, and attention to this article was called by T. H. Bond, of Los Angeles, district agent of the company, who spent yesterday in Orange county on business connected with the company.

Bond said that the company is active in 35 states and is represented by approximately 7000 agents of standing and reputation, and he cited among the facts quoted in the article, the low cost insurance coupled with promptness and fairness in the adjustment of claims, that the company is rated A-plus by the foremost insurance authority in America and is possessed of unquestioned financial strength.

The article reveals that the State Farm Mutual Insurance company's assets at the start of this year were $7,026,942 and nearly a third of the total was surplus to policy holders, consisting of an actual surplus of $1,233,284 and a contingency reserve of $1,150,000.

"Because of economical management," it is stated in the article, "and the care with which its business is selected, the State Farm Mutual has made a handsome underwriting profit every year since it commenced operations. During its first eight years, it doubled both its assets and premium income each and every year, and even during the past three years, the company has doubled its assets and quadrupled its surplus and contingency reserve."

The company is represented in Orange county by a number of reputable licensed resident agents whose names may be found on another page of this issue.

ROBBED OF $400, DRIVER REPORTS

Claiming that two men robbed him of $400 in cash and checks Thursday night, James Clement, of 621 East First street, Long Beach, filed a detailed report with Huntington Beach police yesterday afternoon.

According to Clement, a driver for a wholesale company, he stopped his truck on Ocean boulevard between Sixth and Seventh streets shortly after 6:30 o'clock Thursday night to lock the rear door. As he stepped out, an armed bandit confronted him, he said. Acting under the man's orders, he drove to a point near Seal Beach, where he was forced into a machine driven by a second man, Clement told police. The bandits drove around Los Angeles county until 2 a. m., when he was forced out of the car, Clement related.

FIVE DIVORCES GRANTED FRIDAY IN COURT HERE

Five divorces were granted yesterday in two departments of superior court. Judge Edward Henderson, sitting in department one, granted four of the interlocutory decrees and Judge James L. Allen granted the other.

Judge Allen granted Mrs. Maxine Lamb a divorce from Charles Lamb when she testified that her husband deserted her January 9, last, immediately after their marriage in Arizona on the same day.

Mrs. Eva Samuels was given an interlocutory decree in department one when she testified that her husband, Chester Samuels, was of a domineering and nagging nature and had falsely accused her of consorting with other men. She also alleged that her husband associated with other women and was intoxicated a major portion of the time. They were married June 15, 1922, in Arkansas and separated April 20, 1932, at Oceanview.

Alleging that her husband struck and kicked her and on one occasion threatened to kill her, Mrs. Anna P. Johnson was granted a decree from Joseph V. Johnson. She also alleged that her husband had been arrested on numerous occasions since 1920 and that because of his actions it became necessary for a family in Phoenix, Ariz., to adopt their three children. They were married February 9, 1913, in San Angelo, Tex., and separated March 17, 1930.

Mrs. Florence S. McCollum was granted a decree of divorce from Thomas C. McCollum, Villa Park orange grower, on the grounds of cruelty. She alleged that her husband was fault finding, was ill-tempered, refused to take her to places of amusement and wanted her to take in boarders. She also accused her husband of taunting her with statements that there had been insanity in her family. They were married June 25, 1932, in Ventura and separated twice, March 27, last, and again on November 8, this year.

Marcus Marcellus McCallen was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Jessie H. McCallen, whom he accused of desertion. They were married June 7, 1923, in Crowley, La., and separated April 3, 1932.

GRAVEL FIRM FILES ACTION AGAINST COUNTY

Launching a new attack on the contract between Orange county and L. D. Reynolds for the purchase of all cementaceous gravel used in repair work, Graham Brothers, Incorporated, has filed suit in superior court asking that the county be enjoined from making further purchases under the contract.

In addition to Reynolds the suit names as defendants J. C. Mitchell, Willard Smith, LeRoy Lyon, George Jeffrey, and W. C. Jerome, as individuals and members of the board of supervisors; E. B. Trago, as an individual and county treasurer, W. T. Lambert, as an individual and county auditor and F. W. Slabaugh, individually and as county purchasing agent.

The complaint for injunction urges that the court order the defendant Reynolds to present his contract with the county for cancellation, that the defendants be perpetually enjoined from taking further proceedings under the contract and that the auditor and board of supervisors be enjoined from paying any funds due and be required to repay to the county treasury such sums as may hereafter be paid Reynolds under the contract.

The complaint is based on a contract between Reynolds and the county under which the county agreed to purchase cementaceous gravel for all repair work providing the quantities are such that it is not necessary to submit the purchase to bid.

In the complaint it alleges that on June 14, 1932, while W. C. Jerome was acting as chairman of the board, the supervisors, pursuant to a resolution adopted by that body executed an agreement with Reynolds which, when tested later in court, was declared void insofar as future liability on the part of the county is concerned. (Editor's Note—W. C. Jerome was not a member of the board at the date in question.)

It is charged in this new complaint that on October 18, 1933, 1900 tons of quarry waste were ordered from a producer other than Reynolds, for use in the Wintersburg road district which is a part of supervisorial district No. 2 of which Mitchell is supervisor.

After 1200 tons of the material had been delivered, according to the complaint, Reynolds started action against the county alleging that his contract was valid and binding and required that the county purchase all materials mentioned from him. He also asked that the county be enjoined from purchasing material from any other producer.

Following filing of the suit, it is alleged in the new complaint, the producer was notified to discontinue furnishing material to the job. On November 1, Reynolds' case was dismissed.

The complaint now on file alleges that Reynolds is delivering to the job material at a cost in excess of a fair market price and that the gravel was not up to requirements and caused additional expense in laying it on the roads in question.

When the suit, referred to in the latest action by Graham brothers was heard in court, Judge G. K. Scovel held that it was binding upon the county for any material already delivered. He did say in his opinion that the contract was not binding upon the county as it was void through lack of mutuality. While he ruled that the contract was not obligatory upon the county they could continue to purchase from Reynolds if they so desired.

Having passed a worthless check for $11.85 on Hockaday, Harlow and Phillips, auto parts jobbers, a man giving the name of W. J. Cast was being sought by Santa Ana police today.

Cast came to the auto store Thursday evening and bought some spark plugs, gaskets and other accessories. He gave a check for the exact amount and gave an address of 1706 French street, which is an orange grove. The man was described as six feet tall, 30 years old and weighing about 170 pounds.

WILL ROGERS says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Nov. 25. (To the Editor of The Register:) Big headlines in today's papers say that the big bankers to show Roosevelt his financial scheme don't suit them, they are unloading government bonds and securities by the bushel. He won't play their way so they are going to sell their ball and bat and get out. I can't just recall, but as well as I remember, wasn't they the fellows that the government was helping so much not long ago? They ought to pray every night, "God bless Mama and Papa, and all my family, and interest, and Roosevelt."

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

P. S.—I want to apologize to the President for putting interest ahead of him, but interest has been helping 'em out longer than he has.

"Thurmond's responses to my questions were prompt and lucid," Dr. Scanlan said. "They were those of an entirely normal person. He struck me as a man almost sick with fear and remorse but sane."

Proescher, an expert criminological technician, was given several concrete blocks and coils of wire found in the bay. On one of the coils reportedly were several strands of blonde hair. Proescher planned to compare the strands with several turned over to him at the Hart home. The kidnapers had said that they had weighted the youth with the blocks and tied him with the wire before throwing him from the bridge.

New reports of threatened "vigilante" action against Thurmond and Holmes reached the jail. The guard was strengthened. Despite general indignation and widespread threats, no demonstration has been staged since the prisoners were returned from San Francisco earlier in the week.

The authorities expected trouble if and when the missing body was found.

Packed with interesting contributions by teachers, setting forth the activities, teaching methods, and objectives of the various departments of the Frances E. Willard Junior High school, is the November issue of the Willard Quarterly, a school paper published by the department of journalism of the school, under direction of Miss Vera Jacobs, assisted by Mrs. Golden Weston, both being member of the faculty.

Outstanding features of the publication, copies of the first edition of which were distributed yesterday to the parents of Willard students, are well written articles setting forth the value of cultural activities as well as vocational training courses. Listed among the contributors are Norman Hicks, Grace Lund, Robert Horn, Veda Ball, Marian Libby, Maurine Scott, Ruth Langley, Dorothy Broadway, and Lillian Fitz.

Other articles dealing with administration and associated activities appear under the names of Lyle B. Mitchell, principal of the school, Mabel Budd, and Marcella Stein, the latter being in charge of the school cafeteria. Another feature is a brief contribution by Dr. George Warmer, president of the Willard P.-T. A.

DOLLAR STRONG AND PRICES GO UP ON MARKET

by the order of the New York Public Service commission directing an emergency reduction of 6 per cent in Electric company rates. Consolidated Gas, the company directly affected by the order, touched 38 3-4 in the early dealings where it was off 3-4 point. It later came back to the previous close.

Commonwealth & Southern came out 25,000 shares at 2 up 1-8 and later increased its advance. Gains ranging to more than a point were noted in Standard Gas, National Power & Light, American Power & Light, North American, and Columbia Gas.

American Telephone & Telegraph held a small gain in the communication group where Western Union fluctuated around the previous close and international telephone ruled firm.

Steel shares were featured by a rise of more than a point in National Steel. Bethlehem at one time touched 34 5-8, up 1-2, while U. S. Steel also made a half-point gain to 45 3-8. These issues were aided by the pickup in operations at Youngstown.

Du Pont rose a point in the chemical division and held most of it. Automobile shares held steady to firm, featured by Chrysler. Mack Trucks was steady despite profit-taking. Westinghouse Electric and General Electric were slightly higher.

Reports from tobacco centers of improvement on earnings of the large companies was a factor in quiet strength in those issues. Loriliard made a new high at 106 up 1. Rails were steady; mercantile shares firm, and oils dull around the previous close.

Stock sales today totaled 477,917 shares as against 577,800 shares last Saturday. Curb sales today were 100,000 shares as against 90,000 shares last Saturday.

He tagged his opponents as Tories.

Smith says he is for experience as against experiment and would prefer to trust men of practical experience rather than the group of college professors now dominant in administration counsels. This group feels that public confidence is a vital element in any monetary system and that Mr. Roosevelt is losing that confidence rapidly with the risk of undermining government credit and sending government bonds and other bonds down the toboggan slide.

Brain trust members—not for quotation—answer that the old system failed. They say the gold standard failed the country in the test last March. They say that when the public sought to take up the government on its pledge to redeem currency in gold, the structure collapsed demonstrating that it was an impractical mechanism. They also emphasize that the fixed gold dollar works hardship and inequities by compelling people in a time of declining prices, to pay back more than they borrowed in terms of goods.

They say that any money system is an artificially managed system and that they only propose to try another method which they hope will prove more workable. The greatest merit they see in the commodity dollar is that it would get rid of a fixed gold standard, which subjects the dollar's value to the shifting value of gold, and would instead peg it to an index which would be a less variable measure of value.

Opinion is growing in Washington that the money question is rapidly forging ahead with prospects of being the big political issue of the 1934 congressional elections.

With George Bancroft, Vincent Barnett, Wallace Ford and Lew Cody, all famous Hollywood celebrities, playing the star roles, a one-act impromptu comedy was staged for the benefit of several hundred Laguna Beach citizens yesterday who happened to be near Frank Kibby's Sandwich Mill, on the state highway.

The four men drove up to the curb in a 16-cylinder car, and Bancroft, Barnett and Ford went inside the shop. Keeping up a rapid-fire of comment, the trio ordered hotcakes and sausages, and then Barnett, who enacts Jewish roles, jumped behind the counter and took the orders. Bancroft next took the spotlight when he took a full plate of hot-cakes and pushed them in Barnett's face.

Grabbing a fly-swatter, Bancroft chased his friend out on the boulevard and fell heavily on his face as Barnett sidestepped a wild swing. The chase finally ended back in the shop after Bancroft took the other man by the ear and growled:

"You've insulted this man (Kirby), now apologize." In the same breath he hit Barnett a resounding slap, and was astonished to see Barnett hold out his hand to Kirby and say, in Jewish accent:

"I accept your apology."

During the commotion, Ford was consuming his food and paying no attention to the horseplay. To the consternation of Bancroft and Barnett, he suddenly ran to the car and drove down the highway with the other men in full pursuit. Cody slept on the back seat and missed the fun, but a rapidly-formed crowd cheered as the two actors finally overhauled the car, clambered aboard and speeded away.

Far from satisfied, however, was Supervising Captain John Stege, dogged police investigator, who claimed that investigations have "only scratched the surface of this case" thus far.

After the coroner's jury's report Stege and other investigators instituted a new series of examinations of the material witnesses. Dr. Alice and Earle were taken over their previous stateements step by step. Dr. Catherine Wynekoop, daughter of Dr. Alice, Miss Hennessey, and Walker Wynekoop, oldest son of Dr. Alice, were kept under police surveillance.

All but Walker were interviewed. He was reported to have left the city on a business trip.

Stege's aim was believed to be directed toward a further clearing up of Earle's extramerital relations with other young women. Five girls with whom Earle made "dates" when he was employed at the World's Fair this summer were questioned.

Family Secrets

Police saw in the bond between mother and son a chance to dig into the heretofore guarded family secrets. Both broke their calm resistance to police questioning under the prodding of consciences disturbed by the clever suggestions of psychiatrists. Earle was constantly urged to "come clean" to spare his aged mother. His first "break" was in antagonism to the assumption that he was allowing his mother to bear the burden of suspicion. He said:

"I'll make an iron clad confession to spare her but I fear—"

With no more than this, investigators led the mother to believe that her son had acknowledged guilt in his wife's death. She expressed pride in her son's reported confession to save her but still claimed she knew no more than she had told.

Questioning gently led the thread of information over the possibilities that Dr. Alice had examined her daughter-in-law on various occasions. Assistant State's Attorney John M. Long suggested that Rheta might have died as the result of an accident with chloroform during such an examination.

Then the formal statement poured forth. As soon as Dr. Alice had identified her statement to the coroner's jury, the questioning was resumed. Police again were confronted with a firm adherence to the new explanation which could not be broken. When a halt was finally called, Dr. Alice and interrogators alike were worn out.

Events Of Civil War Topic of Meet

An old-fashioned country school at which the teachers told the pupils of the outstanding events of the Civil war, featured the entertainment program of the monthly dinner meeting of the Sons and Daughters of the Grand Army of the Republic, held last night at the K. P. hall on West Fifth street, this city. The dinner arrangements were in charge of the daughters, and the program was put on by the sons of the veterans. Matters taken up for discussion included plans for reception of the national commander of the G. A. R. and department officers who are expected to visit Santa Ana on December 8.

Counterfeiters Lodged In Jail

Using bogus money was profitable for a short time but nine men ended up in the Orange county jail yesterday on charges of counterfeiting after being arrested in Long Beach Thursday. They were arraigned in Los Angeles federal courts yesterday and will be held awaiting preliminary hearings.

Those booked at the jail by United States Deputy Marshal Besser, were Robert A. Timmons, 42, Al Young, 56, George Rowe, 36, Tom Smiley, 28, Jessie M. William, 33, Earl William, 30, Ralph Berry, 35, and Lawrence Jacobs, 38.

to secure a vote at the general election in the fall of 1934 on an initiative proposal to restore the right of liquor traffic control to the option of each political subdivision of the state, as has been the custom under the so-called 'local option' laws of the past, and be it further

"Resolved, that the president and secretary of this association be authorized to address an appeal to the Ministerial association of each county seat and of other strategic centers in the state to the end that united action under proper leadership may be secured in the effort to restore local autonomy in the regulation and control of the liquor traffic."

Costa Mesa Girl Called by Death

Victim of lingering illness, Lelas Chandler Elbertson, 17, of 261 Walnut street, Costa Mesa, passed away yesterday at the Orange County hospital. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Chandler; two sisters, Betty and Marjory, and two brothers, William and Robert, all of Costa Mesa. Private funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. from the Harrell and Brown funeral parlor, with interment at the Fairhaven cemetery.

TIDELAND OIL WELL PERMIT STILL IN FORCE

Presiding Judge G. K. Scovel yesterday afternoon issued a temporary restraining order preventing W. S. Kingsbury, chief of the Division of State Lands and Rolland Vandegrift, director of the Department of Finance, from terminating a tidelands drilling permit held by Matilda Shallenmiller and ejecting her from the property as a trespasser.

Mrs. Shallenmiller has asked for a permanent injunction but a date for hearing on that petition was not set. Attorney Web Shadle, representing the department of finance at the hearing did not resist the temporary restraining order and said that the defendants would have granted Mrs. Shallenmiller an extension of her permit but lacked the power. He said that the permit expired November 3, and the state officers automatically required to notify Mrs. Shallenmiller and her agents that the state would be forced to eject them.

Mrs. Shallenmiller, in her complaint for a permanent restraining order had alleged that the state refused to extend her permit on the grounds that she had not fulfilled all drilling requirements. She alleged that the requirements could not be fulfilled because of long drawn out litigation between the Bolsa Land company and the Vaqueros Major Oil company, her agents in drilling wells on the lease. She also alleged that drilling was prevented through an act of God by which she termed the recent burning of the gambling ship Johanna Smith. She alleged that the hulk of the ship drifted ashore and broke in two parts. Both parts according to her claim drifted ashore in positions that prevented transportation of materials and supplies to the derrick where a well was being drilled.

CORA A. LINDLEY CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Cora A. Lindley, 72, mother of Ward S. Lindley, credit manager of Hockaday, Harlow and Phillips, passed away last night at the home of her son, 1024 South Main street, this city, following a brief illness. Mrs. Lindley was a native of New York state, and lived in Des Moines for a number of years before coming to California. In addition to her son, Ward, she is survived by a grandson, Bayard Ellwood Lindley, of this city, and a brother, W. W. Selley, of Des Moines. The remains will be shipped to Des Moines, it was announced by Smith and Tuthill, in charge of arrangements.

Strength of Auto Insurance Firm Told In Article

More automobiles are insured in the State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance company than in any other company, according to a recent article in the American Insurance Digest and Insurance Monitor, the oldest Insurance paper in the United States, and attention to this article was called by T. H. Bond, of Los Angeles, district agent of the company, who spent yesterday in Orange county on business connected with the company.

Bond said that the company is active in 35 states and is represented by approximately 7000 agents of standing and reputation, and he cited among the facts quoted in the article, the low cost insurance coupled with promptness and fairness in the adjustment of claims, that the company is rated A-plus by the foremost insurance authority in America and is possessed of unquestioned financial strength.

The article reveals that the State Farm Mutual Insurance company's assets at the start of this year were $7,026,942 and nearly a third of the total was surplus to policy holders, consisting of an actual surplus of $1,233,384 and a contingency reserve of $1,150,000.

"Because of economical management," it is stated in the article, "and the care with which its business is selected, the State Farm Mutual has made a handsome underwriting profit every year since it commenced operations. During its first eight years, it doubled both its assets and premium income each and every year, and even during the past three years, the company has doubled its assets and quadrupled its surplus and contingency reserve."

The company is represented in Orange county by a number of reputable licensed resident agents whose names may be found on another page of this issue.

ROBBED OF $400, DRIVER REPORTS

Claiming that two men robbed him of $400 in cash and checks Thursday night, James Clement, of 621 East First street, Long Beach, filed a detailed report with Huntington Beach police yesterday afternoon.

According to Clement, a driver for a wholesale company, he stopped his truck on Ocean boulevard between Sixth and Seventh streets shortly after 6:30 o'clock Thursday night to lock the rear door. As he stepped out, an armed bandit confronted him, he said. Acting under the man's orders, he drove to a point near Seal Beach, where he was forced into a machine driven by a second man, Clement told police. The bandits drove around Los Angeles county until 2 a. m., when he was forced out of the car, Clement related.

FIVE DIVORCES GRANTED FRIDAY IN COURT HERE

Five divorces were granted yesterday in two departments of superior court. Judge Edward Henderson, sitting in department one, granted four of the interlocutory decrees and Judge James L. Allen granted the other.

Judge Allen granted Mrs. Maxine Lamb a divorce from Charles Lamb when she testified that her husband deserted her January 3, last, immediately after their marriage in Arizona on the same day.

Mrs. Eva Samuels was given an interlocutory decree in department one when she testified that her husband, Chester Samuels, was of a domineering and nagging nature and had falsely accused her of consorting with other men. She also alleged that her husband associated with other women and was intoxicated a major portion of the time. They were married June 15, 1929, in Arkansas and separated April 20, 1932, at Oceanview.

Alleging that her husband struck and kicked her and on one occasion threatened to kill her, Mrs. Anna P. Johnson was granted a decree from Joseph V. Johnson. She also alleged that her husband had been arrested on numerous occasions since 1920 and that because of his actions it became necessary for a family in Phoenix, Ariz., to adopt their three children. They were married February 9, 1913, in San Angelo, Tex., and separated March 17, 1930.

Mrs. Florence S. McCollum was granted a decree of divorce from Thomas C. McCollum, Villa Park orange grower, on the grounds of cruelty. She alleged that her husband was fault finding, was ill-tempered, refused to take her to places of amusement and wanted her to take in boarders. She also accused her husband of taunting her with statements that there had been insanity in her family. They were married June 25, 1932, in Ventura and separated twice, March 27, last, and again on November 8, this year.

Marcus Marcellus McCallen was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Jessie H. McCallen, whom he accused of desertion. They were married June 7, 1923, in Crowley, La., and separated April 3, 1932.

CONFERENCE ON AGREEMENT SET IN L. A. TUESDAY

Temporary restraining orders stopping production on six wells, and orders to show cause why the state should not be permitted to survey Wilshire Oil company and Ambassador Petroleum company wells at Huntington Beach, have been signed by Superior Judge L. N. Turrentine of San Diego, who has been presiding in oil hearings started here by the state, according to Webb Shadle, attorney for the state department of finance.

The temporary restraining orders to prevent production by the wells are returnable in court here December 1. The orders to show cause have been set for hearing December 4.

While the new step was being taken in the state's move to prevent the alleged "whip-stocking" of wells in the Huntington Beach field to tap the state owned tideland oil pool, a compromise between private drillers and the state loomed following an announcement from Sacramento that state officials and drillers would confer next Tuesday.

Governor James Rolph, said that Rolland A. Vandegrift, state director of finance, and Attorney General U. S. Webb would meet with oil men in Los Angeles next Tuesday.

The conference would seek to determine whether an agreement can be reached to permit a resumption of work at the wells. They closed when the state entered suit against one producer, charging that he had tapped the state oil reserve.

Rolph said that the compromise would be in the form of an agreement on royalties.

In event the proposal is not accepted by the oil men, the subject may be given to a special session of the legislature if one is called this winter, Rolph indicated.

The state had charged that many wells in the Huntington Beach district were slanted "deliberately" to drain state-owned tidelands.

STUDENT FORUM TO MEET HERE TONIGHT

The Students' Forum of Orange County meets tonight for the first time to hear James Latham of Los Angeles sociologist and statistician, who will give a lecture on "Black Bread and White Bread Lines." The meeting is at the Temple theater, Third and Bush streets, at 7:30 p. m. Although primarily for students, students "of all ages" will be welcome, according to Kenneth Fraser, who has been active in creating the forum.

Latha mis educational director of the Pen and Hammer in Los Angeles, a scientific research organization, which relves into facts connected with the costs of production, management and distribution. He promises to illustrate his lecture with graphic charts and diagrams which present the facts involved in a vivid manner.

The Students' Forum especially invites jaysee and high school students from the various schools in Orange county to participate in the forum discussion which will follow the lecture.

Rail Commission Work Outlined By Seavey At Beach

Every complaint about a public utility receives attention from the state railroad commission and is investigated by that body, Chairman Clyde Seavey informed the Laguna Beach Rotary club Friday at the White House cafe in a talk on the activities of the commission. Although there are 1500 separate companies controlled by the state body, not one of them has gone into bankruptcy during the economic depression because of the watchful eye of the commission, he declared.

So carefully are complaints investigated and all matters coming before the commission considered that out of 26,000 decisions given in the past 20 years, only 350 have been attacked in the courts, and of that number, the commission has been upheld in all but 20 cases, he said. Of the 20, the commission went into court as a friendly party to the suit, the speaker said.

At the suggestion of the commission, Chairman Seavey declared, the Southern Counties Gas company has made voluntary reductions of rates in its territory totaling $80,000 a year.

Seavey was introduced by Thomas L. Hosmer, program chairman, with Frank D. Hevener. The Laguna Beach club will visit the Tijuana club December 5, and the Oceanside club December 8.

Court Notes

Harold Clark Hood, charged with violation of the oil susbtitution act, will go on trial again December 28, at 9 a. m., it was decided by Judge Kenneth Morrison yesterday. A jury failed to agree on a verdict Tuesday, and a retrial was ordered.

NEW ATTORNEYS GET 1ST CASES IN COURT HERE

Two young Santa Ana attorneys had their first day in court yesterday, being assigned to represent defendants in criminal court before Superior Judge James L. Allen.

D. Harwood was assigned to defend Goldie Bolinger, accused of issuing fictitious checks. After a conference with his attorney Bolinger pleaded guilty and asked for probation. Hearing on the application was set for December 1.

John Sutton, recently admitted to the state bar, was assigned to defend Lewis LeClair, accused of burglary. LeClair pleaded not guilty to a charge of burglarizing a private garage in Anaheim, and his trial was set for December 21.

Jesus Luna pleaded guilty to a charge of issuing a fictitious check after a motion by his attorney L. W. Blodget, to set aside the information, had been denied. Blodget made the motion on the grounds that the information, as filed was dated one day earlier than the date the preliminary hearing was held. Justice of the Peace Kenneth was sworn and testified that the mistake was due to a clerical error. Luna asked for probation and hearing on the petition was set for December 1.

Denied probation on two counts of burglary Joseph A. Howard and K. Kockowski were sentenced to San Quentin on both counts, the sentences to run concurrently. They were accused of burglarizing a box car loaded with walnuts at Irvine and with burglary of the H. H. Blanken home in Tustin. Howard had plead guilt to both counts. Lockowski pleaded not guilty to burglarizing the Blanken home but yesterday changed his plea to guilty.

Ralph E. Robinson pleaded guilty to a charge of burglarizing the garage of John McCoy in Santa Ana and asked for probation. He will have a hearing on his application next Friday.

Found guilty several days ago on a charge of committing a statutory offense, Joseph Stephens was granted a new trial yesterday by Superior Judge Edward Henderson, sitting in department one. In granting the motion Judge Henderson said that he did so as the law and evidence did not support the jury verdict as there was insufficient corroborating testimony.

ECONOMIST CHARGES NATION RULED IN PAST BY MINORITY OF BIG INDUSTRIALISTS

Small and active minorities, well organized to further the objectives of their particular interests, in which groups the big industrialists hold a conspicuous place, have ruled the nation in the past through the politicians, and their influence is now being felt in carrying out the national recovery program, it was asserted by Dr. Allen Graham Laing, well known Pasadena economist in a lecture delivered last night at the Willard Junior High school auditorium.

Dr. Laing is connected with the California Institute of Technology, and the lecture formed part of the program of adult education sponsored by the board of education.

Touching upon various phases of the NRA, particularly as it related to the conflicting interests of capital and labor, the speaker took up the question of collective bargaining for labor services, considered one of the outstanding controversial issues of the recovery program.

Workers' Position

It was realized that a workman who bargains individually for the sale of his services, is at all times placed at a distinct disadvantage in dealing with the employer, Dr. Laing declared. In most cases, the workman will be glad to accept whatever wage is offered him, or go without a job, he observed. On the other hand, through collective bargaining, the individual workman is placed in a better position to deal with the employer. True enough, the employer may turn down the requests of the organized labor body and shut down his plant, but in doing so, the speaker observed, his own interests are adversely affected.

So called "company unions," composed entirely of the workmen employed by the same concern, have proved very unsatisfactory and have failed to accomplish contemplated objectives, as far as labor is concerned, the economist said. Those who are chosen as leaders or spokesmen by company unions, fearing for their own jobs, do not care to incur the displeasure of the management, hence their services in bargaining for better employment conditions, are of limited value, it was stated.

These conditions, accentuated in the large industrial districts, were given due cognizance by the framers of the NRA, hence the labor provisions were drafted with a view to freeing employees from posisibility of coercion from any source, he said.

Some Exceptions

Dr. Laing made it clear that while he favored collective bargaining by labor, he did not want to convey the impression that he supported the union labor movement in all of its activities. Many labor unions have failed to live up to their responsibilities in dealing with the general public, he stated, in which connection he referred to the Chicago building trades, which bodies were "in cahoots" with the employers in holding up the city, he charged.

Pointing to the destructive effects of unrestrained competition, the economist pointed to the early practices of the Standard Oil company in dealing with the railroads whereby the oil concern was granted rebates on freight charges. He also charged that unrestrained competition had led to misrepresentation in advertising and to questionable business practices.

Monopoly in certain lines of busiess, particularly those of a public utility character, was defended by the speaker as long as such enterprises were operated for mutual benefit of the stockholders and the consumers. But where such enterprises are abusing their protection against competition and are operated for the sole purpose of piling up profits for themselves, they should be subjected to effective control and regulation by the government, it was added.

Dr. Laing indicated that he was not favorably impressed with the recent proposal submitted by the United States Chamber of Commerce that business and industry would be permitted to govern its own affairs within the scope of the NRA, and to place supreme code authority in a group chosen by business to exercise supervision over all. Explaining his opposition to such a measure, Dr. Laing feared that it would lead to abuses in promoting selfish interests, and would soon come into conflict with the interests of labor. This in turn would lead to an undesirable state of affairs and work against the successful realization of the recovery program.

HARBOR BENEFITS EXPLAINED TO K. C.'S

The benefits of a combined pleasure and commercial harbor at Newport Bay, which would attract pleasure seekers and yacht owners from the entire Pacific coast, besides encouraging profitable coast-wise shipping, were discussed last night by A. B. Rousselle, before a large crowd gathered at the Knights of Columbus hall to participate in the big K. C. Fiesta.

The point was stressed by the speaker that the Federal government will pay two-thirds of the cost, supervise all work done, and contribute to future maintenance of the harbor, thus making it for the first time a federal project.

INSANITY PLEA IS DEFENSE IN MORALS CASE

Withdrawing his plea of guilty to a statutory offense involving a seven-year-old girl, W. L. Hicks, Santa Ana grocer, yesterday afternoon appeared before Superior Judge James L. Allen and pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity, to an amended complaint charging him with five offenses against girls ranging in age from 7 to 14 years.

When the case was called for hearing yesterday, Judge Allen flayed what he termed "outside interests that have been attempting to bring pressure on court officers" in the case. He declared that information had reached him that these "outside interests" had made serious threats against court officers. The charges, he declared, were of such nature that he felt they should be investigated by the grand jury. The investigation, he intimated, should be made to determine whether or not the charges were true and if not true an investigation of their source should be made. He did not say definitely whether or not he would place the matter before the 1933-34 inquisitorial body.

Observers were of the opinion that Judge Allen was referring to Parent-Teacher groups and officials that were active in opposing probation for Hicks when he originally pleaded guilty and filed a probation application.

Police News

John Gonzales, 23, El Paso, Tex., finishing a 30-day term in the county jail for vagrancy, was rebooked yesterday for immigration officers and will be deported.

O. H. Curry, 50, Harding station, was booked on petty theft charges at the county jail yesterday for Long Beach police, and secured his release by posting $50 bond.

James Shaw, 110 East Truslow street, Fullerton, had his car stolen last night in Fullerton, he reported to sheriff's officers.

Two bicycles were reported stolen last night in Santa Ana. Leonard Peterson, 309 West First street, had his wheel taken from the Y. M. C. A., while Frank Blake, 1011 West Highland avenue, had his vehicle stolen from Birch street, near Third.

Mrs. E. L. Fowler, 1035 Orange avenue, reported to police last night that her son lost a leather coat in the Y. M. C. A. yesterday.

Capt. Wilkie To Speak at Lathrop Fathers' Night

Captain Don Wilkie, formerly connected with the United States secret service, now a resident of Laguna Beach, will be the featured speaker on the program arranged for "Fathers' Night" of the Lathrop Junior High school, set for next Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, it was announced today by Mrs. Roy S. Horton, program chairman.

Captain Wilkie will speak on crime prevention, particularly as it relates to young people, and in this connection, it was added by Mrs. Horton, it is the desire of the program committee that parents having pupils in the school, make a special effort to be present. Because of the limited seating facilities of the Lathrop cafeteria room, where the meeting is to be held, admission will necessarily be limited to Lathrop members, it was explained.

Obituary

R. B. Wardlow, a well known pioneer of Southern California, passed away at his home 942 West Bishop street, Santa Ana, Sunday morning, November 19, at 4 a.m.

He had been in failing health for several years and took to his bed on October 5th; after six weeks of intense suffering, pneumonia developed and his death followed quickly and peacefully. His wife and children were with him constantly during his last illness.

Mr. Wardlow was of Scotch descent and was born in Bloomfield, Davis county, Iowa, December 30th, 1856, and was a son of Robert N. and Susan Eaton Wardlow, natives respectively of Ohio and Pennsylvania. Mr. Wardlow came to California in 1875 and settled near Downey in Los Angeles county. In 1878 he was married to Martha E. Draper who survives him. He was the father of six children, five of whom are left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving father: they are Robert B. of Westminster; James Ray of Talbert; Frank Leroy of Corona; Mrs. Nellie DuRall of Santa Ana; and Mrs. Stella Cheney of Santa Ana.

Mr. Wardlow moved with his family to Talbert in the Fountain Valley district in 1897 and had a great deal to do with the development of that district as at that time the district was mostly willows, tulies, wild blackberries and peet springs and the most of the land had to be cleared and drained before it could be farmed. The first school in the district was held in a small house on Mr. Wardlow's property just east of Talbert; later a school was built on Mr. Wardlow's ranch just north of Talbert.

Mr. Wardlow was known as a very progressive man, straightforward and to the point and among his friends and neighbors his word was considered as good as his bond. In summing up Mr. Wardlow's life, he was known in the community as a very successful man, noted for his industry, thrift and honesty.

Besides his widow and children Mr. Wardlow is survived by 14 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren, a sister Mrs. Ida Dickerson of Joplin, Missouri, and three brothers—Tom and Alfred of Missouri and Frank of Oakland, Calif.—Adv.

NEEDY TOLD TO ASK AID FROM COUNTY OFFICE

Engineers representing municipalities of Orange county met yesterday afternoon with County Welfare Director B. V. Curry and received application blanks to be used in filing new projects for completion under the recently inaugurated federal Civil Works program. Just before the conference between Curry and the city engineers the supervisors met with Curry and members of the Emergency Relief committee and verified establishment of a minimum wage of 45 cents per hour for unskilled labor and 81 per hour for skilled labor on the projects.

Reports reached The Register that, following announcement of the discontinuance of work relief groups of men who had been receiving this aid had made application to church and various other charity organizations for advice as to where to turn for aid. These groups were referred to the county welfare department following a statement by Curry that aid would be extended through that department.

Curry announced yesterday that while all relief work, formerly conducted by the county had been discontinued as men engaged in this work will be used on the civil works program, men not given immediate assignment to the new projects would receive help through the county welfare department, and such men could apply to his department for aid.

According to Curry 2454 men will be employed under the new program. These men will be given permanent work during the life of the program at the wage established by the federal government. These men will be chosen from the list of men receiving work under the county work relief program for 30 days prior to November 22. Curry said Friday that according to the payroll of the county work relief program for last month there were more than 2600 men receiving work relief.

With the federal program calling for employment of 2454 men at once Curry said that those men not receiving immediate assignments would receive assistance through the welfare department upon application if such assistance is necessary.

So called "company unions," composed entirely of the workmen employed by the same concern, have proved very unsatisfactory and have failed to accomplish contemplated objectives, as far as labor is concerned, the economist said. Those who are chosen as leaders or spokesmen by company unions, fearing for their own jobs, do not care to incur the displeasure of the management, hence their services in bargaining for better employment conditions, are of limited value, it was stated.

These conditions, accentuated in the large industrial districts, were given due cognizance by the framers of the NRA, hence the labor provisions were drafted with a view to freeing employees from posisbility of coercion from any source, he said.

Some Exceptions

Dr. Laing made it clear that while he favored collective bargaining by labor, he did not want to convey the impression that he supported the union labor movement in all of its activities. Many labor unions have failed to live up to their responsibilities in dealing with the general public, he stated, in which connection he referred to the Chicago building trades, which bodies were "in cahoots" with the employers in holding up the city, he charged.

Pointing to the destructive effects of unrestrained competition, the economist pointed to the early practices of the Standard Oil company in dealing with the railroads whereby the oil concern was granted rebates on freight charges. He also charged that unrestrained competition had led to misrepresentation in advertising and to questionable business practices.

Monopoly in certain lines of busiess, particularly those of a public utility character, was defended by the speaker as long as such enterprises were operated for mutual benefit of the stockholders and the consumers. But where such enterprises are abusing their protection against competition and are operated for the sole purpose of piling up profits for themselves, they should be subjected to effective control and regulation by the government, it was added.

Dr. Laing indicated that he was not favorably impressed with the recent proposal submitted by the United States Chamber of Commerce that business and industry would be permitted to govern its own affairs within the scope of the NRA, and to place supreme code authority in a group chosen by business to exercise supervision over all. Explaining his opposition to such a measure, Dr. Laing feared that it would lead to abuses in promoting selfish interests, and would soon come into conflict with the interests of labor. This in turn would lead to an undesirable state of affairs and work against the successful realization of the recovery program.

HARBOR BENEFITS EXPLAINED TO K. C.'S

The benefits of a combined pleasure and commercial harbor at Newport Bay, which would attract pleasure seekers and yacht owners from the entire Pacific coast, besides encouraging profitable coast-wise shipping, were discussed last night by A. B. Rousselle, before a large crowd gathered at the Knights of Columbus hall to participate in the big K. C. Fiesta.

The point was stressed by the speaker that the Federal government will pay two-thirds of the cost, supervise all work done, and contribute to future maintenance of the harbor, thus making it for the first time a federal project.

INSANITY PLEA IS DEFENSE IN MORALS CASE

Withdrawing his plea of guilty to a statutory offense involving a seven-year-old girl, W. L. Hicks, Santa Ana grocer, yesterday afternoon appeared before Superior Judge James L. Allen and pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity, to an amended complaint charging him with five offenses against girls ranging in age from 7 to 14 years.

When the case was called for hearing yesterday, Judge Allen flayed what he termed "outside interests that have been attempting to bring pressure on court officers" in the case. He declared that information had reached him that these "outside interests" had made serious threats against court officers. The charges, he declared, were of such nature that he felt they should be investigated by the grand jury. The investigation, he intimated, should be made to determine whether or not the charges were true and if not true an investigation of their source should be made. He did not say definitely whether or not he would place the matter before the 1933-34 inquisitorial body.

Observers were of the opinion that Judge Allen was referring to Parent-Teacher groups and officials that were active in opposing probation for Hicks when he originally pleaded guilty and filed a probation application.

Police News

John Gonzales, 23, El Paso, Tex., finishing a 30-day term in the county jail for vagrancy, was rebooked yesterday for immigration officers and will be deported.

O. H. Curry, 50, Harding station, was booked on petty theft charges at the county jail yesterday for Long Beach police, and secured his release by posting $50 bond.

James Shaw, 110 East Truslow street, Fullerton, had his car stolen last night in Fullerton, he reported to sheriff's officers.

Two bicycles were reported stolen last night in Santa Ana. Leonard Peterson, 309 West First street, had his wheel taken from the Y. M. C. A., while Frank Blake, 1011 West Highland avenue, had his vehicle stolen from Birch street, near Third.

Mrs. E. L. Fowler, 1035 Orange avenue, reported to police last night that her son lost a leather coat in the Y. M. C. A. yesterday.

Capt. Wilkie To Speak at Lathrop Fathers' Night

Captain Don Wilkie, formerly connected with the United States secret service, now a resident of Laguna Beach, will be the featured speaker on the program arranged for "Fathers' Night" of the Lathrop Junior High school, set for next Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, it was announced today by Mrs. Roy S. Horton, program chairman.

Captain Wilkie will speak on crime prevention, particularly as it relates to young people, and in this connection, it was added by Mrs. Horton, it is the desire of the program committee that parents having pupils in the school, make a special effort to be present. Because of the limited seating facilities of the Lathrop cafeteria room, where the meeting is to be held, admission will necessarily be limited to Lathrop members, it was explained.

Obituary

R. B. Wardlow, a well known pioneer of Southern California, passed away at his home 942 West Bishop street, Santa Ana, Sunday morning, November 19, at 4 a. m.

He had been in failing health for several years and took to his bed on October 5th; after six weeks of intense suffering, pneumonia developed and his death followed quickly and peacefully. His wife and children were with him constantly during his last illness.

Mr. Wardlow was of Scotch descent and was born in Bloomfield, Davis county, Iowa, December 30th, 1856, and was a son of Robert N. and Susan Eaton Wardlow, natives respectively of Ohio and Pennsylvania. Mr. Wardlow came to California in 1875 and settled near Downey in Los Angeles county. In 1878 he was married to Martha E. Draper who survives him. He was the father of six children, five of whom are left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving father: they are Robert B. of Westminster; James Ray of Talbert; Frank Leroy of Corona; Mrs. Nellie DuRall of Santa Ana; and Mrs. Stella Cheney of Santa Ana.

Mr. Wardlow moved with his family to Talbert in the Fountain Valley district in 1897 and had a great deal to do with the development of that district as at that time the district was mostly willows, tulies, wild blackberries and peet springs and the most of the land had to be cleared and drained before it could be farmed. The first school in the district was held in a small house on Mr. Wardlow's property just east of Talbert; later a school was built on Mr. Wardlow's ranch just north of Talbert.

Mr. Wardlow was known as a very progressive man, straightforward and to the point and among his friends and neighbors his word was considered as good as his bond. In summing up Mr. Wardlow's life, he was known in the community as a very successful man, noted for his industry, thrift and honesty.

Besides his widow and children Mr. Wardlow is survived by 14 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren, a sister Mrs. Ida Dickerson of Joplin, Missouri, and three brothers—Tom and Alfred of Missouri and Frank of Oakland, Calif.—Adv.

NEEDY TOLD TO ASK AID FROM COUNTY OFFICE

Engineers representing municipalities of Orange county met yesterday afternoon with County Welfare Director B. V. Curry and received application blanks to be used in filing new projects for completion under the recently inaugurated federal Civil Works program. Just before the conference between Curry and the city engineers the supervisors met with Curry and members of the Emergency Relief committee and verified establishment of a minimum wage of 45 cents per hour for unskilled labor and $1 per hour for skilled labor on the projects.

Reports reached The Register that, following announcement of the discontinuance of work relief groups of men who had been receiving this aid had made application to church and various other charity organizations for advice as to where to turn for aid. These groups were referred to the county welfare department following a statement by Curry that aid would be extended through that department.

Curry announced yesterday that while all relief work, formerly conducted by the county had been discontinued as men engaged in this work will be used on the civil works program, men not given immediate assignment to the new projects would receive help through the county welfare department, and such men could apply to his department for aid.

According to Curry 2454 men will be employed under the new program. These men will be given permanent work during the life of the program at the wage established by the federal government. These men will be chosen from the list of men receiving work under the county work relief program for 30 days prior to November 22. Curry said Friday that according to the payroll of the county work relief program for last month there were more than 2600 men receiving work relief.

With the federal program calling for employment of 2454 men at once Curry said that those men not receiving immediate assignments would receive assistance through the welfare department upon application if such assistance is necessary.

SAYS GERMANY PREPARING FOR WAR ON FRANCE

FULLERTON, Nov. 25.—"Germany, although the most outwardly modern of almost all the nations, and well disciplined, has gone back to an emotional level of barbarism from the greatest level of civilization," Dr. Herman Lissauer, director of the Modern Forum of Los Angeles, said in an address on "A Psychological Analysis of Hitlerism," before the Fullerton forum Thursday.

He further characterized Germany as doing "the most extreme thing imaginable, torturing, taking rights from old citizens, and having over 500,000 young people who never have done any work."

Germany might be compased to a case history of a mental disease, in which the patient has received a great blow, and then had a long period of strain following the blow, which causes the patient to crack mentally, he declared. Germany's heavy blow was the World war, the strain was the condition which she has lived through for 15 years, after the war, and now she is undergoing the results of the two. German people have elected leaders to express their longings, Lissauer stated.

"We live in an age in which the fundamental savage instincts have been sublimated by turning the primitive energies into work at socially useful things but unless the people are employed at such work the generation falls to primitive levels of emotional life," Lissauer declared. "This is what has happened to Germany and is going on to a lesser degree in the other countries of the world."

The leaders of Germany before the last was and at present are laboring under the delusion that they are surrounded by a ring of enemies and that they must find a way out by the use of force and violence, he said.

"The nations of the world should treat Germany as an insane person who has run amuck and should restrain her before she becomes too strong to handle and then they should show her that they mean to disarm also," he declared. "Germany is preparing for a war with her ancestral enemy, France, and that war will draw into it all the nations of the world and will have a magnitude and character that will stagger the imagination and will be so much greater than the last that there will be no comparison. The race for armaments is going on now and the munition makers are urging it to continue and the war is likely to start any day."

The Register welcomes news and Fullerton residents are urged to telephone or bring their items to the branch office, located on the north side of the California hotel building. The phone number is Fullerton 550.

WELFARE WORK IN COUNTY OUTLINED

FULLERTON, Nov. 25—William Tway, connected with the welfare department of the county, Thursday night talked on conditions in Orange county at the regular meeting of the Fullerton Woman's club, held at the home of Mrs. S. W. Fuller, with Mrs. Graham Hunter and Mrs. Lloyd Fuller as assisting hostesses.

Tway told of the growth of the work, and how in 1927-28, $50,000 was spent in the welfare department, while in the past year, ending in June, 1933, more than $277,000 of county funds had been spent, and how the county budget calls for $288,000 for the coming year. These funds are now matched by the state and the federal government, he said.

Mrs. Jennie Daniels presided and reported on the Southern District convention at La Jolla last week. The hostesses served refreshments at the close of the session.

LIGHTWEIGHTS DEFEATS BEACH TEAM, 12 TO 0

OCEANSIDE, Nov. 25.—Completely outclassing their rivals, James Roy Smith's Fullerton Union High school Indians cleared another hurdle in their way to the Southern California lightweight football title yesterday by defeating Oceanside eleven, 12 to 0.

In rolling up 14 first downs to the losers' one, the Braves made 155 yards from scrimmage while holding Oceanside to seven. Oceanside, however, completed one of 11 passes for 52 yards, while Fullerton completed five out of 12 for 70 yards.

The scoring activities were crammed into the first half. Taking the opening kickoff, the Braves drove 59 yards to their first score. Charles Hale, freshman halfback, received the distinction of scoring from the one-yard line.

Gaining considerable territory on an exchange of kicks, the Braves connected for a series of passes in which Norman Christensen, Delbert Jones and Jerry Oswald figured, to score in five plays on a 40-yard drive. Robert Weaver, sub halfback, scored.

The line-ups:

Fullerton (12)		(0) Oceanside
Folsom	LER	Phelps
Yorba	LTR	Mitchell
Merriam	LGR	Matz

FULLERTON, Nov. 25.—An innovation has been adopted by the Home Builders' class of the Fullerton Methodist church in presenting each week a short resume of the sermons presented by their pastor, the Rev. E. Dow Hoffman.

The members have a stenographer to take the sermon in shorthand. Later it is printed in booklet form. The booklets are sold for a nominal sum.

At a meeting last night, 85 members of the class voted to keep a separate class book, using the sermons as a base, and keeping in the book a history and pictures of the class, in addition to the individual books they are keeping.

Bert Merrill presided. A. S. Redfern is teacher of the class. The program included an illustrated lecture on "China" by A. C. Terrill, instructor at the Fullerton Union High school.

CAST FOR JUNIOR COLLEGE, HIGH SCHOOL PLAY SELECTED

FULLERTON, Nov. 25. — The cast for "A Christmas Carol," by Charles Dickens, which is to be presented as the annual Christmas play by the combined student bodies of Fullerton District Junior college and Union High school on Thursday and Friday, December 14 and 15, has been chosen. Mrs. Esther Culp Litchfield, junior college drama coach, chose the acting parts and Benjamin Edwards, music instructor, chose the singing parts.

Those chosen to fill the cast are Vivian Reeves and Mary Ruth Moll, who play respectively Martha and Belinda Cratchit; Doris Cull portrays Mrs. Cratchit; William Dryden carries the part of Peter; and Don Goodwin is Old Joe.

Jack Bowne plays the part of Fred and in his ensemble are Phyllis Corcoran and Charlette Greenwalt, sopranos; Hazel Mozier and Virginia Moffit, altos; Stratton Phillips, Gerald Lance and himself, bass.

James Baker plays the part of Fezziwig. Fezziwig, who sings baritone, and his quartette are the following, Orville Burns, tenor; Don Spencer, second tenor, and Stratton Phillips, bass.

GRAMMAR SCHOOLS CLOSED NEXT WEEK

FULLERTON, Nov. 25.—Fullerton grammar schools will be closed next week in a move to stop the spread of smallpox. Eleven cases are quarantined now and so far as authorities know, there are no other cases in the city.

In closing grammar schools, the health authorities requested parents to keep children from all public gatherings. The high school and junior college will remain open.

No new cases of infantile paralysis have been reported. Three students have been stricken.

'Table Setting' Topic For Club

FULLERTON, Nov. 25.—"Table Setting" was the general topic for discussion when the Etiquette club of Fullerton Union High school met Thursday afternoon in the room of the advisor, Miss Pemberton. Mildred Gage gave a short talk on serving and setting tables for formal dinners and Edwina Feemster gave a short talk on informal dinners.

Louise Soule was in charge of the program. Beverly Baxter answered the questions from the question box on etiquette.

Methodist Aid In Birthday Tea

CONDITION IMPROVED

FULLERTON, Nov. 25.—Phyllis Redfern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Redfern, who has been critically ill has been moved from the hospital to the Redfern home and is recovering rapidly, according to reports of the family.

WELFARE WORK IN COUNTY OUTLINED

FULLERTON, Nov. 25—William Tway, connected with the welfare department of the county, Thursday night talked on conditions in Orange county at the regular meeting of the Fullerton Woman's club, held at the home of Mrs. S. W. Fuller, with Mrs. Graham Hunter and Mrs. Lloyd Fuller as assisting hostesses.

Tway told of the growth of the work, and how in 1927-28, $50,000 was spent in the welfare department, while in the past year, ending in June, 1933, more than $277,000 of county funds had been spent, and how the county budget calls for $288,000 for the coming year. These funds are now matched by the state and the federal government, he said.

Mrs. Jennie Daniels presided and reported on the Southern District convention at La Jolla last week. The hostesses served refreshments at the close of the session.

METHODIST GROUP IN SOCIAL AFFAIR

FULLERTON, Nov. 25.—Members of the East Side Circle of the Methodist Aid society Thursday enjoyed a delightful social time as guests of Mrs. H. G. Meiser, Mrs. George Gordon and Mrs. C. A. Burney at the Meiser home on South Spadra road. The hostesses provided a program. Marimba numbers were played by Marlene Weber. Gingerbread, whipped cream and coffee were served.

Attending were Mrs. V. W. Roberts, Mrs. D. H. Goodwin, the Rev. E. Dow Hoffman, Mrs. Eunice White, Mrs. C. H. Kenniston, Mrs. Verna Barta, Mrs. Sousie Hargo, Miss Sophie Burdorf, Mrs. Jess Goodwin, Mrs. J. H. Willhite, Mrs. A. C. Carter, Mrs. Rose Chapman, Mrs. C. A. Lane, Mrs. D. A. LIGHTWEIGHTS DEFEATS BEACH TEAM, 12 TO 0

OCEANSIDE, Nov. 25.—Completely outclassing their rivals, James Roy Smith's Fullerton Union High school Indians cleared another hurdle in their way to the Southern California lightweight football title yesterday by defeating Oceanside eleven, 12 to 0.

In rolling up 14 first downs to the losers' one, the Braves made 155 yards from scrimmage while holding Oceanside to seven. Oceanside, however, completed one of 11 passes for 52 yards, while Fullerton completed five out of 12 for 70 yards.

The scoring activities were crammed into the first half. Taking the opening kickoff, the Braves drove 59 yards to their first score, Charles Hale, freshman halfback, received the distinction of scoring from the one-yard line.

Gaining considerable territory on an exchange of kicks, the Braves connected for a series of passes in which Norman Christensen, Delbert Jones and Jerry Oswald figured, to score in five plays on a 40-yard drive. Robert Weaver, sub halfback, scored.

The line-ups:

Fullerton (12)		(0) Oceanside
Foisom	LER	Phelps
Yorba	LTR	Mitchell
Merriam	LGR	Matz
Covey	RGL	Strand

FULLERTON, Nov. 25. — The Women's Bible class of the Fullerton Methodist church will hold its regular monthly meeting in the home of Mrs. Wade Quarton on Jacaranda at 7:30 o'clock Monday.

SERMONS PLACED IN BOOKLET FORM FOR MEMBERS OF CLASS

FULLERTON, Nov. 25.—An innovation has been adopted by the Home Builders' class of the Fullerton Methodist church in presenting each week a short resume of the sermons presented by their pastor, the Rev. E. Dow Hoffman.

The members have a stenographer to take the sermon in shorthand. Later it is printed in booklet form. The booklets are sold for a nominal sum.

At a meeting last night, 85 members of the class voted to keep a separate class book, using the sermons as a base, and keeping in the book a history and pictures of the class, in addition to the individual books they are keeping.

Bert Merrill presided. A. S. Redfern is teacher of the class. The program included an illustrated lecture on "China" by A. C. Terrill, instructor at the Fullerton Union High school.

FULLERTON, Nov. 25.—December 5 has been set as the date for a combined Christmas party to be held under auspices of the Fullerton Junior college Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. at Izaak Walton cabin.

The arrangements were completed when Bernice Minder and Nona Planting of the Y. W. C. A. and Charles Webster and Kenneth Reynolds, social chairman, met together. The affair will be a costume party and price of admittance will be a can of food.

Students Attend Play Next Month

FULLERTON, Nov. 25.—Members of El Don Quixote, Spanish club of Fullerton District Junior college, will attend "La Noche Buena Mejicana" at the Padua Hills Little theater, December 9. Preceding the play the members of the club will have dinner in Padua Hills.

This affair will take the place of the regular Christmas meeting. Reservations must be made by December 4, Miss Geneva Johnson, advisor of the club, announced.

'BIG POND' IS PRESENTED BY GIRLS' LEAGUE

FULLERTON, Nov. 25.—"The Big Pond" a comedy by George Middleton and A. E. Thomas, was presented by the Girls' league of Fullerton Union High school last night in the high school auditorium. The play was directed by Mrs. Marjorie Travers French, high school drama instructor.

Each year the Girls' league of the high school sponsors a play, the proceeds of which are added to its scholarship fund.

The cast of characters follows: Barbara Billings played by Jane Sherrod; Pierre de Mirande, Phillip Hammond; Henry Billings, Barbara's father, Richard Doutt; Mrs. Emily Billings, Lucille Neiman; Mrs. Jane Livermore, Betty Bender; Ronny Davis, Charles Sesma; Francesco, Russell Stanbro; Sarah, Winifred McCool; Molly Perkins, stenographer, Louise Holdsworth.

Willard Mason gave a vocal number in the first act. The school orchestra played as a prelude the following numbers, "Flying Ace", by March, "In a Persian Market," by Ketelby, and a "Suite Romantique," by Nevin, including the "Buona Notte," and "Canzone Amorosa". Harold Walberg directed the high school orchestra. Miss Myrtle Klahn played the organ during the first and second acts.

The production staff included Miss Myrtle Klahn, business manager; Virginia Cain, student business manager; Geraldine Wolfe, student director; Wilma Collman, Arnold Fickle and Harold Stedman, property committee; Miss Winifred Jones, publicity manager; Genevieve Townsend, student publicity manager; and the high school stagecraft class, the stage.

DONALDSON IN CHINA

FULLERTON, Nov. 25. — Dr. Graham C. Hunter has received word that J. E. Donaldson, world traveler and lecturer, well known in Fullerton, has arrived safely at Hai Phong, and has left by automobile for the Bay of Along, in French Indo-China.

This particular territory is the place where some months ago a group of travelers, of whom Donaldson was one, found a sea serpent that greatly resembled the dragon.

LEADERS OPEN TUBERCULOSIS SEAL CAMPAIGN

Broadcasting addresses over station KREG yesterday featured the opening of the annual Christmas seal campaign by the Orange County Tuberculosis association, the principal talks being made by R. W Balch, president of the association, and Miss Irene E. Carlson, field representative of the California Tuberculosis association.

In addressing an appeal for support of the campaign, Balch called attention to the fact funds derived from the sale will be used for the maintenance of clinics, nursing service, a preventorium for the care of children, and health education. In Orange county alone, he said, more than 100 persons died from tuberculosis since January, 1932, adding that for every death, there are nine active cases of tuberculosis and that every case has approximately four contacts.

Miss Carlson, pointing to work already accomplished by the sale of Christmas seals in arresting the spread of the "white plague" said that the plea for the sale of these little stamps is not a call for charity. "It is an annual call for self preservation, a call for funds with which to educate our own people, to eradicate the disease from our own state. One has only to read the bulletins issued by the association to see what has been done. Health camps, nursing service, nutrition work, clinics and extensive program in training and education are all part of this state-wide work in which Orange county has taken a prominent and commendable part," she declared.

HAT CAUSED HIS DEATH

GATESVILLE, Tex. (UP)—Because his hat blow from his head, Ellis Kelso, farmer, died of a broken neck. He sustained the injury when he fell as he leaped from a moving milk truck to recover the hat. Kelso lived only a few hours.

EXPECT U. S. TO PURCHASE HARBOR BONDS

Not only will the federal government supply a free gift of $1,194,941 toward the financing of the proposed Orange county harbor project, representing two-thirds of the cost, but furthermore will take over the entire bond issue of $640,000, if passed by the voters on December 19, at face value, thus saving the county the cost and trouble of marketing the bonds, it was explained today at the offices of the Orange County Harbor association.

The information given out at the association offices was in form of a reply to inquiries earlier in the day from private citizens regarding the feasibility of marketing the bonds at the present time. In this connection, the observation was advanced that although the county voted the bonds, there might be some difficulty in disposing them at advantageous terms, there being but a limited demand at the present time for securities of this type.

To remove any doubt on that score, and to insure satisfactory financing of the project, and resultant early employment of labor, arrangements were made by the Orange county representatives with the Washington authorities whereby the federal government will take over the bond issue and advance all of the funds needed, it was stated. The county bonds, if voted, will be held by the federal government as security for the repayment of the $640,000 at an interest rate of four per cent, inquiries revealed.

OPEN VERDICT RETURNED IN TRAFFIC DEATH

An open verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury Thursday over the body of Bert W. Ellis, 56, well-known Costa Mesa man fatally injured in an automobile wreck in Huntington Beach Tuesday afternoon.

Coroner Earl Abbey questioned Wallace Brown, 30, 716 Delaware street, Huntington Beach, driver of the car which collided with the machine of Ellis at Delaware and Quincy streets, and H. I. Grant of the Huntington Beach police department. No blame was placed for the wreck by the jury since the intersection where the crash occurred is unobstructed and visible for more than a block.

Ellis, a resident of Orange county for 50 years and of Costa Mesa for 15 years, was the forty-ninth victim of traffic crashes in Orange county this year. Christian Science funeral services were held yesterday from the Dixon-Chez um mortuary in Costa Mesa with Mrs. Bernice Fletcher officiating and Mrs. Marie Bishop as soloist.

Ellis is survived by his widow, Mrs. Gertrude Ellis of Costa Mesa; two daughters, Mrs. Frank Osborn of Anaheim and Mrs. Glenn Jones of Brea; five brothers, Thomas, Lee, Henry, Ray and Stephen, all of Fallbrook; two sisters, Mrs. Ralph Trory of San Diego and Mrs. Samuel Tomtom of Los Angeles and three grandchildren.

HORNETS

Because Acting Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau jr. considered this battle we are now in is a real war he probably felt justified in this stringent clamping of the lid on all utterances that go out of his new Department.

Because the war is economic and lacking in large-scale slaughter and the other things that boost us to patriotic heights, he probably is going to run into a lot of trouble before he rounds first base.

The trouble was his approach was wrong. He could have attained the same end—such as it will be—by indirection and not stirred up a hornet's nest among the gentlemen of the press.

Henry knows that all the "Treasury Order No. 1's" in the world won't stop his subordinates from slipping sly bits to their newspaper friends in the cool of the evening.

Hence issuance of that order was a red flag to a bull. The lads who have reported events from the Treasury for years kicked straight to the President and the complaint was justified. Such new brooms as Morgenthau and his imported assistants will have to spend some time finding the way to plenty routine news of importance that has been out on the counter heretofore. Newsmen bring as much to their friends as they ever take away.

GOLDBACKS

The order routing all future information solely through Herbert E. Gaston, for seven years assistant to the new Acting Secretary, looked all the more suspicious in the light of impending events.

You don't have to edge far to learn that the administration is on the verge of a new move in world and domestic finance. Word has been spread in usually reliable New York quarters that we are about to extract a given amount of gold from the dollar, peg its value and issue goldbacks on the new ratio rather than greenbacks.

Sudden battening down of the Treasury doors to the public's information seekers has set the boys to figuring.

Can it be, they ask each other, that we are getting another carefully planted batch of propaganda just in advance of a federal funding operation? Twice before, just in advance of the Treasury's issuance of short-term notes to keep cash in the till, we heard that inflation was out and stabilization was just around the corner.

Then Treasury notes were successfully floated and manipulation of the dollar went merrily on.

Something in excess of $700,000,000 in government securities must be sold against the 15th of December. Nervousness resulting from fear the administration is going to inflate hasn't helped the government security market. Reassurances at the moment would tend to tranquilize the situation.

Twice before, the Treasury reporters have heard the cry of wolf from odd corners. They wonder whether the administration is now engaged in a repetition of the game.

They may be wrong. New York reports of stabilization are much more definite this time. Also the Treasury is sewed up much tighter against confirmation or denial.

A LA CARTE

Drawing one from the crystal bowl, we prophesy the Interstate Commerce Commission shortly will approve the application of the Pennsylvania, Erie and Grand Trunk Railroads for inauguration of a one-year trial of store-door delivery of freight in less-than-carload lots.

Designed to regain lost business by improving service rather than reducing rates, it is aimed at competition of the trucking interests.

If the roads get the expected permission, they will be able to deliver goods right to the door of the consignee provided they came from within a 260-mile radius.

The carriers estimate additional terminal charges and trucking costs will stand them about $80,000 a month.

Truckmen representatives fought the proposal tooth and nail as a direct violation of the I. C. C. Act.

TEST

Rightly or wrongly West Virginia's Tuesday election will be called a test of the Roosevelt administration's popular strength.

In the third Congressional district Andrew J. Edmiston, jr., Democrat, is seeking the House seat of the late Rep. Lynn S. Hornor. Since 1926 the district has been Democratic with the exception of the 1928 Hoover landslide when the Republican squeezed in by a bare 690 votes.

But the G. O. P. is keen to make a test next week and have put up their strongest man against Edmiston—Howard Gore, former Governor and Secretary of Agriculture in the Coolidge administration.

HOLES

Ever since NRA was conceived its bosses have burned midnight oil to work out a model code for all industry. Five were produced only to get batted back into the dugout by administration critics.

The other day No. 6 was evolved. It looked perfect and everybody shook hands. Fifteen hundred or more copies were printed up and some of them got into the mail.

Then Madame Secretary of Labor Perkins saw it. She shot the phraseology of the labor sections full of holes. They're working on No. 7.

NOTES

When President Roosevelt gets back from Warm Springs he has promised to sit for a bust by Jo Davidson, the top-notch sculptor. . . . The bust will be auctioned off for the benefit of the unemployed. . . . When the Disarmament Conference's General Commission meets again in December our Ambassador-at-Large, Norman Davis, is apt to be missing. . . . It's reliably reported that Al Smith asked President Roosevelt to give Eddie Cantor a break in his fight for actors' rights in the movie code. . . . The comedian is a good friend of Al's.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

FEDERAL RESERVE

The Treasury Department's star is on the rise and the Federal Reserve's is on the wane. You can expect to see the Treasury gradually taking over the dominant position in financial affairs long held by the Federal Reserve.

Officers of the New York Federal Reserve Bank have carried out government orders on the gold purchase policy without quibbling. They have scrupulously avoided anything that savors of obstruction in executing this policy and others. But their lack of sympathy for the President's monetary objectives is an open secret and their advice is asked only on matters of technique.

Sweeping changes among the higher ranks of Federal Reserve officials may develop in the next few months. Congressional pressure will be brought to bear after the first of the year if nothing happens before. Regardless of personal shifts New York critics insist that the Federal Reserve is slated to become the Treasury's compliant assistant.

The big New York banks are wondering whether the government will try to crack down on their published opinions as it did with the Federal Reserve Bulletin. Anti-inflation sentiments in the publications of the Guaranty Trust and National City have been caustically criticized by inflationists with high grade Washington connections. They say "Something must be done before the banks scare the people to death." So far there have been no official intimations of censoring but bankers expect at least a suggestion to tone down. One of them talks of making an issue if the question arises

The R. F. C. effort to pump out one billion dollars of fresh capital funds to the banks by the end of the year will fall short. Inside estimates run to less than half that figure. The New York group will finally sell around $100,000,000 of debentures instead of the $200,000,000 originally planned.

The R. F. C. has yielded one point to the Mellon influence in Pittsburgh. It has unofficially expressed a willingness to negotiate terms with each individual bank—that can prove it is strong—if the banks will only play. The idea of a blanket proposition to apply the same terms to all banks has gone quietly overboard.

New York hears that a number of mid-western banks have held out strenuously but secretly against joining the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. The combined pressure of the Treasury, Federal Reserve and R. F. C. have been used on them and in the end they will probably join the parade.

Local bankers learn that they still have something to be thankful about. They're not as badly off as their German colleagues. Recent reports indicate that Hitler has decreed the limitation of officers' salaries in banks receiving aid from the State to the equivalent of $6000 a year maximum. This includes all but a handful of German institutions. What a blow that would be if applied here!

Some of the wisest money in Wall Street hopped into the stock market on the bull side at the beginning of this week. The big-time financiers who did it have been talking—and acting—bearish for some time and they forgot to tell their followers they had changed their minds. The said followers are madder than hops.

The about-face is significant because it implies belief in the success of the Roosevelt price-raising measures. This is something to bear in mind as you watch the bitter-end battle for sound money.

Experts following the British debt discussions think the talk revolves at present around the possibility of Roosevelt securing British cooperation for his price-raising program. If Britain will play ball the President is expected to recommend reductions to Congress on the ground that the advantages obtained from higher prices will more than offset any loss on debts.

New York will be unruffled if the Treasury decides to issue a new silver currency based on Britain's $10,000,000 "token" debt payment.

GRAIN

The recent arrival of the former directors of the German grain monopoly has given substance to rumors that foreign experts will have something to do with the reorganization of our commodity markets. The two key men are Carl Scheuer and Erhart Sinasson. They were chiefly responsible for the stabilization of the German grain markets and the success of the various farm relief measures. That did not prevent Hitler from forcing them out for racial reasons.

Sumner Welles is returning to Cuba because his recall would have been tacit admission of a mistaken policy. But insiders say you can expect him to keep mighty mum from now on.

SIDELIGHTS

The exotic appearance of German Minister of Propaganda Goebbels has inspired Berliners to many a nickname. . . . The latest is Mahatma Propagandhi. . . . Aviation experts are keen about the new Douglass plane. . . . It can take off and climb to 9000 feet with a full load on one motor.

NEW LEADERS IN CARRIERS' CASH CONTEST

A count of the votes in the Register Carriers' "Cash for Christmas" contest shows a complete change in leaders, R. M. Conklin, circulation manager, stated today. Great interest is being shown by the carriers as the race continues and at this point, midway between the start and finish, more votes have been piled up than in any other carrier race yet conducted, he said.

Roy Potter who has 42,000 votes, heads the city group over J. D. Cobb, second with 38,000. Lemoine Strickland still retains third place, having earned 32,000 votes, and Ory Noche has 27,000 votes and is in fourth place.

In the suburban group R. M. Caples, of Orange, heads the group with 50,000 votes. Carl Davis, Orange carrier, retains second place with 39,000 votes, while La Vern Rees, also of Orange, is in third place with 29,000. David Watters, Laguna carrier is in fourth position with 24,000 votes earned.

Complete standings of all carriers appear on page 3 of today's Register.

Congressman To Return To Capital After Christmas

Congressman Sam L. Collins of Fullerton, whose district embraces Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties, today announced that according to present plans he expects to leave for Washington on Tuesday, December 26, to be on hand for the next session of congress which begins January 3.

Miss Eunice MacDonald, formerly secretary to former Congressman Phil D. Swing, and now on Congressman Collins' office staff, will accompany Collins to Washington, it was stated. His office here will remain open during his absence, with Miss Pauline Knapp in charge.

Collins remarked that judging from contacts with other members of congress, there is a widespread dissension in the ranks of the Democrats which undoubtedly will find expression on the floors of both houses. This difference of opinion, he added, centers itself mainly about the monetary policies of the Roosevelt administration and patronage. Coupled with this observation, the Orange county legislator stated that he would exercise his individual judgment on all controversial questions and vote for what he thought would be for the best interests of the people.

PLAN EXTENSIVE FLOOD WORK IN UPPER COUNTY

Continuance of San Bernardino county's program of flood control in the upper reaches of the Santa Ana river will be effected with the employing of the major portion of the men to be given employment under the new civil works program, a federal project, it was learned today.

A total of 4086 San Bernardino county residents, including 1225 from the city of San Bernardino, will be given work in the new federal civil works program, according to reports. Orange county's share has been set at 2454 men in program.

The continuance of the flood control work in San Bernardino will be the major item of the civil works program in that county, it was learned. With the exception of the city of San Bernardino, most of the men allocated to the county will be used on debris cone and other conservation work near their home cities, it was said.

Mayor O. W. Seccombe, San Bernardino, according to newspaper reports, has instructed the San Bernardino city engineer to rush plans and specifications for several projects, to supplement the Lytle creek flood control channel job, both of which were said to be ready for immediate transfer to the civil works program.

LEADERS OPEN TUBERCULOSIS SEAL CAMPAIGN

Broadcasting addresses over station KREG yesterday featured the opening of the annual Christmas seal campaign by the Orange County Tuberculosis association, the principal talks being made by R. W Balch, president of the association, and Miss Irene E. Carlson, field representative of the California Tuberculosis association.

In addressing an appeal for support of the campaign, Balch called attention to the fact funds derived from the sale will be used for the maintenance of clinics, nursing service, a preventorium for the care of children, and health education. In Orange county alone, he said, more than 100 persons died from tuberculosis since January, 1932, adding that for every death, there are nine active cases of tuberculosis and that every case has approximately four contacts.

Miss Carlson, pointing to work already accomplished by the sale of Christmas seals in arresting the spread of the "white plague" said that the plea for the sale of these little stamps is not a call for charity. "It is an annual call for self preservation, a call for funds with which to educate our own people, to eradicate the disease from our own state. One has only to read the bulletins issued by the association to see what has been done. Health camps, nursing service, nutrition work, clinics and extensive program in training and education are all part of this state-wide work in which Orange county has taken a prominent and commendable part," she declared.

EXPECT U. S. TO PURCHASE HARBOR BONDS

Not only will the federal government supply a free gift of $1,194,941 toward the financing of the proposed Orange county harbor project, representing two-thirds of the cost, but furthermore will take over the entire bond issue of $640,000. if passed by the voters on December 19, at face value, thus saving the county the cost and trouble of marketing the bonds, it was explained today at the offices of the Orange County Harbor association.

The information given out at the association offices was in form of a reply to inquiries earlier in the day from private citizens regarding the feasibility of marketing the bonds at the present time. In this connection, the observation was advanced that although the county voted the bonds, there might be some difficulty in disposing them at advantageous terms, there being but a limited demand at the present time for securities of this type.

To remove any doubt on that score, and to insure satisfactory financing of the project, and resultant early employment of labor, arrangements were made by the Orange county representatives with the Washington authorities whereby the federal government will take over the bond issue and advance all of the funds needed, it was stated. The county bonds, if voted, will be held by the federal government as security for the repayment of the $640,000 at an interest rate of four per cent, inquiries revealed.

OPEN VERDICT RETURNED IN TRAFFIC DEATH

An open verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury Thursday over the body of Bert W. Ellis, 56, well-known Costa Mesa man fatally injured in an automobile wreck in Huntington Beach Tuesday afternoon.

Coroner Earl Abbey questioned Wallace Brown, 30, 716 Delaware street, Huntington Beach, driver of the car which collided with the machine of Ellis at Delaware and Quincy streets, and H. I. Grant of the Huntington Beach police department. No blame was placed for the wreck by the jury since the intersection where the crash occurred is unobstructed and visible for more than a block.

Ellis, a resident of Orange county for 50 years and of Costa Mesa for 15 years, was the forty-ninth victim of traffic crashes in Orange county this year. Christian Science funeral services were held yesterday from the Dixon-Chez um mortuary in Costa Mesa with Mrs. Bernice Fletcher officiating and Mrs. Marie Bishop as soloist.

Ellis is survived by his widow, Mrs. Gertrude Ellis of Costa Mesa; two daughters, Mrs. Frank Osborn of Anaheim and Mrs. Glenn Jones of Brea; five brothers, Thomas, Lee, Henry, Ray and Stephen, all of Fallbrook; two sisters, Mrs. Ralph Trory of San Diego and Mrs. Samuel Tomtom of Los Angeles and three grandchildren.

HORNETS

Because Acting Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau jr. considered this battle we are now in is a real war he probably felt justified in this stringent clamping of the lid on all utterances that go out of his new Department.

Because the war is economic and lacking in large-scale slaughter and the other things that boost us to patriotic heights, he probably is going to run into a lot of trouble before he rounds first base.

The trouble was his approach was wrong. He could have attained the same end—such as it will be—by indirection and not stirred up a hornet's nest among the gentlemen of the press.

Henry knows that all the "Treasury Order No. 1's" in the world won't stop his subordinates from slipping sly bits to their newspaper friends in the cool of the evening.

Hence issuance of that order was a red flag to a bull. The lads who have reported events from the Treasury for years kicked straight to the President and the complaint was justified. Such new brooms as Morgenthau and his imported assistants will have to spend some time finding the way to plenty routine news of importance that has been out on the counter heretofore. Newsmen bring as much to their friends as they ever take away.

The order routing all future information solely through Herbert E. Gaston, for seven years assistant to the new Acting Secretary, looked all the more suspicious in the light of impending events.

You don't have to edge far to learn that the administration is on the verge of a new move in world and domestic finance. Word has been spread in usually reliable New York quarters that we are about to extract a given amount of gold from the dollar, peg its value and issue goldbacks on the new ratio rather than greenbacks.

Sudden battening down of the Treasury doors to the public's information seekers has set the boys to figuring.

Can it be, they ask each other, that we are getting another carefully planted batch of propaganda just in advance of a federal funding operation? Twice before, just in advance of the Treasury's issuance of short-term notes to keep cash in the till, we heard that inflation was out and stabilization was just around the corner.

Then Treasury notes were successfully floated and manipulation of the dollar went merrily on.

Something in excess of $700,000,000 in government securities must be sold against the 15th of December. Nervousness resulting from fear the administration is going to inflate hasn't helped the government security market. Reassurances at the moment would tend to tranquilize the situation.

Twice before, the Treasury reporters have heard the cry of wolf from odd corners. They wonder whether the administration is now engaged in a repetition of the game.

They may be wrong. New York reports of stabilization are much more definite this time. Also the Treasury is sewed up much tighter against confirmation or denial.

A LA CARTE

Drawing one from the crystal bowl, we prophesy the Interstate Commerce Commission shortly will approve the application of the Pennsylvania, Erie and Grand Trunk Railroads for inauguration of a one-year trial of store-door delivery of freight in less-than-carload lots.

Designed to regain lost business by improving service rather than reducing rates, it is aimed at competition of the trucking interests.

If the roads get the expected permission, they will be able to deliver goods right to the door of the consignee provided they came from within a 260-mile radius.

The carriers estimate additional terminal charges and trucking costs will stand them about $80,000 a month.

Truckmen representatives fought the proposal tooth and nail as a direct violation of the I. C. C. Act.

TEST

Rightly or wrongly West Virginia's Tuesday election will be called a test of the Roosevelt administration's popular strength.

In the third Congressional district Andrew J. Edmiston, jr., Democrat, is seeking the House seat of the late Rep. Lynn S. Hornor. Since 1926 the district has been Democratic with the exception of the 1928 Hoover landslide when the Republican squeezed in by a bare 690 votes.

But the G. O. P. is keen to make a test next week and have put up their strongest man against Edmiston—Howard Gore, former Governor and Secretary of Agriculture in the Coolidge administration.

HOLES

Ever since NRA was conceived its bosses have burned midnight oil to work out a model code for all industry. Five were produced only to get batted back into the dugout by administration critics.

The other day No. 6 was evolved. It looked perfect and everybody shook hands. Fifteen hundred or more copies were printed up and some of them got into the mail.

Then Madame Secretary of Labor Perkins saw it. She shot the phraseology of the labor sections full of holes. They're working on No. 7.

FEDERAL RESERVE

The Treasury Department's star is on the rise and the Federal Reserve's is on the wane. You can expect to see the Treasury gradually taking over the dominant position in financial affairs long held by the Federal Reserve.

Officers of the New York Federal Reserve Bank have carried out government orders on the gold purchase policy without quibbling. They have scrupulously avoided anything that savors of obstruction in executing this policy and others. But their lack of sympathy for the President's monetary objectives is an open secret and their advice is asked only on matters of technique.

Sweeping changes among the higher ranks of Federal Reserve officials may develop in the next few months. Congressional pressure will be brought to bear after the first of the year if nothing happens before. Regardless of personal shifts New York critics insist that the Federal Reserve is slated to become the Treasury's compliant assistant.

OPINIONS

The big New York banks are wondering whether the government will try to crack down on their published opinions as it did with the Federal Reserve Bulletin. Anti-inflation sentiments in the publications of the Guaranty Trust and National City have been caustically criticized by inflationists with high grade Washington connections. They say "Something must be done before the banks scare the people to death." So far there have been no official intimations of censoring but bankers expect at least a suggestion to tone down. One of them talks of making an issue if the question arises

BANKS

The R. F. C. effort to pump out one billion dollars of fresh capital funds to the banks by the end of the year will fall short. Inside estimates run to less than half that figure. The New York group will finally sell around $100,000,000 of debentures instead of the $200,000,000 originally planned.

The R. F. C. has yielded one point to the Mellon influence in Pittsburgh. It has unofficially expressed a willingness to negotiate terms with each individual bank—that can prove it is strong—if the banks will only play. The idea of a blanket proposition to apply the same terms to all banks has gone quietly overboard.

New York hears that a number of mid-western banks have held out strenuously but secretly against joining the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. The combined pressure of the Treasury, Federal Reserve and R. F. C. have been used on them and in the end they will probably join the parade.

THANKFUL

Local bankers learn that they still have something to be thankful about. They're not as badly off as their German colleagues. Recent reports indicate that Hitler has decreed the limitation of officers' salaries in banks receiving aid from the State to the equivalent of $6000 a year maximum. This includes all but a handful of German institutions. What a blow that would be if applied here!

Some of the wisest money in Wall Street hopped into the stock market on the bull side at the beginning of this week. The big-time financiers who did it have been talking—and acting—bearish for some time and they forgot to tell their followers they had changed their minds. The said followers are madder than hops.

The about-face is significant because it implies belief in the success of the Roosevelt price-raising measures. This is something to bear in mind as you watch the bitter-end battle for sound money.

Experts following the British debt discussions think the talk revolves at present around the possibility of Roosevelt securing British cooperation for his price-raising program. If Britain will play ball the President is expected to recommend reductions to Congress on the ground that the advantages obtained from higher prices will more than offset any loss on debts.

New York will be unruffled if the Treasury decides to issue a new silver currency based on Britain's $10,000,000 "token" debt payment.

GRAIN

The recent arrival of the former directors of the German grain monopoly has given substance to rumors that foreign experts will have something to do with the reorganization of our commodity markets. The two key men are Carl Scheuer and Erhart Sinasson. They were chiefly responsible for the stabilization of the German grain markets and the success of the various farm relief measures. That did not prevent Hitler from forcing them out for racial reasons.

MUM

Sumner Welles is returning to Cuba because his recall would have been tacit admission of a mistaken policy. But insiders say you can expect him to keep mighty mum from now on.

SIDELIGHTS

The exotic appearance of German Minister of Propaganda Goebbels has inspired Berliners to many a nickname. . . . The latest is Mahatma Propagandhi. . . . Aviation experts are keen about the new Douglass plane. . . . It can take off and climb to 9000 feet with a full load on one motor.

Enough Food for All Mankind Going to Waste in the Sea

The Atlantic alone is estimated to have the equivalent of 20,000 world wheat harvests---in such dissolved form, however, that living things can't get hold of it

If Father Neptune cared to have a banquet, his mermaids could bring him an endless succession of "meat and potato" dishes—all culled from the sea water.

By Dr. Frank Thone

WILL Old Ocean swallow all the food?

Is Father Neptune a miserly hoarder, locking up in his vast cupboard a gradually accumulating pile of potential meat and bread, so fixed that neither man nor beast nor fish nor plant can ever make use of it?

Will the sea, which many believe to be the original cradle of all life, eventually become the grave of all life?

Questions pointing in this direction were recently asked before an international meeting of scientists in Chicago by Dr. August Krogh of Copenhagen, a noted physiologist.

How much energy that can be used for the purpose of life, Dr. Krogh inquired, is to be found in the ocean, and how large a fraction of that total is "unavailable"—locked up in such forms that living things cannot get hold of it?

The figures for the "lost" food in the ocean which Dr. Krogh has reached through experiment and calculation are astonishing, and may well be alarming. The Atlantic Ocean alone, he estimates, has the equivalent of 20,000 times the whole world's annual wheat crop locked up in dissolved foods which no known plant or animal life in the sea can make use of.

The method by which this astonishing total was reached shows an interesting combination of experimental ingenuity and sweeping imagination in the mind of the Danish scientist.

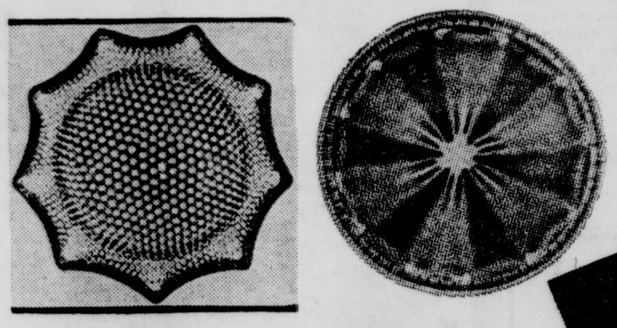

FIRST he analyzed samples of sea water from the Atlantic, until he found that their chemical make-up was very nearly uniform, no matter at what depth they were taken. That simplified matters considerably; he did not have to allow for depth changes in his later calculations.

Then he determined, by quite difficult chemical processes, how much combined nitrogen, or protein material, there was in a cubic meter of it. (A cubic meter is a little more than a cubic yard.)

The total protein-stuff in a cubic meter figured out, Dr. Krogh next subtracted all of it that was represented by animals and plants that could be strained out, ranging in size from microscopic one-celled creatures to good-sized fishes. He allowed also for such monsters as whales and sharks, that are not found in any given average cubic meter of sea water.

The difference between the total protein material and the "organized" protein in the organisms represented the life-stuff actually dissolved in the water, and, for the time being at least, not in use by anything or anybody. This figured out as 1.5 grams (about 1-20 of an ounce) to a cubic meter—not so very concentrated.

By a similar process, Dr. Krogh determined that the average amount of carbohydrate in ocean water is 3.9 grams (about 2-15 of an ounce) to a cubic meter. If we figure protein as meat and carbohydrate as potato—really a pretty close representation of their chemical nature, at that—it becomes pretty obvious why the dissolved foods in the sea water are not being used. One-twentieth of an ounce of meat and two-fifteenths of an ounce of potato in over a cubic yard of water make a mighty thin soup. Not much nourishment in it for anybody, even a tiny germ.

Here are two diatoms, the drifting open sea plants which are the ultimate source of almost all food eaten by sea creatures.

BUT there is a most appalling quantity of that thin soup. The Atlantic Ocean alone has an area of about 90,000,000 square kilometers, or 35,000,000 square miles. Its mean depth is 4000 meters, or roughly 13,000 feet.

Put that through your calculating machine, and you come out with something like a quadrillion (a million times a million) cubic meters. All that cold salt water holding dissolved, in each cubic meter, a nibble of meat, a small bite of potato!

Not remarkable, then, that the old Atlantic has locked up in its meager cupboard the food-equivalent of 20,000 world wheat harvests. If you like to juggle with endless strings of ciphers, you might try adding in the much bigger Pacific and the rest of the oceans.

Is all this dissolved food actually useless? Isn't there anything, any class of animals in the whole vast ocean, that can get some good out of it? The very notion of 20,000 wasted wheat harvests runs against the streak o Scotch that is in even the least thrifty of us.

It doesn't look as though there were. Other scientists besides Dr. Krogh have puzzled their heads over that problem of the apparent awful waste of the ocean, and some of them have suggested various types of animal life—protozoa sponges, even fishes—as able to soak up their nourishment directly out of the dissolved foodstuffs in the water.

DR. KROGH will not commit himself to a declaration that they can't. But he remains skeptical. Some experiments of his own have indicated that certain forms of water life can take up dissolved foods directly from the water; but they also threw in a joker: the same animals lost food materials to the water faster than they took food out.

What is the source of this vast store of "lost" food? Where does it come from—how it is made?

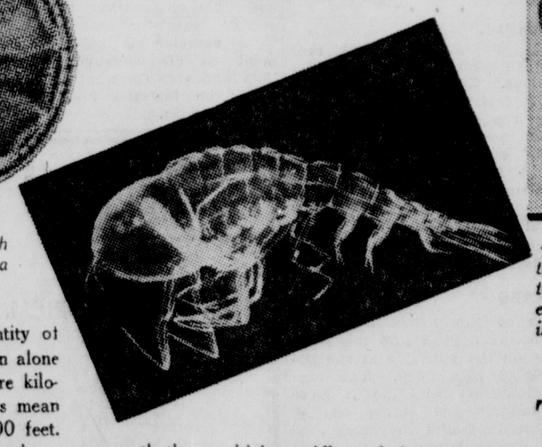

For the most part it is made in the ocean itself, and by inhabitants of the ocean. It is the product of minute plants that float in the sunlit water near the surface; for the most part the group of plants known as diatoms, "the grass of the sea."

Where conditions are favorable for their growth they multiply rapidly and the water is thick with them, so that the sea is green. Blue, the natural color of sea water, betokens few diatoms, an empty sea, a desert sea.

In reckoning the life of the ocean, one should leave out of account the inshore waters and the shallow seas. These properly belong to the continents. They receive special gifts of minerals and organic debris from the rivers that flow into them, and they also offer foothold for seaweed and animal life.

But the open ocean is not thus dependent on the crusts that fall from the table of the land. Except for the mineral gifts from the land, via rivers, blown dust, and showers of ash from volcanic eruptions, the open ocean needs to thank the land for little. Its inhabitants make their own lives.

As deep into the ocean as sunlight can penetrate, plants live. Like land plants, these minute plants of the ocean, the diatoms, cannot live without light. With the aid of light, they, like land plants, take carbon dioxide and water and fashion them into food: carbohydrates first, the energy foods, then with the addition of nitrogen the proteins, the muscle foods.

At the left is one of sea creatures which feed on the smaller plant and animal forms, and which in turn are eaten by larger fish, so that diatoms are eventually built up into whale flesh. . . . Above is one of the hideous fish which exist—no one quite knows how—at the bottom of the sea.

THIS food-making activity of plants is basic, indispensable, in the cycle of life whether on land or in the ocean; for animals cannot make their own foods but must eat plants, or other animals that have first eaten the plants, in order to live.

This plant life in the ocean swarms thickest near the surface. Usually the greatest numbers of diatoms are right at the surface, where the sunlight is strongest. Anyway, the top 600 feet or so of the water contains practically all the plant life of the ocean, and the next 600 feet below that contains all the rest.

It is interesting to note that practically all the plant life of the open ocean is one-celled, microscopic. Nothing anywhere near as big as a tree, practically nothing as big as a clump of grass. Why?

First, the ceaseless motion of the waves and currents would not permit the growth of large plants; they would tear them to pieces. Then there is the absorption surface advantage that goes with small size. The little fellow can live best on a thin diet.

Another advantage that small size gives the diatom, in Dr. Krogh's opinion, is that it slows down their rate of sinking.

These tiny plants have no aids to flotation that we know about. As soon as they come into existence they begin to sink. But since they are so small the water offers more resistance to their sinking, and they can stay in the all-necessary sunlight near the surface long enough to carry on their part in the food-making cycle.

ALL these tiny plants are fed upon by all manner of almost equally tiny animals. Most of these animals are one-celled like themselves—they are the protozoa. But there are also swarms of others, some of them barely visible to the naked eye, some still microscopic, that are more complex.

Many of these are minute relatives of crabs and lobsters. These feed alike on the plants and on the protozoa, and in their turn become the prey of larger animals of their own kind or of small fishes. Larger fishes eat them, and are themselves eaten by still larger ones, or by the giant squid that the sperm whales feed upon. It is an endless cycle of eating and being eaten.

Down through this zone of ceaseless kill-and-be-killed drift the diatoms as they grow older. If they are not eaten, they dissolve. Their life-stuff, their protoplasm, dies and filters out through their hard silica shells, their stored food-reserve of oil is dissipated, at last even the silica shells dissolve in the all-claiming sea. The dead diatom has contributed its bit to the ocean's vast kettle of inedibly thin soup.

But though the diatom lives in the top thousand feet or so of the ocean, and dissolves before it sinks far beneath it, there is life, very varied life, all the way to the bottom. And on the ocean floor itself there is life. Strange, crawling, spidery, long-legged crabs; gaping fishes that seem to be all mouth, perhaps decorated with luminous spots or with a shining lure for their prey hung over their mouths; lovely, graceful stalked crinoids or sea-lilies, which are lace-like relatives of star-fishes, turned upside down on their stems.

These and many other things on the still almost unknown floor of the sea. And they must all eat. On what do they feed in those barren and lifeless depths?

Dr. Krogh says frankly that he doesn't know. In the first place, before the table is set, one must count the guests; and as yet we really have no statistical knowledge of life in the ocean depths. Dr. Krogh is inclined to believe that the population of the dark world down there is rather scant: nets and traps lowered into the deeper waters bring up strange creatures, but not many of them; a trawl-net dragged along the bottom until it has scraped an area as big as a cornfield will bring up perhaps a couple of hundred animals of all kinds, perhaps nothing at all.

ENOUGH FOOD for ALL MANKIND GOING to WASTE in the SEA

The Atlantic alone is estimated to have the equivalent of 20,000 world wheat harvests---in such dissolved form, however, that living things can't get hold of it

If Father Neptune cared to have a banquet, his mermaids could bring him an endless succession of "meat and potato" dishes—all culled from the sea water.

By Dr. Frank Thone

WILL Old Ocean swallow all the food?

Is Father Neptune a miserly hoarder, locking up in his vast cupboard a gradually accumulating pile of potential meat and bread, so fixed that neither man nor beast nor fish nor plant can ever make use of it?

Will the sea, which many believe to be the original cradle of all life, eventually become the grave of all life?

Questions pointing in this direction were recently asked before an international meeting of scientists in Chicago by Dr. August Krogh of Copenhagen, a noted physiologist.

How much energy that can be used for the purpose of life, Dr. Krogh inquired, is to be found in the ocean, and how large a fraction of that total is "unavailable"—locked up in such forms that living things cannot get hold of it?

The figures for the "lost" food in the ocean which Dr. Krogh has reached through experiment and calculation are astonishing, and may well be alarming. The Atlantic Ocean alone, he estimates, has the equivalent of 20,000 times the whole world's annual wheat crop locked up in dissolved foods which no known plant or animal life in the sea can make use of.

The method by which this astonishing total was reached shows an interesting combination of experimental ingenuity and sweeping imagination in the mind of the Danish scientist.

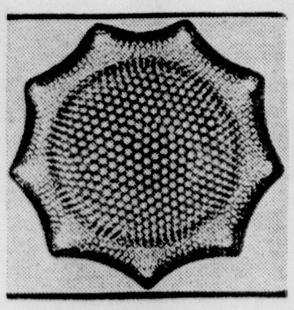

FIRST he analyzed samples of sea water from the Atlantic, until he found that their chemical make-up was very nearly uniform, no matter at what depth they were taken. That simplified matters considerably; he did not have to allow for depth changes in his later calculations.

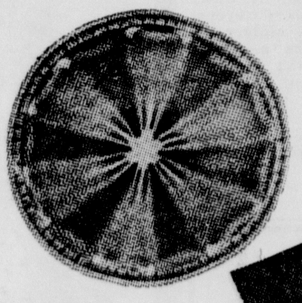

Then he determined, by quite difficult chemical processes, how much combined nitrogen, or protein material, there was in a cubic meter of it. (A cubic meter is a little more than a cubic yard.)

The total protein-stuff in a cubic meter figured out, Dr. Krogh next subtracted all of it that was represented by animals and plants that could be strained out, ranging in size from microscopic one-celled creatures to good-sized fishes. He allowed also for such monsters as whales and sharks, that are not found in any given average cubic meter of sea water.

The difference between the total protein material and the "organized" protein in the organisms represented the life-stuff actually dissolved in the water, and, for the time being at least, not in use by anything or anybody. This figured out as 1.5 grams (about 1-20 of an ounce) to a cubic meter—not so very concentrated.

By a similar process, Dr. Krogh determined that the average amount of carbohydrate in ocean water is 3.9 grams (about 2-15 of an ounce) to a cubic meter. If we figure protein as meat and carbohydrate as potato—really a pretty close representation of their chemical nature, at that—it becomes pretty obvious why the dissolved foods in the sea water are not being used. One-twentieth of an ounce of meat and two-fifteenths of an ounce of potato in over a cubic yard of water make a mighty thin soup. Not much nourishment in it for anybody, even a tiny germ.

Here are two diatoms, the drifting open sea plants which are the ultimate source of almost all food eaten by sea creatures.

BUT there is a most appalling quantity of that thin soup. The Atlantic Ocean alone has an area of about 90,000,000 square kilometers, or 35,000,000 square miles. Its mean depth is 4000 meters, or roughly 13,000 feet.

Put that through your calculating machine, and you come out with something like a quadrillion (a million times a million) cubic meters. All that cold salt water holding dissolved, in each cubic meter, a nibble of meat, a small bite of potato!

Not remarkable, then, that the old Atlantic has locked up in its meager cupboard the food-equivalent of 20,000 world wheat harvests. If you like to juggle with endless strings of ciphers, you might try adding in the much bigger Pacific and the rest of the oceans.

Is all this dissolved food actually useless? Isn't there anything, any class of animals in the whole vast ocean, that can get some good out of it? The very notion of 20,000 wasted wheat harvests runs against the streak o Scotch that is in even the least thrifty of us.

It doesn't look as though there were. Other scientists besides Dr. Krogh have puzzled their heads over that problem of the apparent awful waste of the ocean, and some of them have suggested various types of animal life—protozoa sponges, even fishes—as able to soak up their nourishment directly out of the dissolved foodstuffs in the water.

DR. KROGH will not commit himself to a declaration that they can't. But he remains skeptical. Some experiments of his own have indicated that certain forms of water life can take up dissolved foods directly from the water; but they also threw in a joker: the same animals lost food materials to the water faster than they took food out.

What is the source of this vast store of "lost" food? Where does it come from—how it is made?

For the most part it is made in the ocean itself, and by inhabitants of the ocean. It is the product of minute plants that float in the sunlit water near the surface; for the most part the group of plants known as diatoms, "the grass of the sea."

Where conditions are favorable for their growth they multiply rapidly and the water is thick with them, so that the sea is green. Blue, the natural color of sea water, betokens few diatoms, an empty sea, a desert sea.

At the left is one of sea creatures which feed on the smaller plant and animal forms, and which in turn are eaten by larger fish, so that diatoms are eventually built up into whale flesh. . . . Above is one of the hideous fish which exist—no one quite knows how—at the bottom of the sea.

In reckoning the life of the ocean, one should leave out of account the inshore waters and the shallow seas. These properly belong to the continents. They receive special gifts of minerals and organic debris from the rivers that flow into them, and they also offer foothold for seaweed and animal life.

But the open ocean is not thus dependent on the crusts that fall from the table of the land. Except for the mineral gifts from the land, via rivers, blown dust, and showers of ash from volcanic eruptions, the open ocean needs to thank the land for little. Its inhabitants make their own lives.

As deep into the ocean as sunlight can penetrate, plants live. Like land plants, these minute plants of the ocean, the diatoms, cannot live without light. With the aid of light, they, like land plants, take carbon dioxide and water and fashion them into food: carbohydrates first, the energy foods, then with the addition of nitrogen the proteins, the muscle foods.

THIS food-making activity of plants is basic, indispensable, in the cycle of life whether on land or in the ocean; for animals cannot make their own foods but must eat plants, or other animals that have first eaten the plants, in order to live.

This plant life in the ocean swarms thickest near the surface. Usually the greatest numbers of diatoms are right at the surface, where the sunlight is strongest. Anyway, the top 600 feet or so of the water contains practically all the plant life of the ocean, and the next 600 feet below that contains all the rest.

WELFARE BODY TO DISTRIBUTE YULE BASKETS

ORANGE, Nov. 25.—Plans for Christmas baskets for needy families were made yesterday at the regular meeting of the Orange Community Welfare board at the American Legion clubhouse. Alfred Higgins, president, appointed a committee to prepare the baskets and to take care of their distribution.

The committee will be headed by Mrs. Anne Chapline and will include Mrs. Parker Robertson, Mrs. Robert B. Johnson, Miss Grace Lentz, Mrs. C. H. Adams, Mrs. Tom Richardson, Mrs. Henry Joost, W. F. Crist, Mrs. James Ragan, Mrs. Louis Frostefer, Frank Maroney, Miss Phyllis Wannamaker and Dr. J. E. Riley.

Mrs. Parker Robertson reported that there is a balance in the treasury of $1074.07 for work to be done the coming year. Miss Grace Lentz, welfare worker, reported that local calls for aid had doubled the past month.

Miss Lentz reported that during the past month 21 home calls had been made, 29 persons had been aided with food and clothing, 57 transients had been given paper sacks of food and 14 grocery orders had been given to families of the community. Beside this aid, six comforters made under the supervision of the welfare committee of the Orange Woman's club had been given away, as had 12 new garments and 69 used garments.

Men's clothing of all sorts is greatly needed, Miss Lentz pointed out, and at present none is given to transients, as needs in men's clothing cannot be met.

Arrangements were made to place barrels for Christmas donations, such as canned goods, toys and clothing, in stores about the first of Demember. Miss Lentz stated that five cases had been referred to the county, 130 have registered for employment and 14 hours of employment found.

Dr. J. E. Dunning spoke on "Thanksgiving," asking that the day be approached with a spirit of national heart searching, and not in one of self-sufficiency. He pointed out that the Thanksgiving observances of the ancient Hebrews had been made in an attitude of penitence as well as one of thanksgiving.

Altar Society To Hold Card Affair And Dance Dec. 1

ORANGE, Nov. 25.—The Altar society of the Holy Family Catholic church is sponsoring a card party and dance in the American Legion hall at 8 p. m. December 1. Bridge and "500" will be played.

Several prizes will be awarded. Refreshments are being planned under the direction of the general committee, which is composed of Mrs. W. A. Rossiter, chairman; Mrs. J. A. Maag, Mrs. N. D. Brock and Mrs. Stewart White.

The card party is open to the public. Proceeds will go to the Altar society fund for the support of the church.

ORANGE PERSONALS

ORANGE, Nov. 25.—A daughter, Gloria Joan, was born at the "Babes' Nest" Tuesday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Richardson.

Four new students have enrolled in the Orange Union High school since November, making the total enrollment 715 to date, where it was 699 at the same time last year. Those entering include Raymond Cruz, freshman; D. C. Dillingham, post graduate, Vernon Joyce, junior of Los Angeles, and Curtis Dotson, post graduate from Long Beach.

Miss Mildred Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Watson, spent the week end at home. Miss Watson is attending Redlands university.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Laurie and daughter, Miss Nancy Laurie, left this week for Arcadia where they will establish their home. Laurie was the proprietor of the Saddle Rock cafe on West Chapman avenue and he will engage in the restaurant business in Arcadia. Before coming to Orange several years ago he operated the Saddle Rock cafe in Santa Ana.

Miss Lavinia Compton, Mrs. Percy Green and Mrs. C. W. Kolkhorst were among those attending the volunteer training seminar which was held in Riverside Tuesday and Wednesday for members of the board and committees of the smaller Y. W. C. A. associations in Southern California.

Pictures of the U. S. C.-Notre Dame game played two years ago were shown Wednesday afternoon at period "A" to members of the boys' forum of the Orange Union High school. The pictures were sponsored by the Lettermen's club of the High school. Announcement was made by the forum president, Art Craft, that there will be a meeting of the program committee to plan for the next meeting, this week.

The Latin-American board has postponed its regular November meeting to December. The date will be announced later.

The Otto Rozell post of the Veterans of the Foreign Wars and its auxiliary will hold a social meeting at the American Legion clubhouse Tuesday evening. A brief business meeting will be held before the social hour.

Mrs. C. H. Adams, 132 South Clark street, is expected to return home from South Dakota in time to be with her family for Thanksgiving. Mrs. Adams has been visiting in the home of her brother, Roy Minton, of Watertown, who is recovering from a serious illness and also in the homes of relatives in White, S. D. Mrs. Adams' mother, Mrs. Minton, will return with her. They are making the trip by bus.

Mrs. G. J. Scriven, 405 West Walnut street, is spending several days in Long Beach with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fowler, who recently moved from that city from Santa Ana.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Goodwin and the latter's mother, Mrs. M. J. Ripley, spent Sunday in Riverside.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Courtney, of El Centro, spent Thursday in the home of the former's mother, Mrs. Angeline Courtney.

Mr. and Mrs. Stiles Mann, 416 South Orange street, have gone to Missouri for an extended visit.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hotchkiss, 1015 East Chapman avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Morse, of New Jersey, who are spending the winter in the Hotchkiss home, spent today in Long Beach.

Woodrow Payne and Bob Neece, Orange Union High school students, were at Brea-Olinda Union High school Thursday attending a meeting of county student body presidents.

Because of the meeting of W. R. C. Federation No. 1 to be held Monday at Costa Mesa, Orange corps will not have its usual social meeting this month.

Walther League Group In Social

OLIVE, Nov. 25.—Members of the Walther league of St. Paul's church held a social Thursday evening with Miss Hilma Krage, Miss Margaret Kreidt, Willie Heman and Donald Timme as hostess.

After the luncheon of sandwiches and coffee, F. L. Carrier, teacher of drama spoke of his vacation trip by steamer through the Panama canal to New York and an auto tour through the New England states.

The members present were the Misses Marie Breije, Alice Heinemann, Irene Breije, Margaret Kreidt, and Hilma Krage; Elmer Lemke, Erwin Krage, Melvin Boehner, Norman Schmid, Henry Paulus, Robert Kreidt, Arthur Paulus, Fred Speich, E. H. Kreidt, Walter Meier, Lawrence Timken, William Heman, Walter Boehner, Donald Timme and Henry Harms.

YOUNG PEOPLE IN PARTY FOR BRIDAL COUPLE

ORANGE, Nov. 25.—Mr. and Mrs. Donald Todd, who were married last week and who have established their home in Santa Ana, were the honor guests last night at a surprise affair held at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. Lydia Todd. The newlyweds had been bidden to dinner by Mrs. Todd and later members of the young people's department of the First Christian church arrived to spend the evening.

Games were played and the young couple was presented with a handsome end table, the presentation being made by Miss Leota Ingle, president of the department. Miss Erene White planned the event. Refreshments were served.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Loring White, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford White, Miss Roselyn Wagers, Miss Mildred Pyatt, Miss Merea Bills, Miss Emily Unzleman, Miss Margaret Todd, Miss Ann Suttora, Miss Leota Ingle, Miss Hazel Carr, Miss Edna House, Miss Erene White, V. G. Wolfe, Arnold Todd, Randall Bivens, Burton Alloway, George McConnell, Francis Todd, the honor guests, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Todd and Mrs. Lydia Todd.

VIOLINIST

ORANGE, Nov. 25.—An event anticipated with interest is the benefit concert being sponsored by the Women's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church at the Orange Woman's clubhouse December 1 at 7:30 o'clock. The concert will be given by the Arch Ness Paramount Baby orchestra of Long Beach. The youngest member of the group is three years of age.

The repertoire of the young artists include works of the old masters, Brahms, Hydn, Handel and many others. Soloists and conductors who will appear are Lola Schwartz, Elsie Schwartz, Catharine Whipple, Tommy Morton, Jean Barrett, Patsy Ruth Keys, Johnny Berry, Doris Purvine, Margaret Robinson, Bobby Ford and Lorainne Longstreet.

Proceeds of the concert will go to charity. There will be no charge for admission but a silver offering will be taken.

GIRL SCOUTS HOLD HIKE, WEINER BAKE

ORANGE, Nov. 25.—Members of the Girl Scout troop No. 7 of the Intermediate school enjoyed a hike and weiner bake last evening. Part of the time was spent in building fires called for in tests they will take in the near future. The girls were accompanied by their leader, Mrs. Frank Hoag.

Members of troop No. 8 of the Intermediate school, met in the headquarters yesterday afternoon with their leader, Miss Helen Meters, for a business meeting. Plans were made for a Thanksgiving basket which will be given to some needy family in Orange. The girls were asked to bring food to the next meeting which will be held next Wednesday instead of Friday.

Because of the large number of girls in the troop, the patrols were divided yesterday afternoon, with eight girls in each patrol. An attendance competition is being carried on among the different patrols, with the promise of a party to be given to the patrol winning.

For the LOVE of EVE

by Lucy Walling

© 1933 BY NEA SERVICE, INC

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Eve Bayless, pretty assistant to Earle Barnes, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, marries Dick Rader, a construction superintendent temporarily working in Lake City. Dick wants Eve to give up working but she refuses.

Sam Holeridge, an advertising man employed by another store, becomes infatuated with Arlene Smith, stenographer at Bixby's, but she fancies herself in love with George Bliss. Handsome Theron Reece has been forcing unwelcome attentions on Eve.

Unknown to Dick, Eve has been playing the stock market on money borrowed from her mother. Mona Allen, copy writer, dislikes Eve and tries to make trouble for her. When an error, costing the store $2000, appears in an advertisement Mona is really responsible but the blame falls on Eve.

Eve sells her stock market holdings at a gain. Elated, she arrives home to hear the telephone ringing. She answers and recognized Mona Allen's voice. Mona says, "They must have given me the wrong number" and the connection is broken. Eve wonders if Mona has been calling up Dick.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXVIII

The voice was Mona Allen's. That she had been given the number of Eve's telephone by mistake was possible, of course, but a coincidence almost beyond Eve's credulity. What could it mean? Had Mona been telephoning to Dick?

Eve entered the offices of the brokerage firm of Sloan and Sanford with trepidation. Yet she felt no urge to turn back. She had made one investment through the bank and now was exploring new fields. Eve had decided to shift the scene for her next financial venture.

She asked for Mr. Sanford and this time he was at his desk. Her naivete must have amused him, for more than once she noticed a twinkle in his large blue-gray eyes.

"I'm through with Pure Soap," Eve told him. "I don't want to overdo any one thing, you see. I thought I might like to try one of the industrials. Will you tell me about them?"

Mr. Sanford told her about the industrials and agreed with her that it might be well to invest in one of them. He advocated Atlas Coupler. Eve placed her money on Atlas Coupler.

As she left the office she wondered vaguely what a coupler was. She had not felt like asking Mr. Sanford. At any rate, it was listed on the stock exchange. She noticed this when Charles brought the stock edition newspapers into the office that afternoon. As soon as she had time she got out the newspaper file and looked up Atlas Coupler ratings for the last two months. Yes, Mr. Sanford had told her the truth concerning the stock valuation. She could dismiss from her mind any misgivings concerning her new investment.

Eve liked the atmosphere of the brokerage house. She longed to feel the same ease of manner displayed by the men trading there. Yet she could not quite smother a sense of excitement each time she visited the exchange. She formed the habit of dropping in frequently during lunch periods. Usually she asked Arlene to go with her, since she felt timid about appearing alone among a group of men devoted to watching market quotations being chalked on the board.

"I certainly get a great kick out of coming up here," Arlene assured her. "If father could only see me now! He thinks anyone who invests in stocks is bound for perdition. And he couldn't, for the life of him, understand that I'd be interested in his place without investing."

Tuesday was pay day at Bixby's and the following Wednesday found Arlene in Mr. Sanford's office with Eve. Arlene was being initiated into making her first investment.

"I think it would be fun to margin," she commented when the methods of investing were explained to her. "I'd love the excitement of it!"

So Arlene also bought Atlas Coupler.

To Eve it had always been necessary to share each new experience with some one. Only after confiding in another and reliving the event did she get the utmost joy from it. Hence her spirits were greatly exhilarated after Arlene made her investment and they watched the trend of the market together. There were days when both of them felt the stimulation of a rise of a point or two in the valuation of Atlas Coupler. And there were days when a slight decline sent them into the very depths of discouragement.

Atlas Coupler had long lain dormant, Eve learned after looking up data concerning it. After the patent rights had been secured there had been a lengthy, uncertain delay in marketing the device owing to the power of the holding company behind the coupler that was to be displaced by Atlas. But now contracts had been signed and manufacturing had begun. A reliable brokerage concern guided the activities of the issue and demand for it caused an extended flurry in the stock. The girls had every reason to believe quick riches were to be theirs for their risk and they anticipated their return eagerly.

Eve really longed to tell Dick of her investments, but she felt she could score a greater triumph by waiting until her gains were substantial. Not that she wished to flaunt her success, she assured herself, but she must be able to justify her desire to earn her own money.

Eve felt these days an almost overwhelming sense of hope and expectancy. She attributed it to the apparently established upward trend of Atlas Coupler, but it might have been born of the springtime. Mrs. Brooks, who was in her garden at 6 o'clock each morning, watched for Eve often and gave her a bouquet of fragrant lilies of the valley for her desk. Then came the week toward which the entire household had been looking forward when the the lilac bushes were in blom and purple and white clusters filled the air with their fragrance.

Dick blew a curling wreath of smoke rings from his pipe upward toward the star-sprinkled sky. Then he answered slowly, contentedly, "We'll never find a better place in the city."

"I wish we could stay here forever!" Eve went on. "I mean happy and peaceful, just as we are now."

"U-um!" responded Dick.

And then Miss McElhinney, one of the teachers who lived upstairs, came out on the porch. "It's such a gorgeous evening and you look so snug here! I hope you don't mind if I join you."

She perched herself on the newel post, nearer to Dick than to Eve. Before many minutes had elapsed she was off on a monologue which threatened to continue for hours.

"You see," Miss McElhinney confided in her slow voice that held a suggestion of a lisp, "I do like to come out of my character! All day long I have to be the stern 'schoolmarm' and after hours I long to be just the little girl I feel!"

"I think," Miss McElhinney continued, facing Dick directly, "that you are wonderful to accomplish all you do. Building that beautiful theater! And giving orders to so many men. Engineering must be so thrilling. I used to watch you on stormy winter mornings as you waded through the snow to get your car. It was so cold I hated even to get out of bed. I would take one look at the 'frozen north' out in the yard and then slip back under the covers until almost time for the school bell to ring."

Presently the girl's voice dropped to a lower, more confidential tone that seemed to exclude Eve. She moved nearer to Dick. Twice he turned and tried to draw his wife into the conversation. Eve, angered by Miss McElhinney's impudence and irritated at Dick for not discouraging her chatter, answered in monosyllables and presently rose abruptly and went indoors.

When Dick did not follow, as she had hoped he would, she went to bed, though it was still early. Half an hour later she heard Dorothy McElhinney's husky laugh as she bade Dick goodnight in the hall. Eve fancied there was an exultant and excited note in that laugh.

Dick paused at the bedroom door with the comment that the weather had changed and a sharp breeze was blowing in from the lake. When Eve did not answer he closed the door softly and settled himself for the evening with his pipe and a book. He had made no apology, no explanation. Eve, nervous and tired, cried herself to sleep. That husky exultant laugh echoed mockingly in her ears.

WELFARE BODY TO DISTRIBUTE YULE BASKETS

ORANGE, Nov. 25.—Plans for Christmas baskets for needy families were made yesterday at the regular meeting of the Orange Community Welfare board at the American Legion clubhouse. Alfred Higgins, president, appointed a committee to prepare the baskets and to take care of their distribution.

The committee will be headed by Mrs. Anne Chapline and will include Mrs. Parker Robertson, Mrs. Robert B. Johnson, Miss Grace Lentz, Mrs. C. H. Adams, Mrs. Tom Richardson, Mrs. Henry Joost, W. F. Crist, Mrs. James Ragan, Mrs. Louis Frostefer, Frank Maroney, Miss Phyllis Wannamaker and Dr. J. E. Riley.

Mrs. Parker Robertson reported that there is a balance in the treasury of $1074.07 for work to be done the coming year. Miss Grace Lentz, welfare worker, reported that local calls for aid had doubled the past month.

Miss Lentz reported that during the past month 21 home calls had been made, 29 persons had been aided with food and clothing, 57 transients had been given paper sacks of food and 14 grocery orders had been given to families of the community. Beside this aid, six comforters made under the supervision of the welfare committee of the Orange Woman's club had been given away, as had 12 new garments and 69 used garments.

Men's clothing of all sorts is greatly needed, Miss Lentz pointed out, and at present none is given to transients, as needs in men's clothing cannot be met.

Arrangements were made to place barrels for Christmas donations, such as canned goods, toys and clothing, in stores about the first of Demember. Miss Lentz stated that five cases had been referred to the county, 130 have registered for employment and 14 hours of employment found.

Dr. J. E. Dunning spoke on "Thanksgiving," asking that the day be approached with a spirit of national heart searching, and not in one of self-sufficiency. He pointed out that the Thanksgiving observances of the ancient Hebrews had been made in an attitude of penitence as well as one of thanksgiving.

ORANGE, Nov. 25.—The Altar society of the Holy Family Catholic church is sponsoring a card party and dance in the American Legion hall at 8 p. m. December 1. Bridge and "500" will be played.

Several prizes will be awarded. Refreshments are being planned under the direction of the general committee, which is composed of Mrs. W. A. Rossiter, chairman; Mrs. J. A. Maag, Mrs. N. D. Brock and Mrs. Stewart White.

The card party is open to the public. Proceeds will go to the Altar society fund for the support of the church.

ORANGE PERSONALS

ORANGE, Nov. 25.—A daughter, Gloria Joan, was born at the "Babes' Nest" Tuesday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Richardson.

Four new students have enrolled in the Orange Union High school since November, making the total enrollment 715 to date, where it was 699 at the same time last year. Those entering include Raymond Cruz, freshman; D. C. Dillingham, post graduate, Vernon Joyce, junior of Los Angeles, and Curtis Dotson, post graduate from Long Beach.

Miss Mildred Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Watson, spent the week end at home. Miss Watson is attending Redlands university.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Laurie and daughter, Miss Nancy Laurie, left this week for Arcadia where they will establish their home. Laurie was the proprietor of the Saddle Rock cafe on West Chapman avenue and he will engage in the restaurant business in Arcadia. Before coming to Orange several years ago he operated the Saddle Rock cafe in Santa Ana.

Miss Lavinia Compton, Mrs. Percy Green and Mrs. C. W. Kolkhorst were among those attending the volunteer training seminar which was held in Riverside Tuesday and Wednesday for members of the board and committees of the smaller Y. W. C. A. associations in Southern California.

Pictures of the U. S. C.-Notre Dame game played two years ago were shown Wednesday afternoon at period "A" to members of the boys' forum of the Orange Union High school. The pictures were sponsored by the Lettermen's club of the High school. Announcement was made by the forum president, Art Craft, that there will be a meeting of the program committee to plan for the next meeting, this week.

The Latin-American board has postponed its regular November meeting to December. The date will be announced later.

The Otto Rozell post of the Veterans of the Foreign Wars and its auxiliary will hold a social meeting at the American Legion clubhouse Tuesday evening. A brief business meeting will be held before the social hour.

Mrs. C. H. Adams, 132 South Clark street, is expected to return home from South Dakota in time to be with her family for Thanksgiving. Mrs. Adams has been visiting in the home of her brother, Roy Minton, of Watertown, who is recovering from a serious illness and also in the homes of relatives in White, S. D. Mrs. Adams' mother, Mrs. Minton, will return with her. They are making the trip by bus.

Mrs. G. J. Scriven, 405 West Walnut street, is spending several days in Long Beach with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fowler, who recently moved from that city from Santa Ana.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Goodwin and the latter's mother, Mrs. M. J. Ripley, spent Sunday in Riverside.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Courtney, of El Centro, spent Thursday in the home of the former's mother, Mrs. Angeline Courtney.

Mr. and Mrs. Stiles Mann, 416 South Orange street, have gone to Missouri for an extended visit.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hotchkiss, 1015 East Chapman avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Morse, of New Jersey, who are spending the winter in the Hotchkiss home, spent today in Long Beach.

Woodrow Payne and Bob Neece, Orange Union High school students, were at Brea-Olinda Union High school Thursday attending a meeting of county student body presidents.

Because of the meeting of W. R. C. Federation No. 1 to be held Monday at Costa Mesa, Orange corps will not have its usual social meeting this month.

Walther League Group In Social

OLIVE, Nov. 25.—Members of the Walther league of St. Paul's church held a social Thursday evening with Miss Hilma Krage, Miss Margaret Kreidt, Willie Heman and Donald Timme as hostess.

ORANGE, Nov. 25.—An event anticipated with interest is the benefit concert being sponsored by the Women's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church at the Orange Woman's clubhouse December 1 at 7:30 o'clock. The concert will be given by the Arch Ness Paramount Baby orchestra of Long Beach. The youngest member of the group is three years of age.

The repertoire of the young artists include works of the old masters, Brahms, Hydn, Handel and many others. Soloists and conductors who will appear are Lola Schwartz, Elsie Schwartz, Catha-line Whipple, Tommy Morton, Jean Barrett, Patsy Ruth Keys, Johnny Berry, Doris Purvine, Margaret Robinson, Bobby Ford and Lorainne Longstreet.

Proceeds of the concert will go to charity. There will be no charge for admission but a silver offering will be taken.

GIRL SCOUTS HOLD HIKE, WEINER BAKE

ORANGE, Nov. 25.—Members of the Girl Scout troop No. 7 of the Intermediate school enjoyed a hike and weiner bake last evening. Part of the time was spent in building fires called for in tests they will take in the near future. The girls were accompanied by their leader, Mrs. Frank Hoag.

Members of troop No. 3 of the Intermediate school, met in the headquarters yesterday afternoon with their leader, Miss Helen Meters, for a business meeting. Plans were made for a Thanksgiving basket which will be given to some needy family in Orange. The girls were asked to bring food to the next meeting which will be held next Wednesday instead of Friday.

Because of the large number of girls in the troop, the patrols were divided yesterday afternoon, with eight girls in each patrol. An attendance competition is being carried on among the different patrols, with the promise of a party to be given to the patrol winning.

For the LOVE of EVE

by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Eve Bayless, pretty assistant to Earle Barnes, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, marries Dick Rader, a construction superintendent temporarily working in Lake City. Dick wants Eve to give up working but she refuses.

Sam Holeridge, an advertising man employed by another store, becomes infatuated with Arlene Smith, stenographer at Bixby's, but she fancies herself in love with George Bliss. Handsome Theron Reece has been forcing unwelcome attentions on Eve.

Unknown to Dick, Eve has been playing the stock market on money borrowed from her mother. Mona Allen, copy writer, dislikes Eve and tries to make trouble for her. When an error, costing the store $2000, appears in an advertisement Mona is really responsible but the blame falls on Eve.

Eve sells her stock market holdings at a gain. Elated, she arrives home to hear the telephone ringing. She answers and recognized Mona Allen's voice. Mona says, "They must have given me the wrong number" and the connection is broken. Eve wonders if Mona has been calling up Dick.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXVIII

The voice was Mona Allen's. That she had been given the number of Eve's telephone by mistake was possible, of course, but a coincidence almost beyond Eve's credulity. What could it mean? Had Mona been telephoning to Dick?

Eve entered the offices of the brokerage firm of Sloan and Sanford with trepidation. Yet she felt no urge to turn back. She had made one investment through the bank and now was exploring new fields. Eve had decided to shift the scene for her next financial venture.

She asked for Mr. Sanford and this time he was at his desk. Her naivete must have amused him, for more than once she noticed a twinkle in his large blue-gray eyes.

"I'm through with Pure Soap," Eve told him. "I don't want to overdo any one thing, you see. I thought I might like to try one of the industrials. Will you tell me about them?"

Mr. Sanford told her about the industrials and agreed with her that it might be well to invest in one of them. He advocated Atlas Coupler. Eve placed her money on Atlas Coupler.

As she left the office she wondered vaguely what a coupler was. She had not felt like asking Mr. Sanford. At any rate, it was listed on the stock exchange. She noticed this when Charles brought the stock edition newspapers into the office that afternoon. As soon as she had time she got out the newspaper file and looked up Atlas Coupler ratings for the last two months. Yes, Mr. Sanford had told her the truth concerning the stock valuation. She could dismiss from her mind any misgivings concerning her new investment.

Eve liked the atmosphere of the brokerage house. She longed to feel the same ease of manner displayed by the men trading there. Yet she could not quite smother a sense of excitement each time she visited the exchange. She formed the habit of dropping in frequently during lunch periods. Usually she asked Arlene to go with her, since she felt timid about appearing alone among a group of men devoted to watching market quotations being chalked on the board.

"I certainly get a great kick out of coming up here," Arlene assured her. "If father could only see me now! He thinks anyone who invests in stocks is bound for perdition. And he couldn't, for the life of him, understand that I'd be interested in his place without investing."

Tuesday was pay day at Bixby's and the following Wednesday found Arlene in Mr. Sanford's office with Eve. Arlene was being initiated into making her first investment.

"I think it would be fun to margin," she commented when the methods of investing were explained to her. "I'd love the excitement of it!"

So Arlene also bought Atlas Coupler.

To Eve it had always been necessary to share each new experience with some one. Only after confiding in another and reliving the event did she get the utmost joy from it. Hence her spirits were greatly exhilarated after Arlene made her investment and they watched the trend of the market together. There were days when both of them felt the stimulation of a rise of a point or two in the valuation of Atlas Coupler. And there were days when a slight decline sent them into the very depths of discouragement.

Atlas Coupler had long lain dormant. Eve learned after looking up data concerning it. After the patent rights had been secured there had been a lengthy, uncertain delay in marketing the device owing to the power of the holding company behind the coupler that was to be displaced by Atlas. But now contracts had been signed and manufacturing had begun. A reliable brokerage concern guided the activities of the issue and demand for it caused an extended flurry in the stock. The girls had every reason to believe quick riches were to be theirs for their risk and they anticipated their return eagerly.

Eve really longed to tell Dick of her investments, but she felt she could score a greater triumph by waiting until her gains were substantial. Not that she wished to flaunt her success, she assured herself, but she must be able to justify her desire to earn her own money.

Eve felt these days an almost overwhelming sense of hope and expectancy. She attributed it to the apparently established upward trend of Atlas Coupler, but it might have been born of the springtime. Mrs. Brooks, who was in her garden at 6 o'clock each morning, watched for Eve often and gave her a bouquet of fragrant lilies of the valley for her desk. Then came the week toward which the entire household had been looking forward when the the lilac bushes were in blom and purple and white clusters filled the air with their fragrance.

Dick blew a curling wreath of smoke rings from his pipe upward toward the star-sprinkled sky. Then he answered slowly, contentedly, "We'll never find a better place in the city."

emfwy emfwy emfwy cmfwyp wyp

"I wish we could stay here forever!" Eve went on. "I mean happy and peaceful, just as we are now."

"U-um!" responded Dick.

And then Miss McElhinney, one of the teachers who lived upstairs, came out on the porch. "It's such a gorgeous evening and you look so snug here! I hope you don't mind if I join you."

She perched herself on the newel post, nearer to Dick than to Eve. Before many minutes had elapsed she was off on a monologue which threatened to continue for hours.

"You see," Miss McElhinney confided in her slow voice that held a suggestion of a lisp, "I do like to come out of my character! All day long I have to be the stern 'schoolmarm' and after hours I long to be just the little girl I feel!"

Dick coughed but refrained from comment.

"I think," Miss McElhinney continued, facing Dick directly, "that you are wonderful to accomplish all you do. Building that beautiful theater! And giving orders to so many men. Engineering must be so thrilling. I used to watch you on stormy winter mornings as you waded through the snow to get your car. It was so cold I hated even to get out of bed. I would take one look at the 'frozen north' out in the yard and then slip back under the covers until almost time for the school bell to ring."

Presently the girl's voice dropped to a lower, more confidential tone that seemed to exclude Eve. She moved nearer to Dick. Twice he turned and tried to draw his wife into the conversation. Eve, angered by Miss McElhinney's impudence and irritated at Dick for not discouraging her chatter, answered in monosyllables and presently rose abruptly and went indoors.

When Dick did not follow, as she had hoped he would, she went to bed, though it was still early. Half an hour later she heard Dorothy McElhinney's husky laugh as she bade Dick goodnight in the hall. Eve fancied there was an exultant and excited note in that laugh.

Dick paused at the bedroom door with the comment that the weather had changed and a sharp breeze was blowing in from the lake. When Eve did not answer he closed the door softly and settled himself for the evening with his pipe and a book. He had made no apology, no explanation. Eve, nervous and tired, cried herself to sleep. That husky exultant laugh echoed mockingly in her ears.

Hooks and Slides

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

The Big Ten plays good football . . . and that outside of that 6-0 defeat handed Illinois by the Army, and that 6-0 win of Xavier's over Indiana, the Western Conference has a big edge on its intersectional foes this year. . . . Chicago handed Washington University of St. Louis a beating . . . as did Illinois, which also beat Drake. . . . Indiana trimmed Miami of Ohio . . . Iowa beat Iowa State of the Big Six . . . Michigan snowed under Cornell . . . Minnesota decisioned South Dakota State and Pitt . . . . Northwestern scored a moral victory in that 0-0 tie with Stanford . . . Ohio State was on top in games with Virginia, Vanderbilt and Penn . . . Purdue took the measure of Carnegie Tech and Ohio University . . . and Wisconsin drubbed Marquette and West Virginia. . . . Yes, that's pretty good football.

Why a football team, when meeting an opponent considered its equal, holds the knot on its bag of tricks until it is either scored upon or until the last few minutes of the game, is one of the questions of the season.

Notre Dame did this against Pitt. Playing straight football in the first half, the Irish, in the face of a 14-0 defeat, unleashed some trick end runs and deceptive passes that nearly brought them two scores in the second half.

These same plays, if trotted out in the first half, when the players were fresh, might have given the Irish first blood.

As it was, Pitt, by virture of a surprise attack, scored first and held the upper hand throughout.

SURPRISE! SURPRISE!

The element of surprise carries considerable weight in the ultimate outcome of a football game. Pulling a few trick plays in the first quarter may not appeal to some coaches, who believe it poor strategy to show your wares to the other fellow early in the game. But it's the psychological effect a trick play exerts on the other fellow that counts.

The boys from the east coast, unbeaten and untied, traveled west to take on Gus Dorais' crew. Detroit was rated the underdog after a couple of defeats early in the year.

Dorais realized the psychological value of a trick play pulled early in the game. And what did he do but order whichever Detroit man received the opening kickoff to execute a quick kick right then and there.

The trick worked to perfection. The Detroit receiver, after running about 10 steps to pull in the Holy Cross tacklers and safety man, suddenly stopped in his tracks, booted the ball, and there was Holy Cross in a tight spot. Instead of Detroit having the ball on about the 30-yard line in its own territory, Holy Cross had the ball behind its own 10-yard stripe.

The class in psychology will now come to order.

Brea-Olinda, colorful champion of the Orange league, was no longer a contender for Southern California prep football honors today, but Coach "Shorty" Smith's Wildcats had the satisfaction of knowing that they gloriously represented their little conference at Inglewood yesterday in bowing to Coach Dick Arnett's Sentinels, defending Southern California champions, by a score of 25-19 in the season's first C. I. F. playoff game.

Heralded by Bay league critics as one of Inglewood's best elevens, and second only to the powerful aggregation that crushed Santa Ana, 14-0, in the finals last fall, Coach Arnett's smooth-working machine came from behind Brea's 13-12 lead in the fourth quarter to score two touchdowns while the Orange league's representative pushed across only 1. Bill Troxel, Inglewood's fleet halfback, accounted for both scores. Ervin Grant, aggressive wingman, scored for Brea.

The winners opened the game in spectacular fashion, Halfback Menges returning Ray Thompson's kickoff 29 yards, and then breaking loose on a 64-yard jaunt to Brea's 1-yard line. Fullback Jim Colee plunged over the goal, fumbled but recovered for a touchdown. Only a few minutes had passed before Stanley Logsdon Brea's sprinting halfback, had carried the ball on a 75-yard run to deadlock the score at 6-6.

Interest was kept at a high level all through the contest, the dangerous rivals battling nip-and-tuck for three quarters. Statistically, Inglewood had the edge with 16 to 8 first downs.

Ray Thompson, triple-threat half-back; Stanley Logsdon, dashing ball carrier, and Arkie Slayton, fullback, were the undisputed stars of the game for Brea. Jim Colee, full; Bill Troxel and Elmer Menges, halfbacks, and Captain Preston Moore, end, shone for the defending titleholders.

The lineups:

Slip Madigan Locked In, Pants Ripped

Although it took him more than an hour, he "broke" out of the Coliseum last night after a thoughtless watchman had locked him inside a lavatory. His escape cost him a trousers seat.

Madigan went inside to wash up after drilling his team for the U. C. L. A. game today. The door was locked behind him as the locker room emptied. Slip tried shouting. In desperation he finally scaled a water pipe, crawled through a small window and slid down a tree 30 feet to the ground.

It required more scaling to get over the wire fence that encloses the coliseum. That effort cost him the seat of his pants. Furthermore he missed a scheduled radio engagement.

J. C. RESERVES SCORE IN TILT WITH PANTHERS

Mitchell

Bob Mitchell, fullback, faded back to his 43-yard line on fourth down in the third quarter, unleashed a beautiful forward pass intended for Walt Gunther, end, who caught Wilburn Anderson's 45-yard throw for a spectacular touchdown against the U. C. L. A. Frosh. Gunther reached for the ball, but it slipped from his fingertips into the arms of Chaffey's safety, who momentarily fumbled as Byron Stoddard, Santa Ana's other end, came across the goal and took the ball out of the air for a touchdown. Mitchell's conversion kick was wide.

Maddened by Santa Ana's sudden streak of luck, the visitors cut loose with an immediate running attack featuring Quarterback Ballard, and scored on a right end run from the 9-yard line. Chaffey began its touchdown drive from Santa Ana's 35, two rapid jaunts by Ballard placing the ball in scoring territory. From near midfield, on the 9-yard mark, the fleet Ballard ran wide to the right sidelines, then cut sharply to fall across the goal. Halfback Wheatley failed to convert on a kick, and everyone knew that darkness would prevent either team from scoring again.

Zeno Shelley, running guard, recovered a Chaffey fumble on Santa Ana's kick-off at the beginning of the second half. With "Red" McDaniel and Bob Mitchell lugging the ball, the Dons advanced to the 15 before losing on downs. Later in the same quarter a clipping penalty placed Chaffey in hot water on its 3-yard line, but the Panthers punted temporarily out of danger before becoming the victims of Fullback Mitchell's sensational 43-yard pass.

Both teams frequently resorted to forward and lateral passes, but neither had average success, although several tosses were incomplete by inches.

All in all, it was an eventful but rather dull afternoon. A Chaffey punter punctured the ball on a kick in the first half, a Santa Anan had his jersey torn off his back twice,, a fight almost resulted from a high tackle of Chaffey's quarterback, and, to top it all, Santa Ana's touchdown pass was one a fan reads about but seldom sees.

Eyes of Orange county golfdom will be centered tomorrow on the annual championship play at Santa Ana Country club tomorrow morning, when Eddie Holmes, five times a champion, meets A. W. Robinson in a 36-hole final round on the club links.

Play will start at 9 a. m., with 18 holes scheduled to be played in the morning and 18 in the afternoon.

Holmes was king of the links from 1928 through 1931, but had to be satisfied to be a spectator when Lawrence Bemis won the cup in 1932. This year Holmes has taken on all comers, and last week entered the final play after beating L. Homer Robinson in a semi-final match.

A. W. Robinson, who is celebrating his first appearance in the titular round, eliminated W. W. "Bill" Foote last week. He set a hot pace last week, and the match tomorrow is expected to furnish plenty of thrills for the gallery.

CHAMPIONSHIP TENNIS MATCH HERE SUNDAY

Premier tennis players of Orange county will meet in a tournament beginning at 9 a. m. tomorrow on the Willard courts here in matches of the Orange county men's singles championship, sponsored by the Santa Ana Tennis club.

Second round matches will be played following completion of all first round matches. Semi-finals will be played on December 3.

Tobe White, Orange county champion for 1932, is defending champion. Lewis Wetherell, runner-up, is making a strong bid for the crown and is a favorite to win. He may be upset by such players as White, Hoots Chilson, Anaheim star, or Gerald Boege, Fullerton.

The Orange county women's single championship games have been postponed because of lack of entries at the present time, but will be held at a later date.

Schedule of matches for this Sunday were announced as follows:

10 a. m.—M. Breeste vs. H. Chilson; J. Smalley vs. G. Boege; T. Mays vs. K. Ranney.

LOYOLA BEATS PACIFIC LAST NIGHT, 14-7

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 25.—(UP)—Overpowered by a superior reserve strength Amos Alonzo Stagg's light College of the Pacific team was downed last night by Loyola, 14 to 7, but the visitors were thrilling 15,000 fans with fast, clever football to the very end.

To combat Loyola's more polished ground attack, Stagg uncovered a brilliant series of passes, one of which traveled 50 yards in the air.

Pacific averted a larger score and kept themselves in the running by two great goal-line

stands, once turning back the Lions when they needed only six inches for first down on Pacific's nine-yard line.

Two touchdowns in two successive plays tied the score in the first quarter and brought the fans to their feet. Wilson, visiting passer, completed a 30-yard pass in the deep flat to Farina on the Lions' six-yard line. From there, Wilson passed to Bainbridge for a touchdown, Gould converted.

On the next play, the kickoff, Eddie Atkinson, Loyola's speedster, broke into the clear from his six-yard line and raced 94 yards for a touchdown. Dermody converted.

BAER MAY NOT WED HIS FORMER WIFE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 25.—(UP)—Bachelorhood has "too many blessings" and provides "too good a time," for him to consider seriously any marriage at present, Max Baer, sometimes a pugilist and sometimes a film actor, insisted today.

A United Press correspondent pursued Baer through hotels and night clubs for hours before he caught up with the former Livermore, Cal., butcher boy in the Shalimar club.

"Well, we don't know yet," Baer said when asked to confirm the report.

"As for me, you can say we're undecided," the former Mrs. Baer chimed in.

Carpentier Will Attempt Comeback

PARIS, Nov. 25.—(INS)—Gorgeous Georges Carpentier, former European heavyweight champion, said today he plans a comeback in the ring. The Frenchman will try intensive training for two weeks and if he finds himself anywhere near his old form he will start the comeback trail.

Second Hunting Taken By Ruth

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(INS)—Back from one hunting trip on which he bagged 20 pheasants, Babe Ruth today starts on another hunt.

This time he is going to Maine where, he says, he'll bag anything baggable.

MAGIC NUMBER 12

Jack Buckler, Army back who is running wild this season, wears the same number—12—that "Red" Cagle and Ray Stecher wore when they played brilliant ball for the Cadets.

BUSH ISN'T WORRYING

Donie Bush isn't worrying about that job as manager of the Cincinnati Reds. He has the Indiana agency for one of the world's largest breweries, and has three warehouses constantly on the go.

TAKES AFTER COACH

COSTLY BACK TALK

Frank Patrick, new managing director of the National Hockey league, has announced a fine of $100 for any player riding an official.

St. Mary's May Skip Santa Clara In '34

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—(UP) — All was quiet along the St. Mary's-Santa Clara feud front today but the "Big Guns" of the former school promised later barrages in the dispute over what the Santa Clara coach, Maurice (Clipper) Smith said about the tactics of the St. Mary's players.

Smith's denial that he had accused the Moragans of rough playing in their annual game apparently was not acceptable to the St. Mary's board of control. The board was to meet next week to take further action.

At Santa Clara it was reported that they did not intend to take their annual rivals off the schedule. From Moraga came word that there was "no assurance at the present time that a 1934 game will be scheduled with Santa Clara."

SCHULTE AND OSBORNE MEET AT WILLOWICK

Frank Osborne, Fullerton, and Stanley Schulte, Fullerton, will play off the final round in the annual fall tournament at Willowick golf course tomorrow at 1 p. m. after having eliminated other aspirants for the title last week.

Eighteen holes will be played in the annual championship flight. Schulte, Fullerton junior collegian, scored a spectacular victory last week when he sank a 40-foot putt on the 19th hole to golf his way into the finals, defeating Frank "Red" Angell of Santa Ana. Osborne eliminated Roger Bunce.

In the first flight, George Walker, Santa Ana, will meet Joe Bushard in the cup play. Sydney Harris, Garden Grove, is paired with Leon Townsend, Santa Ana, for the defeated eight championship. In the defeated eight first flight, Cecil Gibbs, Anaheim, is paired with Larry Jadle, also of Anaheim, in the finals match.

GRID STAR TO MARRY BUT WILL WAIT FOR GAME

Redlands University has overcome all rivals in football this season and was undisputed conference champion before the last game with Whittier today, but a clever little quarterback known as Cupid threw the Bulldogs for a loss today when news leaked out that Earl Bandy, star passer, had secured a marriage license in Santa Ana last week and would be married in the near future.

Cupid pulled a tricky play from his stock and kept coaches, players and friends of Bandy and Miss Maxine Igo, his fiancee, in complete ignorance of the marriage plans. A friend in Santa, seeing the notice of intention in The Register, as William E. Bandy of Redlands, verified the similarity in names with Redlands authorities.

Approached this week, Bandy admitted he was going to get married but promised to wait until after the crucial game with Whittier today.

Bandy is a junior and reputed to be the best passer in the conference. He came to Redlands from Burbank while his bride-to-be is a graduate of Redlands high. No date has been set for the wedding.

The Bulldogs pitted their unspotted record against the Whittier Poets, who lost a chance to tie the leaders by dropping a game to the inspired La Verne squad last week. San Diego state college was entrenched as the favorite on home soil in its meeting with the California Institute of Technology while in the third contest, with the cellar championship at stake, Pomona met Occidental at Claremont.

Sasse Is Named Kentucky Coach

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—(UP)—Major Ralph I. Sasse, former head coach at West Point, has been engaged as football coach for the University of Kentucky, it was announced here today.

Major Sasse, now on duty at Washington, signed a three-year contract at Kentucky to succeed Henry Gamage.

METHODIST BASKETBALL TEAM BEATS CHRISTIAN QUINTET TO WIN HALF

Launching a spectacular rally in the final two quarters, First Methodist's all-star basketball team tripped the First Christians, 37-23, at the Y. M. C. A. last night to win the first-half championship of the Community church league.

The game was arranged to set-tle a tie between the two teams, which had won six games and lost one in final standings.

Conceded no more than an even chance to upset their greatest rival, the Methodists went into the third period with only a 12-11 lead, but the accurate shooting of Asa Herren and Ed Bragg, forwards, and Harold Spangler, center, in addition to the excellent guarding of Russell Sullivan and Joe McChesney, soon had them comfortably out in front.

Herren, chief threat of the Methodists, rallied in the final half to gain high scoring honors with 11 points. Teammates Spangler and Sullivan each garnered 12.

Bill Kolkhorst, ace center of the First Christians, was guarded carefully and limited to 9 points during the game. He holds an all-time scoring record of 32 points in one contest. Claude Williams and "Cotton" Bennett, forwards, hit the loop for 12 points, but the Christian scoring was offset by that of the Methodist sharpshooters.

Contesting for third place in the first-half race, the Latter Day Saints edged out Costa Mesa Federated, 40-30, in the preliminary. Snow and Cook led the Mormon attack with 15 and 14 points, respectively, while Whaley and Crowley of the losers each gathered 12.

The lineups:

Bragg (5)	F	(4) Bennett
Herren (11)	F	(8) Williams
Spangler (8)	C	(9) Kolkhorst
Sullivan (8)	G	Valentine
McChesney (2)	G	(1) Conkright

L.D. Saints (40)		(34) Costa Mesa
Schuchardt (4)	F	(4) Hammerstein
Cook (7)	F	(12) Crowley
Clem (14)	C	(12) Whaley
Snow (15)	G	(4) Siegel

Battaglia Wins Over Earl Wise

ARE YOU AN OLD MAN AT 40?

Do you get up in the morning after being disturbed numerous times feeling a "nervous wreck" and with a splitting backache? Look out! Nature is sounding the warning! And unless you heed these warnings and act now, you will really be an old man long before your number of years will say you are. Prevent that condition from becoming chronic or from causing something far more dangerous to develop because of your carelessness by starting on your Cal-Baden Mineral Water treatments now! There is no way more pleasant, more scientifically correct, more positive or more economical, to supply your body with those wanted minerals than by the use of Cal-Baden, the only mineral water that was ever given the government endorsement of GERMANY, the home of BADEN-BADEN Water, the most famous curative water in the whole world. Don't delay and don't ponder, here is your self starter, just telephone Santa Ana 4900 and order a case today.

The Texoca company will have Stitzell, Yellovich and Gabler, of the Oakland Coast league, for mound duty against the local nine.

TIRES WEAR LESS IN COLD WEATHER

Automobile tires applied in the fall or early winter, average approximately 30 per cent longer wear than tires initiated into use during the spring or summer, according to Hubert Born, local Goodyear dealer.

This surprising statement is based upon information resulting from a study by Goodyear technicians, of the operation of tires on hundreds of busses in all parts of the United States.

"The reason for the increased mileage is quite obvious when some of a tire's peculiarities are known. Tires' greatest enemy is heat. In summer time, the combination of hot weather and fast driving, generate sufficient heat in a tire to greatly stimulate wear.

"In the fall and winter seasons, however, rain, snow and cold definitely add to the life of tires by keeping them cool. Then, too, average driving speeds are lower during the winter months and this contributes further to increased life of tires."

CHANGE GOLF RULE

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(INS)—The professional golfers' association today announced that the winner of the national open would automatically qualify for the P. G. A. tournament if he is eligible.

CHOCOLATE KNOCKED OUT BY CANZONERI

Thirteen thousand fans in Madison Square Garden were amazed at the quick knockout, because Canzoneri was believed fading fast, following his loss of the lightweight crown to Ross and a second defeat by Ross.

Chocolate's featherweight title was not at stake because they fought over the 126-pound limit. Canzoneri weighed 133, Chocolate 130. They fought on even terms in the slow first round.

CHAMPIONSHIP AT STAKE IN 'FRISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—(INS)—If enough football isn't served to please the appetitite of the 90,000 fans at the California-Stanford game today, they can have an extra dish here tomorrow in the annual battle for the championship of San Francisco.

"Spud" Lewis' San Francisco Dons, who lost to Stanford by a single touchdown, play the Olympic club eleven at Kezar stadium. The Dons, improved after a slow start this season, are rated as a slight favorite.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

The Big Ten plays good football . . . and that outside of that 6-0 defeat handed Illinois by the Army, and that 6-0 win of Xavier's over Indiana, the Western Conference has a big edge on its intersectional foes this year. . . . Chicago handed Washington University of St. Louis a beating . . . as did Illinois, which also beat Drake. . . . Indiana trimmed Miami of Ohio . . . Iowa beat Iowa State of the Big Six . . . Michigan snowed under Cornell . . . Minnesota decisioned South Dakota State and Pitt . . . . Northwestern scored a moral victory in that 0-0 tie with Stanford . . . Ohio State was on top in games with Virginia. Vanderbilt and Penn . . . Purdue took the measure of Carnegie Tech and Ohio University . . . and Wisconsin drubbed Marquette and West Virginia. . . . Yes, that's pretty good football.

Why a football team, when meeting an opponent considered its equal, holds the knot on its bag of tricks until it is either scored upon or until the last few minutes of the game, is one of the questions of the season.

Notre Dame did this against Pitt. Playing straight football in the first half, the Irish, in the face of a 14-0 defeat, unleashed some trick end runs and deceptive passes that nearly brought them two scores in the second half.

These same plays, if trotted out in the first half, when the players were fresh, might have given the Irish first blood.

As it was, Pitt, by virtue of a surprise attack, scored first and held the upper hand throughout.

SURPRISE! SURPRISE!

The element of surprise carries considerable weight in the ultimate outcome of a football game. Pulling a few trick plays in the first quarter may not appeal to some coaches, who believe it poor strategy to show your wares to the other fellow early in the game. But it's the psychological effect a trick play exerts on the other fellow that counts.

The boys from the east coast, unbeaten and untied, traveled west to take on Gus Dorais' crew. Detroit was rated the underdog after a couple of defeats early in the year.

Dorais realized the psychological value of a trick play pulled early in the game. And what did he do but order whichever Detroit man received the opening kickoff to execute a quick kick right then and there.

The trick worked to perfection. The Detroit receiver, after running about 10 steps to pull in the Holy Cross tacklers and safety man, suddenly stopped in his tracks, booted the ball, and there was Holy Cross in a tight spot. Instead of Detroit having the ball on about the 30-yard line in its own territory, Holy Cross had the ball behind its own 10-yard stripe.

The class in psychology will now come to order.

Brea-Olinda, colorful champion of the Orange league, was no longer a contender for Southern California prep football honors today, but Coach "Shorty" Smith's Wildcats had the satisfaction of knowing that they gloriously represented their little conference at Inglewood yesterday in bowing to Coach Dick Arnett's Sentinels, defending Southern California champions, by a score of 25-19 in the season's first C. I. F. playoff game.

Heralded by Bay league critics as one of Inglewood's best elevens, and second only to the powerful aggregation that crushed Santa Ana, 14-0, in the finals last fall, Coach Arnett's smooth-working machine came from behind Brea's 13-12 lead in the fourth quarter to score two touchdowns while the Orange league's representative pushed across only 1. Bill Troxel, Inglewood's fleet halfback, accounted for both scores. Ervin Grant, aggressive wingman, scored for Brea.

The winners opened the game in spectacular fashion, Halfback Menges returning Ray Thompson's kickoff 29 yards, and then breaking loose on a 64-yard jaunt to Brea's 1-yard line. Fullback Jim Colee plunged over the goal, fumbled but recovered for a touchdown. Only a few minutes had passed before Stanley Logsdon Brea's sprinting halfback, had carried the ball on a 75-yard run to deadlock the score at 6-6.

Interest was kept at a high level all through the contest, the dangerous rivals battling nip-and-tuck for three quarters. Statistically, Inglewood had the edge with 16 to 8 first downs.

Ray Thompson, triple-threat half-back; Stanley Logsdon, dashing ball carrier, and Arkie Slayton, fullback, were the undisputed stars of the game for Brea. Jim Colee, full; Bill Troxel and Elmer Menges, halfbacks, and Captain Preston Moore, end, shone for the defending titleholders.

The lineups:

Brea-Olinda (19)	Pos.	(25) Inglewood

Slip Madigan Locked In, Pants Ripped

Although it took him more than an hour, he "broke" out of the Coliseum last night after a thoughtless watchman had locked him inside a lavatory. His escape cost him a trousers seat.

Madigan went inside to wash up after drilling his team for the U. C. L. A. game today. The door was locked behind him as the locker room emptied. Slip tried shouting. In desperation he finally scaled a water pipe, crawled through a small window and slid down a tree 30 feet to the ground.

It required more scaling to get over the wire fence that encloses the coliseum. That effort cost him the seat of his pants. Furthermore he missed a scheduled radio engagement.

J. C. RESERVES SCORE IN TILT WITH PANTHERS

Mitchell

Bob Mitchell, fullback, faded back to his 43-yard line on fourth down in the third quarter, unleashed a beautiful forward pass intended for Walt Gunther, end, who caught Wilburn Anderson's 45-yard throw for a spectacular touchdown against the U. C. L. A. Frosh. Gunther reached for the ball, but it slipped from his fingertips into the arms of Chaffey's safety, who momentarily fumbled as Byron Stoddard, Santa Ana's other end, came across the goal and took the ball out of the air for a touchdown. Mitchell's conversion kick was wide.

Maddened by Santa Ana's sudden streak of luck, the visitors cut loose with an immediate running attack featuring Quarterback Ballard, and scored on a right end run from the 9-yard line. Chaffey began its touchdown drive from Santa Ana's 35, two rapid jaunts by Ballard placing the ball in scoring territory. From near midfield, on the 9-yard mark, the fleet Ballard ran wide to the right sidelines, then cut sharply to fall across the goal. Halfback Wheatley failed to convert on a kick, and everyone knew that darkness would prevent either team from scoring again.

Zeno Shelley, running guard, recovered a Chaffey fumble on Santa Ana's kick-off at the beginning of the second half. With "Red" McDaniel and Bob Mitchell lugging the ball, the Dons advanced to the 15 before losing on downs. Later in the same quarter a clipping penalty placed Chaffey in hot water on its 3-yard line, but the Panthers punted temporarily out of danger before becoming the victims of Fullback Mitchell's sensational 43-yard pass.

Both teams frequently resorted to forward and lateral passes, but neither had average success, although several tosses were incomplete by inches.

All in all, it was an eventful but rather dull afternoon. A Chaffey punter punctured the ball on a kick in the first half, a Santa Anan had his jersey torn off his back twice,, a fight almost resulted from a high tackle of Chaffey's quarterback, and, to top it all, Santa Ana's touchdown pass was one a fan reads about but seldom sees.

The lineups:

Kroener	LER	Doll
Boyle	LTR	Hobart
Shelley	LGR	Harshbarger
Hoar	C	Pinney
Hafer	RGL	Swihart

Feary To Meet Mosebar Tuesday

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 25.—(UP)—Fred Feary, Stockton heavyweight, has been matched on the supporting card for the Baby Arizmendi-Eddie Shea fight at the Olympic next Tuesday, it was announced today. Feary, who won his first local engagement this week, will meet Ed Mosebar.

Eyes of Orange county golfdom will be centered tomorrow on the annual championship play at Santa Ana Country club tomorrow morning, when Eddie Holmes, five times a champion, meets A. W. Robinson in a 36-hole final round on the club links.

Play will start at 9 a. m., with 18 holes scheduled to be played in the morning and 18 in the afternoon.

Holmes was king of the links from 1928 through 1931, but had to be satisfied to be a spectator when Lawrence Bemis won the cup in 1932. This year Holmes has taken on all comers, and last week entered the final play after beating L. Homer Robinson in a semi-final match.

A. W. Robinson, who is celebrating his first appearance in the titular round, eliminated W. W. "Bill" Foote last week. He set a hot pace last week, and the match tomorrow is expected to furnish plenty of thrills for the gallery.

CHAMPIONSHIP TENNIS MATCH HERE SUNDAY

Premier tennis players of Orange county will meet in a tournament beginning at 9 a. m. tomorrow on the Willard courts here in matches of the Orange county men's singles championship, sponsored by the Santa Ana Tennis club.

Second round matches will be played following completion of all first round matches. Semi-finals will be played on December 3.

Tobe White, Orange county champion for 1932, is defending champion. Lewis Wetherell, runner-up, is making a strong bid for the crown and is a favorite to win. He may be upset by such players as White, Hoots Chilson, Anaheim star, or Gerald Boege, Fullerton.

The Orange county women's single championship games have been postponed because of lack of entries at the present time, but will be held at a later date.

Schedule of matches for this Sunday were announced as follows:

10 a. m.—M. Breeste vs. H. Chilson; J. Smalley vs. G. Boege; T. Mays vs. K. Ranney.

BAER MAY NOT WED HIS FORMER WIFE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 25.—(UP)—Bachelorhood has "too many blessings" and provides "too good a time," for him to consider seriously any marriage at present, Max Baer, sometimes a pugilist and sometimes a film actor, insisted today.

A United Press correspondent pursued Baer through hotels and night clubs for hours before he caught up with the former Livermore, Cal., butcher boy in the Shalimar club.

"Well, we don't know yet," Baer said when asked to confirm the report.

"As for me, you can say we're undecided," the former Mrs. Baer chimed in.

Carpentier Will Attempt Comeback

PARIS, Nov. 25.—(INS)—Gorgeous Georges Carpentier, former European heavyweight champion, said today he plans a comeback in the ring. The Frenchman will try intensive training for two weeks and if he finds himself anywhere near his old form he will start the comeback trail.

Second Hunting Taken By Ruth

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(INS)—Back from one hunting trip on which he bagged 20 pheasants, Babe Ruth today starts on another hunt.

This time he is going to Maine where, he says, he'll bag anything baggable.

MAGIC NUMBER 12

Jack Buckler, Army back who is running wild this season, wears the same number—12—that "Red" Cagle and Ray Stecher wore when they played brilliant ball for the Cadets.

BUSH ISN'T WORRYING

Donie Bush isn't worrying about that job as manager of the Cincinnati Reds. He has the Indiana agency for one of the world's largest breweries, and has three warehouses constantly on the go.

TAKES AFTER COACH

COSTLY BACK TALK

LOYOLA BEATS PACIFIC LAST NIGHT, 14-7

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 25.—(UP)—Overpowered by a superior reserve strength Amos Alonzo Stagg's light College of the Pacific team was downed last night by Loyola, 14 to 7, but the visitors were thrilling 15,000 fans with fast, clever football to the very end.

To combat Loyola's more polished ground attack, Stagg uncovered a brilliant series of passes, one of which traveled 50 yards in the air.

Pacific averted a larger score and kept themselves in the running by two great goal-line

stands, once turning back the Lions when they needed only six inches for first down on Pacific's nine-yard line.

Two touchdowns in two successive plays tied the score in the first quarter and brought the fans to their feet. Wilson, visiting passer, completed a 30-yard pass in the deep flat to Farina on the Lions' six-yard line. From there, Wilson passed to Bainbridge for a touchdown, Gould converted.

On the next play, the kickoff, Eddie Atkinson, Loyola's speedster, broke into the clear from his six-yard line and raced 94 yards for a touchdown. Dermody converted.

St. Mary's May Skip Santa Clara In '34

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—(UP) — All was quiet along the St. Mary's-Santa Clara feud front today but the "Big Guns" of the former school promised later barrages in the dispute over what the Santa Clara coach, Maurice (Clipper) Smith said about the tactics of the St. Mary's players.

Smith's denial that he had accused the Moragans of rough playing in their annual game apparently was not acceptable to the St. Mary's board of control. The board was to meet next week to take further action.

At Santa Clara it was reported that they did not intend to take their annual rivals off the schedule. From Moraga came word that there was "no assurance at the present time that a 1934 game will be scheduled with Santa Clara."

SCHULTE AND OSBORNE MEET AT WILLOWICK

Frank Osborne, Fullerton, and Stanley Schulte, Fullerton, will play off the final round in the annual fall tournament at Willowick golf course tomorrow at 1 p. m. after having eliminated other aspirants for the title last week.

Eighteen holes will be played in the annual championship flight. Schulte, Fullerton junior collegian, scored a spectacular victory last week when he sank a 40-foot putt on the 19th hole to golf his way into the finals, defeating Frank "Red" Angell of Santa Ana. Osborne eliminated Roger Bunce.

In the first flight, George Walker, Santa Ana, will meet Joe Bushard in the cup play. Sydney Harris, Garden Grove, is paired with Leon Townsend, Santa Ana, for the defeated eight championship. In the defeated eight first flight, Cecil Gibbs, Anaheim, is paired with Larry Jadle, also of Anaheim, in the finals match.

GRID STAR TO MARRY BUT WILL WAIT FOR GAME

Redlands University has overcome all rivals in football this season and was undisputed conference champion before the last game with Whittier today, but a clever little quarterback known as Cupid threw the Bulldogs for a loss today when news leaked out that Earl Bandy, star passer, had secured a marriage license in Santa Ana last week and would be married in the near future.

Cupid pulled a tricky play from his stock and kept coaches, players and friends of Bandy and Miss Maxine Igo, his fiancee, in complete ignorance of the marriage plans. A friend in Santa, seeing the notice of intention in The Register, as William E. Bandy of Redlands, verified the similarity in names with Redlands authorities.

Approached this week, Bandy admitted he was going to get married but promised to wait until after the crucial game with Whittier today.

Bandy is a junior and reputed to be the best passer in the conference. He came to Redlands from Burbank while his bride-to-be is a graduate of Redlands high. No date has been set for the wedding.

The Bulldogs pitted their unspotted record against the Whittier Poets, who lost a chance to tie the leaders by dropping a game to the inspired La Verne squad last week. San Diego state college was entrenched as the favorite on home soil in its meeting with the California Institute of Technology while in the third contest, with the cellar championship at stake, Pomona met Occidental at Claremont.

Sasse Is Named Kentucky Coach

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—(UP)—Major Ralph I. Sasse, former head coach at West Point, has been engaged as football coach for the University of Kentucky, it was announced here today.

Major Sasse, now on duty at Washington, signed a three-year contract at Kentucky to succeed Henry Gamage.

Launching a spectacular rally in the final two quarters, First Methodist's all-star basketball team tripped the First Christians, 37-23, at the Y. M. C. A. last night to win the first-half championship of the Community church league.

The game was arranged to settle a tie between the two teams, which had won six games and lost one in final standings.

Conceded no more than an even chance to upset their greatest rival, the Methodists went into the third period with only a 12-11 lead, but the accurate shooting of Asa Herren and Ed Bragg, forwards, and Harold Spangler, center, in addition to the excellent guarding of Russell Sullivan and Joe McChesney, soon had them comfortably out in front.

Herren, chief threat of the Methodists, rallied in the final half to gain high scoring honors with 11 points. Teammates Spangler and Sullivan each garnered 12.

Bill Kolkhorst, ace center of the First Christians, was guarded carefully and limited to 9 points during the game. He holds an all-time scoring record of 32 points in one contest. Claude Williams and "Cotton" Bennett, forwards, hit the loop for 12 points, but the Christian scoring was offset by that of the Methodist sharpshooters.

Contesting for third place in the first-half race, the Latter Day Saints edged out Costa Mesa Federated, 40-30, in the preliminary. Snow and Cook led the Mormon attack with 15 and 14 points, respectively, while Whaley and Crowley of the losers each gathered 12.

The lineups:

Herren (11)	F	(8) Williams

ARE YOU AN OLD MAN AT 40?

Do you get up in the morning after being disturbed numerous times feeling a "nervous wreck" and with a splitting backache? Look out! Nature is sounding the warning! And unless you heed these warnings and act now, you will really be an old man long before your number of years will say you are. Prevent that condition from becoming chronic or from causing something far more dangerous to develop because of your carelessness by starting on your Cal-Baden Mineral Water treatments now! There is no way more pleasant, more scientifically correct, more positive or more economical, to supply your body with those wanted minerals than by the use of Cal-Baden, the only mineral water that was ever given the government endorsement of GERMANY, the home of BADEN-BADEN Water, the most famous curative water in the whole world. Don't delay and don't ponder, here is your self starter, just telephone Santa Ana 4906 and order a case today.

TIRES WEAR LESS IN COLD WEATHER

Automobile tires applied in the fall or early winter, average approximately 30 per cent longer wear than tires initiated into use during the spring or summer, according to Hubert Born, local Goodyear dealer.

This surprising statement is based upon information resulting from a study by Goodyear technicians, of the operation of tires on hundreds of busses in all parts of the United States.

"The reason for the increased mileage is quite obvious when some of a tire's peculiarities are known. Tires' greatest enemy is heat. In summer time, the combination of hot weather and fast driving, generate sufficient heat in a tire to greatly stimulate wear. "In the fall and winter seasons, however, rain, snow and cold definitely add to the life of tires by keeping them cool. Then, too, average driving speeds are lower during the winter months and this contributes further to increased life of tires."

CHANGE GOLF RULE

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(INS)—The professional golfers' association today announced that the winner of the national open would automatically qualify for the P. G. A. tournament if he is eligible.

CHOCOLATE KNOCKED OUT BY CANZONERI

Thirteen thousand fans in Madison Square Garden were amazed at the quick knockout, because Canzoneri was believed fading fast, following his loss of the lightweight crown to Ross and a second defeat by Ross.

Chocolate's featherweight title was not at stake because they fought over the 126-pound limit. Canzoneri weighed 133, Chocolate 130. They fought on even terms in the slow first round.

CHAMPIONSHIP AT STAKE IN 'FRISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—(INS)—If enough football isn't served to please the appetitite of the 90,000 fans at the California-Stanford game today, they can have an extra dish here tomorrow in the annual battle for the championship of San Francisco.

"Spud" Lewis' San Francisco Dons, who lost to Stanford by a single touchdown, play the Olympic club eleven at Kezar stadium. The Dons, improved after a slow start this season, are rated as a slight favorite.

HONOR COUPLE WITH PARTY IN GARDEN GROVE

GARDEN GROVE, Nov. 25.—A surprise reception was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Irvine German on their 16th wedding anniversary, following the regular choir rehearsal at the Methodist Episcopal church Thursday evening. The affair had been planned by Mrs. Grover Ralston and when practice was over, John Pearson played the wedding march from Lohengrin while the group marched into the social hall.

A table was centered with a beautiful wedding cake decorated in pink and yellow frosting and bearing 16 candles. The cake had been made by Mrs. Thomas Jessup. Tall pink tapers in yellow crepe paper holders also graced the table. Baskets of autumn flowers were arranged about the room.

Mrs. Jess Garr, choir president, in behalf of the members of the choir and friends in the church, presented the honored couple with a set of crystal sherbet glasses.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake and coffee were served on individual trays bearing nut cups with wedding bells in pastel shades.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Irvine German and son, junior; the Rev. and Mrs. Grover Ralston and family; Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Sprinkle and daughter, Phyllis; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Chaffee, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Garr, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kittrell, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Schneider and son, Donovan, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Holt, Mrs. Emmett Smith, Mrs. Charles Lake, Miss Margaret Crane, Miss Marjorie Ferrin, Miss Eunice Bragg, Mrs. Virgil Sparkes, Mrs. Albert Schneider, John Pearson and Bob Dozier.

BOOK REVIEWS

By MARY BURKE KING

On Running After One's Hat, and other whimsies, by G. K. Chesterton, published by Robert M. McBride & Co.

"On Running After One's Hat," should have a note as regards size, for it is one of those comfortable small volumes which it is a pleasure just to hold, for one can indulge the feeling that there is the possibility of the identification of one's self with the book, which is a desirable feeling with enjoyable books like this. It contains twenty essays by G. K. Chesterton. They are said to be the cream of Chesterton's humor.

However that may be, "On Running After One's Hat" should have many notes on the substance. It is merry, whimsical, and frequently neath substantial. In the essay "On Running After One's Hat" he announces that having convinced himself of the pleasures of running after one's hat he is convinced that in the future hat-hunting on windy days will be the sport of the upper classes. One time he is confined to a third class railway carriage for what he believed might be months with nothing to read, not even advertisements. Then it was for the one and only time in his life he became a pickpocket and picked his own pockets. After that confession he makes one even more dreadful. He tells of a crime he committed, the perpetration of The Great Cigar Fraud. Another of the essays discusses the advisability and necessity of discovering one's country, and doorway by going abroad. He explained it to a friend when he was on the way to travel about the world in order to discover Battersea, where he lived. "I cannot see any Batterses . . . because a cloud of sleep and custom has come across my eyes. The only way to get back to them is to go somewhere else; and that is the real object of travel and the real pleasure of holidays."

Some one or another of these essays, or all of them, may strike no response whatever in the heart or mind of a reader but it should not happen in many cases for they are such fun and so hearty.

Even though one doesn't take the Pre-Raphaelites as seriously as the author of this fictionalized history of them, and those who have contacted modern art will not, it is good reading. It might be said particularly good reading for "moderps," for it is the universal history, with variations, of all revolutionary movements. There is the enthusiasm of youth, the struggles and diversions of middle age, the obliteration of youthful purposes in old age, all this on the part of the individuals, while from the public there is the shock of the new ideas, the abuse of those who promulgate them, the bitter struggle between the new and the old, and the defeat of the one or the other.

Miss Winwar treats the Pre-Raphaelites as a group of gods whereas, in the opinion of one critic, the great bulk of their painting seldom, if ever, rose above the level of book illustrations. In judging their influence, however, it would be unfair to judge them by their work alone, their ideals were most important and, since they were expounded by Ruskin and William Morris, have had great influence. They protested against the vacuity of contemporary art and they pledged themselves to promote more honest expression, and greater beauty in art.

The figures in Miss Winwar's book are legion. There are the Rossettis, Swinburne, William Morris, John Millais, Holman Hunt, Ford Madox Brown, Burne-Jones, Whistler, Buchanan, David Gray, Hall Caine, and there are on occasion their parents, their models, their wives, and very few mistresses. Miss Winwar, by assimilating a prodigious amount of material throughly and touching it with her genius, has been able to weave a story about all these people which unfolds gracefully in spite of its tragedy. The title epitomizes the tragedy: the young men started out with such high hopes, with such enthusiasm. When Ruskin rose to their defense, and did much to make them famous, the members of the group themselves had almost ceased to take the ties that bound them together very seriously.

The book is excellent reading. The young men had many good times together, they all had interesting lives; the author in bringing them before us does not neglect the important aspect of their boyhoods.

There are many passages which one would dislike having missed. One in particular is the occasion of the Brotherhood painting the Oxford Union. They had such an interesting, gay time and the Oxford dons were so shocked at the discussions of the painters at their work, when the dons came to observe and fled overwhelmed. The frescoes were so grand—and within a year they had begun to peel from the walls!

"Hetaira" is a study of an individual, Helen Dale. It is an interesting study primarily because it is not static, there is progression. How far a self-centered introvert can command interest varies. She interests some very little.

Helen was the child of separated parents. Just what effect that had on her development and outlook is not made clear, except that she apparently reached out toward men when her yearning was for a father's disinterested devotion and care. As a child, Helen's mind was too active for any calls made upon it by her mother or her school. Her health was undermined by her active and starved mind.

At one place Helen says, pathetically: "How wonderful it would be if mother understood, no matter what I say!" Helen's mother was a woman of limited imagination, intolerant and without the intelligence to disseminate her lack of understanding of her daughter.

"She was hungry, starving; that was all. In her own vivid way she absorbed experience; she entered eagerly into all that came, and it left its impression upon her. But what came was not enough. Her individuality was not unfolding: there was nothing to bring out the individual waiting within her.

As a sympathetic picture of the Hetaira type the one in Anne Douglas Sedgwick's book, "The Little French Girl," is much more successfully drawn, but in that case the type is complete and in the book we see the development of one whom the author classifies as a Hetaira.

The book is limited to the emotional.

The author of the book is a psychologist, an authority on mental ills as well as standard types and since we must accept it as authoritative a reader is led to evaluate it as a study first and a novel second. Whether one contacts another bit of universal human consciousness through the book is a leading question and it must be admitted that one does, regardless of its unpleasantness.

Modern Poets

By MISS BEULAH MAY

BY BEULAH MAY

Two of the loveliest of old poems. They are by Ben Jonson.

Hymn to Diana

Queen and huntress, chaste and fair,
Now the sun is laid to sleep
Seated in thy silver chair
State in wonted manner keep:
Hesperus entreats thy light,
Goddess excellently bright.

Earth, let not thy envious shade
Dare itself to interpose;
Cynthia's shing orb was made
Heaven to clear when day did close:
Bless us then with wished sight,
Goddess excellently bright.

Lay thy bow of pearl apart
And thy crystal-shining quiver;
Give unto the flying heart
Space to breathe, how short soever:
Thou that mak'st a day of night,
Goddess excellently bright.

Slow, Slow, Fresh Fount

Slow, slow, fresh fount, keep time with my salt tears;
Yet slower, yet; O faintly, gentle springs;
List to the heavy part the music bears,
Woe weeps out her division when she sings.
Droop herbs and flowers;
Fall grief in showers,
Our beauties are not ours;
O, I could still,
Like melting snow upon some craggy hill,
Drop, drop, drop, drop,

What changes would you make if you had your life to live over again?

This is answered in the new Lee Tracy picture, "Turn Back the Clock," which will be the attraction at the Fox West Coast theater today, tomorrow and Monday.

The plot concerns a man, married, and living a drab existence, who is given a chance to again live his life, with a chance to correct the mistakes he made before. He even gets to marry the girl of his youth, who has lots of money, and every dream he had when he brooded over the fact he had wasted his life, comes true to him. But is he happy?

The picture is unusual in plot. It is fast because Tracy's pictures are all fast. In the film with him are May Clarke, who plays the wife; Otto Kruger, Peggy Shannon, George Barbier and C. Henry Gordon. "Flip, the Frog," a cartoon; "Good Old Winter Time," a sports event, and the last episode of "Tarzan" complete the program.

LAST MAN IN THE WORLD ON STATE SCREEN

"It's Great To Be Alive," the new musical production from Fox starts a two day engagement at Walker's State theater Wednesday. It is reported as a rollicking romance, with one of the most unusual plots ever unfolded on the screen.

The story revolves about the possibility of all the men of the world being removed—except for one who at the moment, is a castaway on a desert island. The millions of women all over the globe, realizing that here is an alarming situation, set about to rectify it. What actually occurs is said to be the basis for more hilarity than has been seen in many a month.

Raul Roulien, star of the South American stage and screen, makes his debut in this picture as a full-fledged Hollywood star.

The cast in support of Roulien, includes Gloria Stuart in the feminine lead, Edna May Oliver as the family scientist, and Herbert Mundin in the leading comedy role.

BARRYMORE AND DRESSLER STAR IN NEW FILM

"Christophen Bean," new picture based on the stage play, "The Late Christopher Bean," and starring Marie Dressler and Lionel Barrymore, will be the attraction at the Broadway theater next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, it was announced today.

Miss Dressler, fresh from triumph in "Tug-Boat Annie," and Barrymore, last seen here in "The Stranger's Return," should make a cast that would place any picture well up among the leaders, but with the famous play as their vehicle, "Christopher Bean" is expected to be one of the best pictures to show here this year.

The plot concerns a woman who shows a man the road back to honor, and deals with the family of a country doctor and their servant. The story is known universally.

THRILLS ABOUND IN 'GALLOPING ROMEO'

Those who prefer stirring action, strong drama and griping suspense got their fill of their favorite thrills last night at Walker's State theater when Bob Steele, western star, rode across the screen in "Galloping Romeo."

The plot concerns the trials and tribulations of a young cowpuncher and his elderly pal, who leave the state of Nevada when their efforts on behalf of law-enforcement are misunderstood by the local authorities, only to land in hot water in California when they become involved in the investigation of a number of mysterious gold robberies in which the shipments have disappeared from locked strong boxes on the stage coach line.

NICKED HOOF WAS CLUE

THE BARON ARRIVES

Ted Healy, Jack Pearl, Zasu Pitts and Jimmy Durante in a scene from "Meet the Baron," introducing from the screen for the first time Jack Pearl, the Baron Munchausen of the air, which comes to the Broadway theater Sunday to play for four days.

SHOWING TODAY

DRAMATIC MOMENT

West Coast Has 2 Films On Tuesday

"The Worst Woman in Paris" will come to the Fox West Coast theater Tuesday and Wednesday, and at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday, another feature, "Solitaire Man," also will be shown, it was announced by Lester J. Fountain, manager, today.

Adolph Menjou and Benita Hume are cast together in "The Worst Woman in Paris," the story of a demi-monde, whose reputation on the Continent, because of her affairs with a prominent Frenchman, make her notorious. She escapes, comes to the United States and to Kansas, where she falls in love. Then, because of her past, she realizes that true love can never be hers. It is a striking picture which will be remembered here for a long time.

Jack Pearl, famous "Baron Munchausen" of radio fame, will be introduced to Santa Ana screen fans tomorrow when his first picture comes to the Broadway theater.

"Meet the Baron," filled with all the wisecracks the baron uses on the air, and with a cast of comedians which would be hard to beat, is expected to be one of the peppiest pictures to grace the boards here in several weeks.

In the cast are Zasu Pitts, who plays the role of chief chambermaid in a girl's school, and who falls very much in love with the baron; Jimmy Durante, who plays the baron's valet, and Edna May Oliver, who can hold her own on any comedy team.

The plot concerns a great explorer and his return to the United States for a lecture tour. It starts at the girl's school. The baron and his valet get no further. The girls in the school prove to be the dancing teams which go to make the picture not only funny but beautiful, while the comedy is said to be a riot from start to finish. Ted Healy and his stoogies also have an important part in the production.

Aside from the feature will be seen a colortone novelty, "Our First President," "Fine Feathers," a Pete Smith short subject, a Tom and Jerry Cartoon and a news reel.

Does long medical practice entirely submerge the mother instinct that is a woman's natural heritage, when death takes a woman physician's child.

There are some who may say yes, but "Mary Stevens, M. D." which comes to the Walker State theater Sunday, with Kay Francis playing the title role presents a pretty strong case for the other side.

No matter how much she has learned about children's diseases, when Mary Stevens' baby is taken sick, all her skill can't save him. There has been a fight before that, to know whether she should have him or not.

It took courage and a lot of unselfishness, and the strong love of the boy with whom she had gone through medical school—the father of her child—to bring Mary Stevens back to a realization of her duty to the world. But if she couldn't save every case—she could save many. So Mary Stevens came back.

Powerful characterizations are given in this gripping story of life behind the doors marked "M. D." by Kay Francis as Mary Stevens and Lyle Talbot as her co-worker physician lover and later husband. Glenda Farrell, Thelma Todd and George Cooper are also cast in important roles.

"LADY FOR DAY" COMING DEC. 2

"Lady for a Day," with eight or ten big stars of the screen, will come to the Broadway theater a week from tomorrow, December 2, to play for four days.

Some of those in the cast include May Robson, who plays "Apple Annie," Warren William, as the gangster, New Sparks, Hobard Bosworth, Guy Kibbee, Glenda Farrell and Jean Parker.

Special Show Service On Thanksgiving

Continuous performance at both the Fox West Coast and the Broadway theaters for next Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, was announced today by Lester J. Fountain, manager.

The Broadway theater will be playing "Christopher Bean," a new show opening on that date, and the West Coast theater will play "Female," starring Ruth Chatterton and George Brent. "Female" also opens on Thanksgiving day.

BOOK REVIEWS

On Running After One's Hat, and other whimsies, by G. K. Chesterton, published by Robert M. McBride & Co.

"On Running After One's Hat," should have a note as regards size, for it is one of those comfortable small volumes which it is a pleasure just to hold, for one can indulge the feeling that there is the possibility of the identification of one's self with the book, which is a desirable feeling with enjoyable books like this. It contains twenty essays by G. K. Chesterton. They are said to be the cream of Chesterton's humor.

However that may be, "On Running After One's Hat" should have many notes on the substance. It is merry, whimsical, and frequently neath substantial. In the essay "On Running After One's Hat" he announces that having convinced himself of the pleasures of running after one's hat he is convinced that in the future hat-hunting on windy days will be the sport of the upper classes. One time he is confined to a third class railway carriage for what he believed might be months with nothing to read, not even advertisements. Then it was for the one and only time in his life he became a pickpocket and picked his own pockets. After that confession he makes one even more dreadful. He tells of a crime he committed, the perpetration of The Great Cigar Fraud. Another of the essays discusses the advisability and necessity of discovering one's country, and doorway by going abroad. He explained it to a friend when he was on the way to travel about the world in order to discover Battersea, where he lived. "I cannot see any Battersea . . . because a cloud of sleep and custom has come across my eyes. The only way to get back to them is to go somewhere else; and that is the real object of travel and the real pleasure of holidays."

Some one or another of these essays, or all of them, may strike no response whatever in the heart or mind of a reader but it should not happen in many cases for they are such fun and so hearty.

Even though one doesn't take the Pre-Raphaelites as seriously as the author of this fictionalized history of them, and those who have contacted modern art will not, it is good reading. It might be said particularly good reading for "moderns," for it is the universal history, with variations, of all revolutionary movements. There is the enthusiasm of youth, the struggles and diversions of middle age, the obliteration of youthful purposes in old age, all this on the part of the individuals, while from the public there is the shock of the new ideas, the abuse of those who promulgate them, the bitter struggle between the new and the old, and the defeat of the one or the other.

Miss Winwar treats the Pre-Raphaelites as a group of gods whereas, in the opinion of one critic, the great bulk of their painting seldom, if ever, rose above the level of book illustrations. In judging their influence, however, it would be unfair to judge them by their work alone, their ideals were most important and, since they were expounded by Ruskin and William Morris, have had great influence. They protested against the vacuity of contemporary art and they pledged themselves to promote more honest expression, and greater beauty in art.

The figures in Miss Winwar's book are legion. There are the Rossettis, Swinburne, William Morris, John Millais, Holman Hunt, Ford Madox Brown, Burne-Jones, Whistler, Buchanan, David Gray, Hall Caine, and there are on occasion their parents, their models, their wives, and very few mistresses. Miss Winwar, by assimilating a prodigious amount of material throughly and touching it with her genius, has been able to weave a story about all these people which unfolds gracefully in spite of its tragedy. The title epitomizes the tragedy: the young men started out with such high hopes, with such enthusiasm. When Ruskin rose to their defense, and did much to make them famous, the members of the group themselves had almost ceased to take the ties that bound them together very seriously.

The book is excellent reading. The young men had many good times together, they all had interesting lives; the author in bringing them before us does not neglect the important aspect of their boyhoods.

There are many passages which one would dislike having missed. One in particular is the occasion of the Brotherhood painting the Oxford Union. They had such an interesting, gay time and the Oxford dons were so shocked at the discussions of the painters at their work, when the dons came to observe and fled overwhelmed. The frescoes were so grand—and within a year they had begun to peel from the walls!

'Hetaira" is a study of an individual, Helen Dale. It is an interesting study primarily because it is not static, there is progression. How far a self-centered introvert can command interest varies. She interests some very little.

Helen was the child of separated parents. Just what effect that had on her development and outlook is not made clear, except that she apparently reached out toward men when her yearning was for a father's disinterested devotion and care. As a child, Helen's mind was too active for any calls made upon it by her mother or her school. Her health was undermined by her active and starved mind.

At one place Helen says, pathetically: "How wonderful it would be if mother understood, no matter what I say!" Helen's mother was a woman of limited imagination, intolerant and without the intelligence to disseminate her lack of understanding of her daughter.

"She was hungry, starving; that was all. In her own vivid way she absorbed experience; she entered eagerly into all that came, and it left its impression upon her. But what came was not enough. Her individuality was not unfolding; there was nothing to bring out the individual waiting within her.

As a sympathetic picture of the Hetaira type the one in Anne Douglas Sedgwick's book, "The Little French Girl," is much more successfully drawn, but in that case the type is complete and in the book we see the development of one whom the author classifies as a Hetaira.

The book is limited to the emotional.

The author of the book is a psychologist, an authority on mental ills as well as standard types and since we must accept it as authoritative a reader is led to evaluate it as a study first and a novel second. Whether one contacts another bit of universal human consciousness through the book is a leading question and it must be admitted that one does, regardless of its unpleasantness.

Modern Poets

By MISS BEULAH MAY

BY BEULAH MAY

Two of the loveliest of old poems. They are by Ben Jonson.

Hymn to Diana

Queen and huntress, chaste and fair,
Now the sun is laid to sleep
Seated in thy silver chair
State in wonted manner keep:
Hesperus entreats thy light,
Goddess excellently bright.

Earth, let not thy envious shade
Dare itself to interpose;
Cynthia's shing orb was made
Heaven to clear when day did close:
Bless us then with wished sight,
Goddess excellently bright.

Lay thy bow of pearl apart
And thy crystal-shining quiver;
Give unto the flying heart
Space to breathe, how short soever:
Thou that mak'st a day of night,
Goddess excellently bright.

Slow, Slow, Fresh Fount

Slow, slow, fresh fount, keep time with my salt tears;
Yet slower, yet; O faintly, gentle springs;
List to the heavy part the music bears,
Woe weeps out her division when she sings.
Droop herbs and flowers;
Fall grief in showers,
Our beauties are not ours;
O, I could still,
Like melting snow upon some craggy hill,
Drop, drop, drop, drop,

MISSOULA, Mont. (UP)—Approximately 250,000 trees will be distributed daily from a stock of more than 6,000,000 now ready for fall planting by C.C.C. workers in Montana and northern Idaho. The young trees were grown at the forest service "green house" near Haugen.

What changes would you make if you had your life to live over again?

This is answered in the new Lee Tracy picture, "Turn Back the Clock," which will be the attraction at the Fox West Coast theater today, tomorrow and Monday.

The plot concerns a man, married, and living a drab existence, who is given a chance to again live his life, with a chance to correct the mistakes he made before. He even gets to marry the girl of his youth, who has lots of money, and every dream he had when he brooded over the fact he had wasted his life, comes true to him. But is he happy?

The picture is unusual in plot. It is fast because Tracy's pictures are all fast. In the film with him are May Clarke, who plays the wife; Otto Kruger, Peggy Shannon, George Barbier and C. Henry Gordon. "Flip, the Frog," a cartoon; "Good Old Winter Time," a sports event, and the last episode of "Tarzan" complete the program.

LAST MAN IN THE WORLD ON STATE SCREEN

"It's Great To Be Alive," the new musical production from Fox starts a two day engagement at Walker's State theater Wednesday. It is reported as a rollicking romance, with one of the most unusual plots ever unfolded on the screen.

The story revolves about the possibility of all the men of the world being removed—except for one who at the moment, is a castaway on a desert island. The millions of women all over the globe, realizing that here is an alarming situation, set about to rectify it. What actually occurs is said to be the basis for more hilarity than has been seen in many a month.

Raul Roulien, star of the South American stage and screen, makes his debut in this picture as a full-fledged Hollywood star.

The cast in support of Roulien, includes Gloria Stuart in the feminine lead, Edna May Oliver as the family scientist, and Herbert Mundin in the leading comedy role.

BARRYMORE AND DRESSLER STAR IN NEW FILM

"Christophen Bean," new picture based on the stage play, "The Late Christopher Bean," and starring Marie Dressler and Lionel Barrymore, will be the attraction at the Broadway theater next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, it was announced today.

Miss Dressler, fresh from triumph in "Tug-Boat Annie," and Barrymore, last seen here in "The Stranger's Return," should make a cast that would place any picture well up among the leaders, but with the famous play as their vehicle, "Christopher Bean" is expected to be one of the best pictures to show here this year.

The plot concerns a woman who shows a man the road back to honor, and deals with the family of a country doctor and their servant. The story is known universally.

Those who prefer stirring action, strong drama and griping suspense got their fill of their favorite thrills last night at Walker's State theater when Bob Steele, western star, rode across the screen in "Galloping Romeo."

The plot concerns the trials and tribulations of a young cowpuncher and his elderly pal, who leave the state of Nevada when their efforts on behalf of law-enforcement are misunderstood by the local authorities, only to land in hot water in California when they become involved in the investigation of a number of mysterious gold robberies in which the shipments have disappeared from locked strong boxes on the stage coach line.

NICKED HOOF WAS CLUE

THE BARON ARRIVES

Ted Healy, Jack Pearl, Zasu Pitts and Jimmy Durante in a scene from "Meet the Baron," introducing from the screen for the first time Jack Pearl, the Baron Munchausen of the air, which comes to the Broadway theater Sunday to play for four days.

SHOWING TODAY

DRAMATIC MOMENT

West Coast Has 2 Films On Tuesday

"The Worst Woman in Paris" will come to the Fox West Coast theater Tuesday and Wednesday, and at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday, another feature, "Solitaire Man," also will be shown, it was announced by Lester J. Fountain, manager, today.

Adolph Menjou and Benita Hume are cast together in "The Worst Woman in Paris," the story of a demi-monde, whose reputation on the Continent, because of her affairs with a prominent Frenchman, make her notorious. She escapes, comes to the United States and to Kansas, where she falls in love. Then, because of her past, she realizes that true love can never be hers. It is a striking picture which will be remembered here for a long time.

Jack Pearl, famous "Baron Munchausen" of radio fame, will be introduced to Santa Ana screen fans tomorrow when his first picture comes to the Broadway theater.

"Meet the Baron," filled with all the wisecracks the baron uses on the air, and with a cast of comedians which would be hard to beat, is expected to be one of the peppiest pictures to grace the boards here in several weeks.

In the cast are Zasu Pitts, who plays the role of chief chambermaid in a girl's school, and who falls very much in love with the baron; Jimmy Durante, who plays the baron's valet, and Edna May Oliver, who can hold her own on any comedy team.

The plot concerns a great explorer and his return to the United States for a lecture tour. It starts at the girl's school. The baron and his valet get no further. The girls in the school prove to be the dancing teams which go to make the picture not only funny but beautiful, while the comedy is said to be a riot from start to finish. Ted Healy and his stoogies also have an important part in the production.

Aside from the feature will be seen a colortone novelty, "Our First President," "Fine Feathers," a Pete Smith short subject, a Tom and Jerry Cartoon and a news reel.

Does long medical practice entirely submerge the mother instinct that is a woman's natural heritage, when death takes a woman physician's child.

There are some who may say yes, but "Mary Stevens, M. D." which comes to the Walker State theater Sunday, with Kay Francis playing the title role, presents a pretty strong case for the other side.

No matter how much she has learned about children's diseases, when Mary Stevens' baby is taken sick, all her skill can't save him. There has been a fight before that, to know whether she should have him or not.

It took courage and a lot of unselfishness, and the strong love of the boy with whom she had gone through medical school—the father of her child—to bring Mary Stevens back to a realization of her duty to the world. But if she couldn't save every case—she could save many. So Mary Stevens came back.

Powerful characterizations are given in this gripping story of life behind the doors marked "M. D." by Kay Francis as Mary Stevens and Lyle Talbot as her co-worker physician lover and later husband. Glenda Farrell, Thelma Todd and George Cooper are also cast in important roles.

"Lady for a Day," with eight or ten big stars of the screen, will come to the Broadway theater a week from tomorrow, December 2, to play for four days.

Some of those in the cast include May Robson, who plays "Apple Annie," Warren William, as the gangster, New Sparks, Hobard Bosworth, Guy Kibbee, Glenda Farrell and Jean Parker.

Special Show Service On Thanksgiving

Continuous performance at both the Fox West Coast and the Broadway theaters for next Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, was announced today by Lester J. Fountain, manager.

The Broadway theater will be playing "Christopher Bean," a new show opening on that date, and the West Coast theater will play "Female," starring Ruth Chatterton and George Brent. "Female" also opens on Thanksgiving day.

Young Couple Married In Home Ready for Their Occupancy

Southern California was widely represented in the wedding party and guests last Sunday evening, November 19, when Walter A. Daschner of Laguna Beach and Miss Athalene E. Williams of Bellflower were married at 7:30 o'clock in their new home, 615 Sunset place, in Our Village, with Judge C. C. Cravath conducting the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Williams of Bellflower. She was educated in St. Mary's Academy, South Bend, Ind., and for the past four years has lived in California. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Anna Daschner of Fullerton. He is connected with the Laguna Beach postoffice, having been on the staff there for the past three years, and prior to that was connected with the Hemet postoffice for eight years.

The home was decorated with chrysanthemums and delphinium. The bride wore a simple gown of white, with a corsage of gardenias and lilies-of-the-valley.

The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Daschner, Mr. and Mrs. Philip A. Johndrew and daughter, Joan, Fullerton; Mr. and Mrs. Norman J. Daschner, Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Leroy F. Walden, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Paustell, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Marriner and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Heisey, Laguna Beach; Mr. and Mrs. H. Bouchell, Hollywood; Mrs. Hazel Fox, Bellflower; Mrs. Cora M. Smith and Charles Trowbridge, Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. John Greer, San Diego.

News Reaches Here Of Marriage in Portland

News has reached here of the marriage of a former Santa Ana resident, Frederick Eugene Vahl, to Miss Blanche Vincent Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Howard of Portland, Ore., an event taking place November 4 in Westminster Presbyterian church of Portland.

Dr. Perry C. Hopper read the service at high noon. The bride wore a dress of delphinium blue crepe made floor length, her accessories including a matching hat and a shoulder corsage of gardenias. After a wedding trip to Seattle, the couple established a home at 5836 Northeast Cleveland avenue, Portland.

Mr. Vahl is in the advertising department of the Industrial Sign corporation of Portland. When living in this city his home was at 709 West Pine street with his father, George F. Vahl, now a member of the firm of Vahl and Laasch, Miami, Fla. It will be remembered that he was contractor for the General Petroleum corporation in Orange county while in this community. His son was identified with him at this time.

Party Marks Birthday Anniversary

Guests invited to the James R. Cruz home, 1022 Cypress avenue, took part Wednesday evening in dancing and music planned in observance of the birthday anniversary of Miss Virginia Cruz, daughter of the home.

Roses and ferns were details of a pink and green decorative scheme. Refreshments were served at a large table contered with a decorated birthday cake presented to the honoree by the guests. She received many other gifts.

Dance music was furnished by the Mission Troubadours, and Henry Kirker gave vocal solos. Miss Helen Mercado, recently returned from a stage tour of the east, danced the tango.

Those present included Miss Amie Thomas and David Higuera, who are to leave this week end to be married in Yuma, with Miss Cruz accompanying them; Mrs. James Cruz, who assisted her daughter in giving the affair, and the Misses Carmen Acevedo, Ella Acevedo, Helen Mercado, Anne Cruz, Nellie Sepulveda, Josie Sepulveda, Katherine Sepulveda, Mary Gamez, Amie Thomas, Frances Olds, Yolanda Cruz, Mrs. Thomas Cross; Mes. s Henry Kirker, Phillip Miranda, Tony Lobo, David Higuera, Leo Mesa, John Faro, Raymond Crowthers, Frank Summerfield, James Newman, Thomas Roland and Miss Cruz.

Silver Anniversary of Wedding in Portland Is Observed

Memories of that sparkling autumn day just 25 years ago in Portland, Ore., when Miss Myrtle Hatfield became the bride of George A Raymer, were recalled Thursday in the Southland home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymer, 2117 North Ross street. This was especially true that evening when friends assembled to offer congratulations on the silver wedding day of their hosts.

White and silver, mingled in all decorative features of the home, were especially effective at the dining room table where a dessert course was served buffet style shortly after the arrival of the merry group of guests. Silver wedding bells, which formed the dominant motif of the evening, swung gaily above the lace spread table with its great cluster of shaggy white chrysanthemums and its slim white tapers in silver candlesticks. Silver wedding bells chimed again on the small tables where guests gathered in friendly foursomes to enjoy the wedding cake, ices and other dainties of the dessert course.

Contract bridge was introduced as the evening's dviresion, and Dr. and Mrs. Frank H. Paterson made high score, with its attendant first prize. Second prize went to Mr. and Mrs. Lester Tubbs while Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Nickey were consoled.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymer shared their anniversary celebration with Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Rousselle, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Ranney, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Winbigler, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Tubbs, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Liebig, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Haan, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Paterson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vandermast and Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Nickey.

Of this group, Dr. and Mrs. Paterson also had celebrated a November wedding anniversary, and while Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Ranney were celebrating their thirty-fifth anniversary on exactly the same date, November 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymer made their home in Spokane, Wash., until a dozen years ago when they came to California. For the past eight years they have lived in Santa Ana where Mr. Raymer is secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Raymer is actively identified with Ebell society which she serves not only as vice president, but as chairman of the program committee.

Plans for Marriage in Yuma Revealed by Bride-elect

Plans of Miss Inarose Welder of this city and Robert J. Wolf of North Hollywood to go to Yuma, Ariz., by airplane December 9 to be married were revealed Wednesday night at a pretty affair given by Miss Welder, entertaining in her home at 904 Lacy street.

Bouquets of roses attractively arranged were in keeping with a pink and white color theme. Tables were placed for bridge in which Mrs. C. N. Whittam and Miss Norene Henry scored high and low.

It was during the refreshment hour that the interesting news was revealed. Rooms were darkened while individual nutcups on standards lighted with silvered candles in candelabra were brought in. Concealed by the candies and nuts were capsules containing tiny scrolls on which were written names of Miss Welder and Mr. Wolf with the date, December 9. Salad and sandwiches were served with coffee and chocolate. Miss Rose Edwards assisted Miss Welder throughout the evening.

Miss Welder's guests were Miss Joan Schott, Miss Ardis Eicher, Fullerton; Mrs. Berry, Miss Nadene Nenno, Miss Dorothy Berry, Miss Eva Richards, Anaheim; Miss Veneta Viau, Orange; Miss Willa Craven, La Habra; Miss Norene Henry, Placentia; Miss Cleo Hendricks, Los Angeles; Mrs. N. E. Whittam, Miss Mary Jane Welder, and Miss Rose Richards, this city. Mr. Wolf and Mr. Whittam joined the group for part of the evening.

Mr. Wolf is employed at the Metropolitan studios in Hollywood. Both he and his fiancee are especially interested in aviation, and have been flying for the past year. Miss Welder is a graduate of Ponca City, Okla., high school, having attended school previously in Anaheim and Fullerton. She has been studying aeronautics at Fullerton Junior college.

MRS. MELVIN CLEMENT

Since the mid-November wedding in Glendale's Little Church of the Flowers of Miss Dorothy Kern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Kern of Orange, and Melvin Clement, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Clement, also of Orange, the new Mr. and Mrs. Clement have been spending their honeymoon in San Francisco and other northern California points of interest. Upon their return they will establish their home in the neighboring city where Mr. Clement is associated with his father in the lumber business. Both are graduates of Orange Union High school and are prominent in all affairs of the younger set. Mrs. Clement has been especially interested in Girl Scout work. Mr. Clement has served Orange Twenty-Thirty club as president.

MISS JUEL YOUNG

Among the younger members of Laguna Beach Community Players who appeared this week in the first Workshop production, was Miss Juel Young, who scored a decided success in an ingenue role. Miss Young came to Our Village from Los Angeles just following the close of school in the summer, and makes her home with Mrs. Tessa Marin Chamberlain, 271 Cypress Drive. She has entered with special zest into community Players affairs, and it is believed offers especially good material for future productions. The Workshop is the incubator for major performances as John B. Hughes, director, calls for volunteers and permits them to select the role they wish. The plays then are given privately before members of the association only.

MISS VENETA VIAU

Tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock in beautiful Trinity Episcopal church of Orange, Miss Veneta Viau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph U. Viau, 325 South Orange will exchange wedding vows with Thomas E. ("Ted") Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Davis of Couer d'Alene, Idaho. Announcement of the wedding date was made early in November when Mrs. Viau presided at a charmingly appointed at home. Since that time, Miss Viau has been complimented at a series of friendly parties and showers. She and Mr. Davis plan an automobile trip as a honeymoon, but will not go very far from Orange county until after Thanksgiving, in order to celebrate that holiday with the bride's family.

MISS KATHERINE BARR

Having completed her course at Scripps college for Women in June of this year, Miss Katherine Barr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Barr, 1608 North Main street, is spending the early winter months in additional studies, taking secretarial work at Santa Ana Junior college. She attended the Bishop school at La Jolla before entering Scripps. At both Bishop and Scripps, she had experience in dramatic roles, an experience which is being applied at present to her work with Santa Ana Community Players. For she will play the part of "Madge Livingston" in "Let Us Be Gay," the opening play of the season, scheduled for December 8 and 9 in Ebell auditorium. Miss Barr appeared in such productions as Goldoni's "La Locandiera" and in "The Dragon" by Lady Gregory.

MRS. C. GLENN GATES

Yuma, seemingly the favorite wedding city for romantic young Southern Californians, was chosen by Miss Eulalie Olsen and C. Glenn Gates as the scene of their early November wedding. After the rites in Yuma Baptist church, Mr. and Mrs. Gates returned to California and motored north for a honeymoon trip before returning to Santa Ana to make their home at 911 West Fourth street. Mrs. Gates is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Olsen, 817 South Ross street. Mr. Gates is the son of Perry Gates, 2017 Bush street. Both young people are graduates of Santa Ana High school.

MRS. CHARLES McDANIEL JR.

Coming to Santa Ana early last spring from Glendale, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McDaniel jr. have identified themselves with various interests here, including Community Players' association. Mrs. McDaniel is to play the ingenue role, "Dierdre Lessing," in the association's opening play, "Let Us Be Gay." As a senior in Fresno High school, she played the important role of "Tweeney," the kitchen maid in "The Admirable Crichton," and followed this with parts in various one-acts and regular dramas at Glendale Junior college. Her experience has included minor roles in Pasadena Community plays as well.

Honeymooners Honored At Buffet Supper In Ey Home

Complimenting Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dana Straw, recently returned from a honeymoon trip to Wisconsin and the middle west, Major and Mrs. Frank Ey were hosts Thursday night at a delightful party in their home, 201 East Ninth street.

Guests were bidden to a buffet supper for which the home was given a cheerful Thanksgiving atmosphere by decorative effects which reached the height of charm at the table where the supper courses were enjoyed.

A musical evening followed, with various of the guests contributing instrumental and vocal numbers. Among the musicians represented were Miss Margaret Rust, Miss Helen Gillogly, Dr. J. Novas, Mrs. Albert Cheap and Miss Catherine Cheap. Variety was given by clever readings by Mrs. Dorothy Hail Pitman, and by the two charming little daughters of the home, Miss Ramona, who danced, and her younger sister, Patricia, who recited.

Mr. and Mrs. Straw told details of their late summer visit in the east, not only with Mrs. Straw's relatives in Green Bay, Wis., but at the Century of Progress exposition. Mrs. Straw was Miss Lillian Ruth Quatsoe of Los Angeles.

Major and Mrs. Ey entertained as their guests, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Straw, the former's mother, Mrs. J. Straw, and Mr. and Mrs. William Donaghey of Venice; Mrs. John Gilligan, Mrs. Albert Cheap, Miss Catherine Cheap, Messrs Clyde Straw, James Gubbins and Joseph Gilligan, Las Angeles; Miss Margaret Rust, Mrs. Dorothy Hail Pitman, Miss Helen Gillogly and Dr. J. Novas.

Authority on Oriental Situation to Speak At Ebell Meeting

Announcing Dr. Elam J. Anderson, president of Linfield College, McMinnville, Ore., as the speaker, and "International Good Will Under Fire" as the subject, Santa Ana Ebell society promises an unusually interesting feature for its program Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the clubhouse auditorium.

"International Good Will Under Fire" will deal primarily with the Chinese-Japanese question, and since Dr. Anderson spent 14 years in China in an exhaustive study of the yellow races, he may be said truly to speak with definite authority. He was recalled from China in 1932 to take the presidency of Linfield college, where he immediately set in motion a number of modern innovations including a rearrangement of the study courses. These are bringing the school into prominence among scholastic institutions, and already have materially increased its student body and its financial surplus.

The same energy which has gone into his duties as college president, seems to distinguish Dr. Anderson as a research worker, as a student and as a lecturer, according to the reports of those who have worked with him, studied his methods, and listened to his addresses.

During eight of his 14 years in China, Dr. Anderson was professor of education at the University of Shanghai. For the remainder of the time he was superintendent of the American school at Shanghai, where he had ample time to observe and study the problems of the race. In March, 1932, his school was within four miles of the battle front.

Business matters of the Ebell meeting will include the conclusion of the membership drive that has been in effect for the past two months. Anyone wishing to join the society at the present special rates, is asked to be present Monday afternoon and make her application.

Mrs. Charles V. Davis, president, has arranged for a special observance of Founders' day also, and a tea hour will succeed the program with Mrs. Wyckoff Hoxie, chairman, and members of her hospitality committee receiving in the peacock room.

Tea Shared by Three Patriotic Groups

Three patriotic organizations of the city took part in an enjoyable affair of recent date in Knights of Pythias hall, with Shiloh Circle Ladies of the G. A. R. and Sarah A. Rounds Tent Daughters of Union Veterans joining as hostesses in compliment to Sedgwick W. R. C.

On the committee in charge were Mesdames Othalda Siders, Edith Kuesel and Lula Blacketer of Shiloh Circle and Lena Hewitt, Addie Gardner and Jessie Overton of the D. U. V.

Some of the group played spoof during the afternoon. A program given includes songs by Master Nye Martin, with his mother, Mrs. Janet Martin accompanying; Spanish dance, "Jota" and "Tango" by Master Barry McPhee and Carolyn Wells, with Mrs. Barry H. McPhee accompanying.

Refreshments of cookies and sassafras tea were served in the dining room at a large table suggestive of the Thanksgiving season with its large basket of colorful fruits. Many flowers had been arranged throughout the rooms.

Luncheon Precedes Departure for Berkeley

Among the pretty affairs given in compliment to Mrs. Leroy P. Morgans, who has just returned to her home in Berkeley following an extended visit here, was a party in the home of her sister, Mrs. C. E. Rossier, 531 South Birch street.

Guests all contributed dishes to the delicious luncheon served. Games of bunco followed, with Mrs. C. W. Boggs and another sister of Mrs. Morgans', Mrs. Ruth Mahan, scoring first and second high. Mrs. W. S. Cleary was consoled.

Those present, other than the honor guest, Mrs. Morgans, and the hostess, Mrs. Rossier, were Mesdames Atwood Bradley, Harry Rossier, Elmer Read, Albert Sanford, Charles Markwood, C. W. Boggs, Herbert J. Clayton, G. C. Griffin, Ruth Mahan, Jack Baer, W. S. Clarey, Lulu Johnson.

Ontario Prime Minister Arrives With Family For Short Visit

One of the interesting events of the week was a luncheon given in Santa Ana, which had as its inspiration, the visit in this community of the Hon. George S. Henry of Toronto, Can., prime minister of the Province of Ontario, Mrs. Henry and their daughter, Miss Helen Henry, who are enjoying a vacation visit in the Southland.

Driving to Orange from Los Angeles, where they are guests at the Biltmore, the distinguished Canadians spent the day with their cousins, the Messrs Karl L. Parmenter, Aubrey B. Parmenter and Lester S. Parmenter. Karl S. Parmenter was luncheon host to the party which included also Miss Myra Westlake of this city.

During their stay, they took the opportunity to inspect the Masonic temple here, which Mr. Henry declared was one of the finest equipped buildings of its kind that he had seen. He stands high in Masonic circles in Canada and was chairman of the reception committee when the Shriners held their annual convention in Toronto in 1929.

At the Henry suburban home, "Oriole Farm," just ten miles from the Prime Minister's chambers in the Parliament buildings, Toronto, Mr. Henry follows his hobby, the breeding of blooded cattle. On this beautiful estate, through whose 400 acres runs the famous Don river, Mr. and Mrs. Henry have built, in addition to the family home, residences for their married son and daughter, given to them as wedding gifts.

Mrs. Henry is a niece of Mrs. Minnie McCay, 207 West Palmyra avenue, Orange, and a great niece of Laura Secord, famous heroine of the War of 1812. The late Mrs. Aubrey B. Parmenter of Orange, was her aunt.

Jaysee Honor Society Receives Members At Formal Rites

In the soft glow of yellow and purple tapers initiates of Santa Ana Junior College Phi Theta Kappa took their vows of membership before Miss Ruth Jenkins, president, at an impressive ceremony held Thursday evening in the Y hut. After each had been led by Miss Florence Warmer to the candle lit table where the ceremony was read, the organization song was sung, accompanied by Everard Stovall. Baskets of chrysanthemums, sweetpeas and ranunculuses were arranged artistically by members of Las Gitanas.

Everard Stovall played piano numbers followed by selections by Le Petite trio, Ray Archer, piano; Miss Anna May Archer, cello, and Robert Forcey, violin.

Dr. George A. Warmer, guest speaker, talked on the benefits of scholarships. He also spoke of the possibilities of culture and development through a constructive use of leisure.

Sciots Raise Funds For Annual Party

Funds raised at a successful card party given Wednesday evening in M. W. A. hall by Santa Ana Pyramid of Sciots are to be used in giving the annual Christmas party next month for children.

Ora Jennings, toparch, was in general charge of the affair. Prizes in the card games were won by Mrs. Betty Coleman, Mrs. Ruth Kemper, Mrs. Pearl Lycan, Mrs. William Sylvester and Mrs. Della Maud Ryan, holding the five high scores for women. R. V. Cox, Alvin Nowotney, James Austin, Charles F. Mitchell and Edward Morse won prizes for men.

Sciots concluded their hospitality by serving refreshments.

Formal Wedding Rites In Ontario Interest Santa Ana Friends

Of more than ordinary interest in this city where the bride spent her childhood and early girlhood, was the marriage in Christ church Ontario, Saturday night, November 18, of Miss Olive Adele Granger, eldest daughter of the late Edmund Hatcher Granger and Mrs. Granger, formerly of this city, now Mrs. William Puzey Arden of Ontario, and Harry Baldwin Harlow jr., eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Harlow of Ontario.

Christ church was very lovely with white and lavender chrysanthemums defining the aisles down which the bridal party moved, and with baskets of giant 'mums alternating with stately candelabra at the altar. Three young cousins of the bride, Tom and Ned DuVall and Charles Seares, of San Marino, served as acolytes.

Miss Granger, entering the church on the arm of her brother, John Granger who gave her in marriage, was very beautiful in princess lace over ivory satin, worn with a graceful short veil of the same lace, caught to the tiny cap with orange blossoms. It was the same lovely costume worn by her mother as a bride twenty-four years ago. Her flowers were orchids and white rosebuds, and she wore the bridegroom's gift of pearls which his mother had worn.

The Misses Florence Brownridge, Clara Kate Owens and Marcia Huber of this city, and Zoe Claubes of Porterville, college friends of the bride, formed a pretty picture in their bridesmaid frocks of transparent velvet in hyacinth shades with tiny turbans to match, and carrying colonial bouquets of pansies.

The Misses Peggy and Mary Granger, small sisters of the bride, made a pretty pair of flower girls in frocks of pompadour silk, tiny net caps, and carrying sweet peas.

Kenneth Callow of Ontario served Mr. Harlow as best man, and ushers were Messrs. Nelson Gray, Upland; David Gilman and William Graber, Ontario, and Ted Tibbot, Los Angeles.

The Rev. Father Richard Gushee, rector of Christ church, read the rites as he had done 24 years earlier at the same altar for the bride's father and mother.

Following the ceremony was a reception in the William Puzey Arden home, where Mrs. Hjalmar Quist of Long Beach, and Mrs. Theron Tibbot of Ontario, aunts of the newly wedded pair, presided at the tea table and Mrs. Harold Backstrand served the wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlow left for an automobile honeymoon trip, the bride wearing brown sheer wool, a smart fur swagger coat, and a corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley. They will return to make their home in Ontario where Mr. Harlow is with the California Fruit Growers' exchange. He attended St. Mary's college and University of Oregon. His bride had her college work at Scripps college and University of Washington, and is a member of Chi Omega sorority.

Latin Students Enjoy Semi-Annual Party

The Latin club party, one of the outstanding semi-annual events of Polytechnic High school, was held in the new cafeteria on Thursday evening of this week.

The main room of the building was pleasantly decorated with cornstalks and pumpkins, while the music room was given over to a representation of Hades. The trip through Hades, conducted by Albert Pickhardt and Stephen Bruff, proved a most entertaining and unusual event of the evening.

There followed a program which consisted of three burlesque skits of ancient Roman history. These were planned and presented by Betty Jane Moore, Betty Lee and Audrey Granas. These were interspersed with games related to the Latin language and history, which were ably planned by Miss Theresa LeGaye. The evening was concluded with the serving of typically harvest refreshments.

Southern California was widely represented in the wedding party and guests last Sunday evening, November 19, when Walter A. Daschner of Laguna Beach and Miss Athalene E. Williams of Bellflower were married at 7:30 o'clock in their new home, 615 Sunset place, in Our Village, with Judge C. C. Cravath conducting the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Williams of Bellflower. She was educated in St. Mary's Academy, South Bend, Ind., and for the past four years has lived in California. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Anna Daschner of Fullerton. He is connected with the Laguna Beach postoffice, having been on the staff there for the past three years, and prior to that was connected with the Hemet postoffice for eight years.

The home was decorated with chrysanthemums and delphinium. The bride wore a simple gown of white, with a corsage of gardenias and lilies-of-the-valley.

The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Daschner, Mr. and Mrs. Philip A. Johndrew and daughter, Joan, Fullerton; Mr. and Mrs. Norman J. Daschner, Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Leroy F. Walden, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Paustell, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Marriner and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Heisey, Laguna Beach; Mr. and Mrs. H. Bouchell, Hollywood; Mrs. Hazel Fox, Bellflower; Mrs. Cora M. Smith and Charles Trowbridge, Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. John Greer, San Diego.

News Reaches Here Of Marriage in Portland

News has reached here of the marriage of a former Santa Ana resident, Frederick Eugene Vahl, to Miss Blanche Vincent Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Howard of Portland, Ore., an event taking place November 4 in Westminster Presbyterian church of Portland.

Dr. Perry C. Hopper read the service at high noon. The bride wore a dress of delphinium blue crepe made floor length, her accessories including a matching hat and a shoulder corsage of gardenias. After a wedding trip to Seattle, the couple established a home at 5836 Northeast Cleveland avenue, Portland.

Mr. Vahl is in the advertising department of the Industrial Sign corporation of Portland. When living in this city his home was at 709 West Pine street with his father, George F. Vahl, now a member of the firm of Vahl and Laasch, Miami, Fla. It will be remembered that he was contractor for the General Petroleum corporation in Orange county while in this community. His son was identified with him at this time.

Party Marks Birthday Anniversary

Guests invited to the James R. Cruz home, 1022 Cypress avenue, took part Wednesday evening in dancing and music planned in observance of the birthday anniversary of Miss Virginia Cruz, daughter of the home.

Roses and ferns were details of a pink and green decorative scheme. Refreshments were served at a large table contered with a decorated birthday cake presented to the honoree by the guests. She received many other gifts.

Dance music was furnished by the Mission Troubadours, and Henry Kirker gave vocal solos. Miss Helen Mercado, recently returned from a stage tour of the east, danced the tango.

Those present included Miss Amie Thomas and David Higuera, who are to leave this week end to be married in Yuma, with Miss Cruz accompanying them; Mrs. James Cruz, who assisted her daughter in giving the affair, and the Misses Carmen Acevedo, Ella Acevedo, Helen Mercado, Anne Cruz, Nellie Sepulveda, Josie Sepulveda, Katherine Sepulveda, Mary Gamez, Amie Thomas, Frances Olds, Yolanda Cruz, Mrs. Thomas Cross; Mes. s Henry Kirker, Philip Miranda, Tony Lobo, David Higuera, Leo Mesa, John Faro, Raymond Crowthers, Frank Summerfield, James Newman, Thomas Roland and Miss Cruz.

Silver Anniversary of Wedding in Portland Is Observed

Memories of that sparkling autumn day just 25 years ago in Portland, Ore., when Miss Myrtle Hatfield became the bride of George A Raymer, were recalled Thursday in the Southland home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymer, 2117 North Ross street. This was especially true that evening when friends assembled to offer congratulations on the silver wedding day of their hosts.

White and silver, mingled in all decorative features of the home, were especially effective at the dining room table where a dessert course was served buffet style shortly after the arrival of the merry group of guests. Silver wedding bells, which formed the dominant motif of the evening, swung gaily above the lace spread table with its great cluster of shaggy white chrysanthemums and its slim white tapers in silver candlesticks. Silver wedding bells chimed again on the small tables where guests gathered in friendly foursomes to enjoy the wedding cake, ices and other dainties of the dessert course.

Contract bridge was introduced as the evening's dviresion, and Dr. and Mrs. Frank H. Paterson made high score, with its attendant first prize. Second prize went to Mr. and Mrs. Lester Tubbs while Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Nickey were consoled.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymer shared their anniversary celebration with Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Rousselle, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Ranney, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Winbigler, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Tubbs, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Liebig, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Haan, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Paterson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vandermast and Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Nickey.

Of this group, Dr. and Mrs. Paterson also had celebrated a November wedding anniversary, and while Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Ranney were celebrating their thirty-fifth anniversary on exactly the same date, November 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymer made their home in Spokane, Wash., until a dozen years ago when they came to California. For the past eight years they have lived in Santa Ana where Mr. Raymer is secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Raymer is actively identified with Ebell society which she serves not only as vice president, but as chairman of the program committee.

Plans for Marriage in Yuma Revealed by Bride-elect

Plans of Miss Inarose Welder of this city and Robert J. Wolf of North Hollywood to go to Yuma, Ariz., by airplane December 9 to be married were revealed Wednesday night at a pretty affair given by Miss Welder, entertaining in her home at 904 Lacy street.

Bouquets of roses attractively arranged were in keeping with a pink and white color theme. Tables were placed for bridge in which Mrs. C. N. Whittam and Miss Norene Henry scored high and low.

It was during the refreshment hour that the interesting news was revealed. Rooms were darkened while individual nutcups on standards lighted with silvered candles in candelabra were brought in. Concealed by the candies and nuts were capsules containing tiny scrolls on which were written names of Miss Welder and Mr. Wolf with the date, December 9. Salad and sandwiches were served with coffee and chocolate. Miss Rose Edwards assisted Miss Welder throughout the evening.

Miss Welder's guests were Miss Joan Schott, Miss Ardis Eicher, Fullerton; Mrs. Berry, Miss Nadene Nenno, Miss Dorothy Berry, Miss Eva Richards, Anaheim; Miss Veneta Viau, Orange; Miss Willa Craven, La Habra; Miss Norene Henry, Placentia; Miss Cleo Hendricks, Los Angeles; Mrs. N. E. Whittam, Miss Mary Jane Welder, and Miss Rose Richards, this city. Mr. Wolf and Mr. Whittam joined the group for part of the evening.

Mr. Wolf is employed at the Metropolitan studios in Hollywood. Both he and his fiancee are especially interested in aviation, and have been flying for the past year. Miss Welder is a graduate of Ponca City, Okla., high school, having attended school previously in Anaheim and Fullerton. She has been studying aeronautics at Fullerton Junior college.

MRS. MELVIN CLEMENT

Since the mid-November wedding in Glendale's Little Church of the Flowers of Miss Dorothy Kern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Kern of Orange, and Melvin Clement, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Clement, also of Orange, the new Mr. and Mrs. Clement have been spending their honeymoon in San Francisco and other northern California points of interest. Upon their return they will establish their home in the neighboring city where Mr. Clement is associated with his father in the lumber business. Both are graduates of Orange Union High school and are prominent in all affairs of the younger set. Mrs. Clement has been especially interested in Girl Scout work. Mr. Clement has served Orange Twenty-Thirty club as president.

MISS JUEL YOUNG

Among the younger members of Laguna Beach Community Players who appeared this week in the first Workshop production, was Miss Juel Young, who scored a decided success in an ingenue role. Miss Young came to Our Village from Los Angeles just following the close of school in the summer, and makes her home with Mrs. Tessa Marin Chamberlain, 271 Cypress Drive. She has entered with special zest into community Players affairs, and it is believed offers especially good material for future productions. The Workshop is the incubator for major performances as John B. Hughes, director, calls for volunteers and permits them to select the role they wish. The plays then are given privately before members of the association only.

MISS VENETA VIAU

Tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock in beautiful Trinity Episcopal church of Orange, Miss Veneta Viau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph U. Viau, 325 South Orange will exchange wedding vows with Thomas E. ("Ted") Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Davis of Couer d'Alene, Idaho. Announcement of the wedding date was made early in November when Mrs. Viau presided at a charmingly appointed at home. Since that time, Miss Viau has been complimented at a series of friendly parties and showers. She and Mr. Davis plan an automobile trip as a honeymoon, but will not go very far from Orange county until after Thanksgiving, in order to celebrate that holiday with the bride's family.

MISS KATHERINE BARR

Having completed her course at Scripps college for Women in June of this year, Miss Katherine Barr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Barr, 1608 North Main street, is spending the early winter months in additional studies, taking secretarial work at Santa Ana Junior college. She attended the Bishop school at La Jolla before entering Scripps. At both Bishop and Scripps, she had experience in dramatic roles, an experience which is being applied at present to her work with Santa Ana Community Players. For she will play the part of "Madge Livingston" in "Let Us Be Gay," the opening play of the season, scheduled for December 8 and 9 in Ebell auditorium. Miss Barr appeared in such productions as Goldoni's "La Locandiera" and in "The Dragon" by Lady Gregory.

MRS. C. GLENN GATES

Yuma, seemingly the favorite wedding city for romantic young Southern Californians, was chosen by Miss Eulalie Olsen and C. Glenn Gates as the scene of their early November wedding. After the rites in Yuma Baptist church, Mr. and Mrs. Gates returned to California and motored north for a honeymoon trip before returning to Santa Ana to make their home at 911 West Fourth street. Mrs. Gates is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Olsen, 817 South Ross street. Mr. Gates is the son of Perry Gates, 2017 Bush street. Both young people are graduates of Santa Ana High school.

MRS. CHARLES McDANIEL JR.

Coming to Santa Ana early last spring from Glendale, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McDaniel jr. have identified themselves with various interests here, including Community Players' association. Mrs. McDaniel is to play the ingenue role, "Dierdre Lessing," in the association's opening play, "Let Us Be Gay." As a senior in Fresno High school, she played the important role of "Tweeney," the kitchen maid in "The Admirable Crichton," and followed this with parts in various one-acts and regular dramas at Glendale Junior college. Her experience has included minor roles in Pasadena Community plays as well.

Formal Wedding Rites In Ontario Interest Santa Ana Friends

Of more than ordinary interest in this city where the bride spent her childhood and early girlhood, was the marriage in Christ church Ontario, Saturday night, November 18, of Miss Olive Adèle Granger, eldest daughter of the late Edmund Hatcher Granger and Mrs. Granger, formerly of this city, now Mrs. William Puzey Arden of Ontario, and Harry Baldwin Harlow jr., eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Harlow of Ontario.

Christ church was very lovely with white and lavender chrysanthemums defining the aisles down which the bridal party moved, and with baskets of giant 'mums alternating with stately candelabra at the altar. Three young cousins of the bride, Tom and Ned DuVall and Charles Seares, of San Marino, served as acolytes.

Miss Granger, entering the church on the arm of her brother, John Granger who gave her in marriage, was very beautiful in princess lace over ivory satin, worn with a graceful short veil of the same lace, caught to the tiny cap with orange blossoms. It was the same lovely costume worn by her mother as a bride twenty-four years ago. Her flowers were orchids and white rosebuds, and she wore the bridegroom's gift of pearls which his mother had worn.

The Misses Florence Brownridge, Clara Kate Owens and Marcia Huber of this city, and Zoe Claubes of Porterville, college friends of the bride, formed a pretty picture in their bridesmaid frocks of transparent velvet in hyacinth shades with tiny turbans to match, and carrying colonial bouquets of pansies.

The Misses Peggy and Mary Granger, small sisters of the bride, made a pretty pair of flower girls in frocks of pompadour silk, tiny net caps, and carrying sweet peas.

Kenneth Callow of Ontario served Mr. Harlow as best man, and ushers were Messrs. Nelson Gray, Upland; David Gilman and William Graber, Ontario, and Ted Tibbot, Los Angeles.

The Rev. Father Richard Gushee, rector of Christ church, read the rites as he had done 24 years earlier at the same altar for the bride's father and mother.

Following the ceremony was a reception in the William Puzey Arden home, where Mrs. Hjalmar Quist of Long Beach, and Mrs. Theron Tibbot of Ontario, aunts of the newly wedded pair, presided at the tea table and Mrs. Harold Backstrand served the wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlow left for an automobile honeymoon trip, the bride wearing brown sheer wool, a smart fur swagger coat, and a corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley. They will return to make their home in Ontario where Mr. Harlow is with the California Fruit Growers' exchange. He attended St. Mary's college and University of Oregon. His bride had her college work at Scripps college and University of Washington, and is a member of Chi Omega sorority.

Latin Students Enjoy Semi-Annual Party

The Latin club party, one of the outstanding semi-annual events of Polytechnic High school, was held in the new cafeteria on Thursday evening of this week.

The main room of the building was pleasantly decorated with cornstalks and pumpkins, while the music room was given over to a representation of Hades. The trip through Hades, conducted by Albert Pickhardt and Stephen Bruff, proved a most entertaining and unusual event of the evening.

There followed a program which consisted of three burlesque skits of ancient Roman history. These were planned and presented by Betty Jane Moore, Betty Lee and Audrey Granas. These were interspersed with games related to the Latin language and history, which were ably planned by Miss Theresa LeGaye. The evening was concluded with the serving of typically harvest refreshments.

Following their usual supper interval in the dining room of the Y. W. C. A. clubrooms, Wryeende Maegdenu club members this week had the pleasure of seeing a clever one-act play given by Junior college students of Ernest Crozier Phillips.

The play, a modern comedy of scintillant humor, was directed by Miss Louise Leck. Characters were "Clarice," played by Lois Pankey; "John" by Lawrence Nolan; "Willis" by Paul Hales, and "Steward" by Bill Green.

Following this pleasant entertainment, the club members sought their various study groups, many of them choosing that devoted to work on articles in preparation for the annual Spanish Kitchen which the club will hold in December. Next week's meeting will bring the present series of classes to a close.

Miss Hattie Belle Wall was general chairman for this week's meeting. It was well attended although several members were absent in attendance at the Leadership seminar held in Riverside. Among those at the seminar were the Misses Eva Deane Caskey, Grace Gettle, Hazel Lee and Mary Ford. Miss Nancy Elder, Y. W. secretary, was present for the entire conference.

Ostensibly a regular meeting of Sigma Tau Psi sorority, the enjoyable gathering of that closely knitted sisterhood on Thursday evening with Miss Jean Rowland, 2418 Fairmont avenue, was in reality a carefully planned party, having as its incentive a welcome home for Mrs. William L. Hewitt (Agnita Wheeler) who, with Mr. Hewitt, recently returned from Hollywood to live in Santa Ana.

The first intimation given Mrs. Hewitt, a bride of early October, that the meeting was other than a customary business session with a brief social finale, was the entry of two pledges, Miss Genevieve Glover and Miss Velma Allen. They bore an array of ribboned packages and placed them before the honor guest, who had the pleasure of claiming the miscellaneous gifts which they contained.

While these were being passed for admiring inspection, Miss Rowland, assisted by her mother and sister, Mrs. Elliott Rowland and Miss Betty Rowland, arranged small tables for refreshments. A salad course was followed by a sweets course, all served buffet style from a large table appointed in white and hyacinth tones.

The remainder of the evening was spent in lively chat and an informal session of bridge, and was shared by Mrs. Hewitt, Mrs. Bruce Vegely (Doris Goff), Mrs. Robert Reed of Balboa (Lucille Conaway), Mrs. Roy Griset (Phyllis Pope), the Misses Alyce Majors, Alice Hanson, Betty Barkman, Jean House, Mary Emil Majors, Jean Peacock, Carol House, Mary Read, Betty Rowland, Louise Leck, Velma Allen of Fullerton, Genevieve Glover, Lucy Holmes and the hostess, Miss Jean Rowland.

Church Societies

First Presbyterian

Mrs. M. F. Leach, leader, conducted the business meeting, after which Mrs. Lena Hewitt, program chairman, took charge. Mrs. Roy Beall read a short story, "The Transfiguration of Miss Philura" by Florence Morse Kingsley. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in sewing and conversation.

Refreshments were served by a committee including Mrs. Smith, Miss Nellie Forbes, Mrs. Clara Chapman, Miss Leslie Smith and Mrs. C. D. Hinley.

First Methodist

Delta Alpha class members of the First Methodist church met this week in the home of Mrs. George T. Calhoun, 1612 Louise street. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Calhoun's mother, Mrs. Susan Bower, Miss Esther Henrickson, Miss Kezia Hay and Miss Gertrude Ladd. Chrysanthemums served as decorations.

Following a business meeting in charge of the president, Miss Irma DeBarr, a program was given. There ware readings by Miss Hay, musical numbers by Miss Lilly Confer and original stories by Miss Melissa Burt and Miss Beu-

First Methodist

Thirty members and guests attended the meeting of First Methodist Women's Aid South section held Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Laura Leonard, 511 South Birch street.

Mrs. C. M. Halderman, in charge of devotionals, gave Scripture readings and read a Thanksgiving story from the Christian Herald. During a business meeting in charge of the president, Mrs. Leonard, plans were made for a Christmas party to be held December 28 in the home of Mrs. Ella Bridenstine. Committee reports were given.

The program included vocal solos by Mrs. George Warmer, with Miss Esther Vogt playing piano accompaniment, and readings by Mrs. Arnold.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Leonard, with the assistance of Mrs. C. E. Kellogg, Mrs. Eldora Demarest, Mrs. George Townsend and Mrs. Lanning.

Flying Needle Club

Mrs. Frank Brown, 629 North Van Ness avenue, was hostess to members of the Flying Needle club Wednesday at an all-day affair. A morning devoted to sewing was brought to a close with the serving of a delicious luncheon at a table brightened with cotoneaster and red tapers.

During the business meeting plans were made for a Christmas party to be held in the home of Mrs. William Kintz.

The group worked on layette articles and made-over clothing which friends had contributed to the club for its welfare work. Mrs. Kintz and Mrs. Adolph Erickson won hostess and special prizes.

Those present were the hostess, Mrs. Brown, and Mrs. Kintz, Mrs. Adolph Erickson, Miss Verena Bailey, Mrs. Erroll Barnes, Mrs. Bernard Snee and Mrs. F. W. Bergendorff. Mrs. Bergendorff is to be hostess at the next meeting.

Parent-Teachers

Spurgeon

Under the auspices of Spurgeon P.-T. A., a party for all mothers and teachers of the school was given this week in the school under the direction of Mrs. Harold Wahlberg. Her assistants were Mesdames James Givens, Dean Wallace, R. D. Flaherty, Frank Corey and R. E. Steinberger.

Sunflowers and yellow chrysanthemums served as decorations for the pleasant event. Cards, other games and sewing interested the group. A door prize of a four-layer chocolate cake was won by Mrs. Edwin Child. Refreshments of sandwiches and ice-box cookies were dispensed from a table spread with lace and centered with a bowl of fruit. Autumn leaves and orange tapers completed the pretty decorative effect.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Dinner
1 cup chicken-tomato broth
1 breaded veal chop
4 Tbsps. string beans
1 tsp. butter for dressing
3 Tbsps. mashed cauliflower
Hearts of lettuce salad with Roquefort cheese dressing
Calory total, 425.

For an emergency soup keep a can of chicken broth and some tomato juice or canned tomato on your emergency shelf. Combine them, bring to the boil, season highly and serve with a spoonful of salted whipped cream in the bottom of the soup cup.

Veal should always be well cooked to be palatable, so bread your chops, brown them in a little fat, then transfer to a baking pan, add a little milk and water and bake them 1 hour in a slow oven.

Roquefort cheese dressing is something to conjure with! Make whatever kind of French dressing you are entitled to, arrange lettuce heart leaves in a mound on the salad plate, then take the piece of Roquefort firmly by the scuff of its soft neck and with a fork scrape crumbs of it over the lettuce. Pour on the dressing and serve at once.

The family dinner is all in this menu with the exception of potatoes or rice, rolls or what-have-you in bread, and a dessert.

Old Tantalus didn't use up all the suffering . . . we moderns have enough of it when we try to lose unwanted wads of fat and pounds of too solid flesh. But unlike poor old Tantalus, we CAN have our grapes and our drink of cool water through the medium of a properly balanced reducing diet.

If you will send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope a copy of my SAFE AND SANE REDUCING DIET will be mailed you right away.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Sandwiches

Grate cucumber and combine with cream cheese and lemon juice. Spread on thinly sliced rye bread.

Flake a can of red salmon, put sour pickles through the food grinder and mix with salt, pepper and a little mayonnaise to make a soft paste. Spread on white or brown bread.

CINNAMON TOAST WITH WALNUTS

3 Tbsps. butter
2 Tbsps. brown sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon
2 Tbsps. walnut meats

This spread is sufficient for 3 slices of bread: cream butter and sugar with cinnamon. Prepare bread, toast on one side, spread the untoasted side with the butter mixture, sprinkle with the chopped nuts and put under a slow flame until the sugar has melted.

Following their usual supper interval in the dining room of the Y. W. C. A. clubrooms, Wrycende Maegdenu club members this week had the pleasure of seeing a clever one-act play given by Junior college students of Ernest Crozier Phillips.

The play, a modern comedy of scintillant humor, was directed by Miss Louise Leck. Characters were "Clarice," played by Lois Pankey; "John" by Lawrence Nolan; "Willis" by Paul Hales, and "Steward" by Bill Green.

Following this pleasant entertainment, the club members sought their various study groups, many of them choosing that devoted to work on articles in preparation for the annual Spanish Kitchen which the club will hold in December. Next week's meeting will bring the present series of classes to a close.

Miss Hattie Belle Wall was general chairman for this week's meeting. It was well attended although several members were absent in attendance at the Leadership seminar held in Riverside. Among those at the seminar were the Misses Eva Deane Caskey, Grace Gettle, Hazel Lee and Mary Ford. Miss Nancy Elder, Y. W. secretary, was present for the entire conference.

Ostensibly a regular meeting of Sigma Tau Psi sorority, the enjoyable gathering of that closely knitted sisterhood on Thursday evening with Miss Jean Rowland, 2418 Fairmont avenue, was in reality a carefully planned party, having as its incentive a welcome home for Mrs. William L. Hewitt (Agnita Wheeler) who, with Mr. Hewitt, recently returned from Hollywood to live in Santa Ana.

The first intimation given Mrs. Hewitt, a bride of early October, that the meeting was other than a customary business session with a brief social finale, was the entry of two pledges, Miss Genevieve Glover and Miss Velma Allen. They bore an array of ribboned packages and placed them before the honor guest, who had the pleasure of claiming the miscellaneous gifts which they contained.

While these were being passed for admiring inspection, Miss Rowland, assisted by her mother and sister, Mrs. Elliott Rowland and Miss Betty Rowland, arranged small tables for refreshments. A salad course was followed by a sweets course, all served buffet style from a large table appointed in white and hyacinth tones.

The remainder of the evening was spent in lively chat and an informal session of bridge, and was shared by Mrs. Hewitt, Mrs. Bruce Vegely (Doris Goff), Mrs. Robert Reed of Balboa (Lucille Conaway), Mrs. Roy Griset (Phyllis Pope), the Misses Alyce Majors, Alice Hanson, Betty Barkman, Jean House, Mary Emil Majors, Jean Peacock, Carol House, Mary Read, Betty Rowland, Louise Leck, Velma Allen of Fullerton, Genevieve Glover, Lucy Holmes and the hostess, Miss Jean Rowland.

Church Societies

First Presbyterian

Mrs. M. F. Leach, leader, conducted the business meeting, after which Mrs. Lena Hewitt, program chairman, took charge. Mrs. Roy Beall read a short story, "The Transfiguration of Miss Philura" by Florence Morse Kingsley. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in sewing and conversation.

Refreshments were served by a committee including Mrs. Smith, Miss Nellie Forbes, Mrs. Clara Chapman, Miss Leslie Smith and Mrs. C. D. Hinley.

First Methodist

Delta Alpha class members of the First Methodist church met this week in the home of Mrs. George T. Calhoun, 1612 Louise street. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Calhoun's mother, Mrs. Susan Bower, Miss Esther Henrickson, Miss Kezia Hay and Miss Gertrude Ladd. Chrysanthemums served as decorations.

Following a business meeting in charge of the president, Miss Irma DeBarr, a program was given. There ware readings by Miss Hay, musical numbers by Miss Lilly Confer and original stories by Miss Melissa Burt and Miss Beu-

First Methodist

Thirty members and guests attended the meeting of First Methodist Women's Aid South section held Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Laura Leonard, 511 South Birch street.

Mrs. C. M. Halderman, in charge of devotionals, gave Scripture readings and read a Thanksgiving story from the Christian Herald. During a business meeting in charge of the president, Mrs. Leonard, plans were made for a Christmas party to be held December 28 in the home of Mrs. Ella Bridenstine. Committee reports were given.

The program included vocal solos by Mrs. George Warmer, with Miss Esther Vogt playing piano accompaniment, and readings by Mrs. Arnold.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Leonard, with the assistance of Mrs. C. E. Kellogg, Mrs. Eldora Demarest, Mrs. George Townsend and Mrs. Lanning.

Flying Needle Club

Mrs. Frank Brown, 629 North Van Ness avenue, was hostess to members of the Flying Needle club Wednesday at an all-day affair. A morning devoted to sewing was brought to a close with the serving of a delicious luncheon at a table brightened with cotoneaster and red tapers.

During the business meeting plans were made for a Christmas party to be held in the home of Mrs. William Kintz.

The group worked on layette articles and made-over clothing which friends had contributed to the club for its welfare work. Mrs. Kintz and Mrs. Adolph Erickson won hostess and special prizes.

Those present were the hostess, Mrs. Brown, and Mrs. Kintz, Mrs. Adolph Erickson, Miss Verena Bailey, Mrs. Erroll Barnes, Mrs. Bernard Snee and Mrs. F. W. Bergendorff. Mrs. Bergendorff is to be hostess at the next meeting.

Parent-Teachers

Spurgeon

Under the auspices of Spurgeon P.-T. A., a party for all mothers and teachers of the school was given this week in the school under the direction of Mrs. Harold Wahlberg. Her assistants were Mesdames James Givens, Dean Wallace, R. D. Flaherty, Frank Corey and R. E. Steinberger.

Sunflowers and yellow chrysanthemums served as decorations for the pleasant event. Cards, other games and sewing interested the group. A door prize of a four-layer chocolate cake was won by Mrs. Edwin Child. Refreshments of sandwiches and ice-box cookies were dispensed from a table spread with lace and centered with a bowl of fruit. Autumn leaves and orange tapers completed the pretty decorative effect.

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Dinner
1 cup chicken-tomato broth
1 breaded veal chop
4 Tbsps. string beans
1 tsp. butter for dressing
3 Tbsps. mashed cauliflower
Hearts of lettuce salad with Roquefort cheese dressing
Clear tea, no sugar.
Calory total, 425.

For an emergency soup keep a can of chicken broth and some tomato , ice or canned tomato on your emergency shelf. Combine them, bring to the boil, season highly and serve with a spoonful of salted whipped cream in the bottom of the soup cup.

Veal should always be well cooked to be palatable, so bread your chops, brown them in a little fat, then transfer to a baking pan, add a little milk and water and bake them 1 hour in a slow oven.

Roquefort cheese dressing is something to conjure with! Make whatever kind of French dressing you are entitled to, arrange lettuce heart leaves in a mound on the salad plate, then take the piece of Roquefort firmly by the scuff of its soft neck and with a fork scrape crumbs of it over the lettuce. Pour on the dressing and serve at once.

The family dinner is all in this menu with the exception of potatoes or rice, rolls or what-have-you in bread, and a dessert.

Old Tantalus didn't use up all the suffering . . . we moderns have enough of it when we try to lose unwanted wads of fat and pounds of too solid flesh. But unlike poor old Tantalus, we CAN have our grapes and our drink of cool water through the medium of a properly balanced reducing diet.

If you will send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope a copy of my SAFE AND SANE REDUCING DIET will be mailed you right away.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Sandwiches

Grate cucumber and combine with cream cheese and lemon juice. Spread on thinly sliced rye bread.

Flake a can of red salmon, put sour pickles through the food grinder and mix with salt, pepper and a little mayonnaise to make a soft paste. Spread on white or brown bread.

CINNAMON TOAST WITH WALNUTS

3 Tbsps. butter
2 Tbsps. brown sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon
2 Tbsps. walnut meats

This spread is sufficient for 3 slices of bread: cream butter and sugar with cinnamon. Prepare bread, toast on one side, spread the untoasted side with the butter mixture, sprinkle with the chopped nuts and put under a slow flame until the sugar has melted.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Paul In Corinth

Text: 1 Cor. 1:10-18; 2:1-5
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 26.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

What Athens was in the culture and philosophy of the ancient world, Corinth was in its general prosperity. It was called "the eye of Greece," and "to live as they do at Corinth" became a byword in the ancient world for luxurious living in a sophisticated and prosperous society.

Here, inevitably, in the conquest of the Grecian cities the gospel must make its way. It was notable for the fact that Paul paused in his journeying to and fro long enough to have at Corinth a period corresponding to some modern pastorates, though much more intense and crowded in its relative shortness.

The marks of this deeper ministry of contact and influence are evidenced in the fact that the two epistles to the Corinthians are much the longest that we have of Paul's writings, and give us with much detail the most intimate picture that we have of conditions in the ancient church.

In Corinth the divisions over matters of doctrine and concerning matters of practice became very marked. A great deal will be found in the Epistles concerning questions of conduct, answering the perplexity of these early Christians as to just what the new faith implied in pagan surroundings.

Here, inevitably, in its conquest have set before us the divisions that were of a somewhat personal nature. This church at Corinth had been fortunate in the distinguished leaders who had either lived there or spent some time with the church, and the result was that these leaders tended to develop followers.

Inasmuch as the leaders represented somewhat different viewpoints and emphasis, the tendency was toward the breaking up of the church into divisive sects or groups, some saying "I am of Paul," others, "I am of Apollos" and others, "I am of Cephas." For some even Christ had become the head of a party, and they were saying, "I am of Christ."

Paul meets this situation very determinedly and yet in excellent spirit. He challenges these Christians regarding the unworthiness of their divisions. He asks them, "Is Christ divided?" Was Paul crucified for them or were they baptized in the name of Paul?

He even rejoices that he had baptized only a few, lest anybody might say he had baptized in his own name. He lays emphasis that beneath all differences of opinion is the gospel of the Christ calling upon men to live together in love and righteousness.

Paul reminds them that the test of the Christian way is not found in outward expressions of wisdom, or in flowing words, but in the realities of faith. It is the power of God that saves men. It is the power of God that transforms their lives and makes them worthy to be in the Christian Church.

Men should seek that power above all things and should give their lives over fully to the influences of redemptive love, rather than take pride in any achievement of their own or in any assumed superiority to their fellows.

The topic of this lesson for intermediates and seniors is given as, "How to work with others." That is a good expression of the practical meaning of the lesson for us all. It is very necessary to learn if men would in any sense fulfill the will of God, for we are all God's children, and in our relationships in life we are all subject to his will whether or not we acknowledge it.

It is strange that, with such plain words as Paul has spoken and with the example of this dissension in the church of Corinth before us, the Christian Church throughout its history has been so marred by divisions and strife. Even those who have professed a common faith and purpose in Christ have often displayed the greatest unwillingness to work together or the utmost incompetence to do so in any practical way.

It is the neglect and failure of this essential privilege and duty that makes a lesson like this so important, and that makes it so necessary that we should return to it again and again.

The SCARLET ROPE

JOSHUA sent two spies into the walled city of Jericho to discover a means of attack. Once in the city, they lodged secretly with a woman named Rahab. However, word was carried to the King of Jericho that two Israelites had stolen into the city by night, and so he ordered his soldiers to search every dwelling for them.

Quickly Rahab hid the spies in the straw roof, and when their pursuers arrived she told them that the men they sought had departed just before dark.

When the searchers had gone she called the spies from their hiding place and said: "I know that the Lord has promised this land to the Israelites, and I have heard of his signs and wonders in the wilderness. I have saved you from the soldiers, and I will help you to escape, if you will promise to spare me and my family when you conquer Jericho."

They answered: "You shall have your lives for saving ours. Only swear not to reveal to anyone that we were here." Then she let them down from the roof by a scarlet rope, and as her house was built into the wall, they dropped outside of the city onto the plain.

Taking the same scarlet rope, Rahab bound it about the window frame, to mark her household from destruction.

The two spies hid in the hills for three days, until it was safe for them to rejoin Joshua and the Israelites.

Here, inevitably, in its conquest have set before us the divisions that were of a somewhat personal nature. This church at Corinth had been fortunate in the distinguished leaders who had either lived there or spent some time with the church, and the result was that these leaders tended to develop followers.

Inasmuch as the leaders represented somewhat different viewpoints and emphasis, the tendency was toward the breaking up of the church into divisive sects or groups, some saying "I am of Paul," others, "I am of Apollos" and others, "I am of Cephas." For some even Christ had become the head of a party, and they were saying, "I am of Christ."

Paul meets this situation very determinedly and yet in excellent spirit. He challenges these Christians regarding the unworthiness of their divisions. He asks them, "Is Christ divided?" Was Paul crucified for them or were they baptized in the name of Paul?

He even rejoices that he had baptized only a few, lest anybody might say he had baptized in his own name. He lays emphasis that beneath all differences of opinion is the gospel of the Christ calling upon men to live together in love and righteousness.

Paul reminds them that the test of the Christian way is not found in outward expressions of wisdom, or in flowing words, but in the realities of faith. It is the power of God that saves men. It is the power of God that transforms their lives and makes them worthy to be in the Christian Church.

Men should seek that power above all things and should give their lives over fully to the influences of redemptive love, rather than take pride in any achievement of their own or in any assumed superiority to their fellows.

The topic of this lesson for intermediates and seniors is given as, "How to work with others." That is a good expression of the practical meaning of the lesson for us all. It is very necessary to learn if men would in any sense fulfill the will of God, for we are all God's children, and in our relationships in life we are all subject to his will whether or not we acknowledge it.

It is strange that, with such plain words as Paul has spoken and with the example of this dissension in the church of Corinth before us, the Christian Church throughout its history has been so marred by divisions and strife. Even those who have professed a common faith and purpose in Christ have often displayed the greatest unwillingness to work together or the utmost incompetence to do so in any practical way.

It is the neglect and failure of this essential privilege and duty that makes a lesson like this so important, and that makes it so necessary that we should return to it again and again.

The SCARLET ROPE

JOSHUA sent two spies into the walled city of Jericho to discover a means of attack. Once in the city, they lodged secretly with a woman named Rahab. However, word was carried to the King of Jericho that two Israelites had stolen into the city by night, and so he ordered his soldiers to search every dwelling for them.

Quickly Rahab hid the spies in the straw roof, and when their pursuers arrived she told them that the men they sought had departed just before dark.

When the searchers had gone she called the spies from their hiding place and said: "I know that the Lord has promised this land to the Israelites, and I have heard of his signs and wonders in the wilderness. I have saved you from the soldiers, and I will help you to escape, if you will promise to spare me and my family when you conquer Jericho."

They answered: "You shall have your lives for saving ours. Only swear not to reveal to anyone that we were here." Then she let them down from the roof by a scarlet rope, and as her house was built into the wall, they dropped outside of the city onto the plain.

Taking the same scarlet rope, Rahab bound it about the window frame, to mark her household from destruction.

The two spies hid in the hills for three days, until it was safe for them to rejoin Joshua and the Israelites.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

The Moon Man, with a friendly grin, said, "Are you comfy on my chin? You'd better hang on tight, or you will fall down into space.

"I'd hate to see you do that, miss, 'cause I am quite enjoying this. I don't have many visitors in my high, far off place."

"Oh, I'm all right," said Dotty. "I won't take a topple through the sky. I've done a lot of traveling and had real thrills before.

"As long as you don't move around, I know that I'll be safe and sound. I've heard a lot about you, but I'd like to hear some more."

"Well," said the Moon, "I guess I'll sing a song and tell you everything." And then he started singing, and his voice rang loud and clear.

"There was a man who lives on high and spreads his rays across the sky. He knows that folks love moonlight, and that's why he's glad he's here."

"Oh, my, but that's a pretty song. And now, sir, I must get along," said Dotty. "My star's coming. It will take me to Star Isle."

The star then came and loudly roared, "All right, I'm ready. Hop aboard!" "Come back again to see me," yelled the Moon Man, with a smile.

Once more wee Dotty whizzed through space. She very shortly reached the place where all the other Tinies were. They greeted her return.

"Come on, we want some help from you, in coloring candles red and blue," said Scouty. "Mister Star Man says he'll make these candles burn."

"Well, I will gladly lend a hand, but frankly, I don't understand what it is all about. I s'pose I'll have to wait and see."

S. A. STORE CLERK WINS SCHOLARSHIP

As Orange county winner of a scholarship in the Merchandise Research institute, Los Angeles, Miss Alice Erdman, 520 South Main street, an employe of Bell's Dry Goods store, Santa Ana, is completing arrangements to leave at the earliest date possible, to take the course of retail store training offered by the scholarship.

This is the first time in the history of Orange county stores that salespeople have been given the opportunity to win scholarships in retail store training. The Los Angeles institute offered the privilege to salespeople in all the leading stores of the county, and sent out questionnaires in order to select the person best fitted to receive the award.

Miss Erdman's answers to the questions submitted gave her the highest ranking grades of anyone in the county-wide competition and won for her, the coveted course. In accepting the scholarship Miss Erdman said, "The day of 'clerking' has passed. Modern merchandising demands salespeople who not only know their goods, but who are able to judge human nature sufficiently to please varying types of customers. I am happy to have an opportunity to acquire knowledge that will enable me to be of greater service to my customers, and of greater value to my employer, J. H. Bell."

POOR EXCUSE

VISALIA, Cal.—A new excuse for passing a worthless check was advanced here the other day. Uhel Moore explained that he was "out of his head" because he was being treated for rabies after being bitten by a mad dog. He was sentenced to San Quentin prison.

KREG NOTES

Tonight at 7 o'clock, KREG listeners will be taken to the South Sea islands where many books have been written on love affairs, but nothing written before will equal tonight's broadcast of "Mutiny on the Bounty." This half-hour drama will be replete with excitement, adventure, vivid love scenes and plenty of action. The story concerns an alluring and bewitching princess of the South Sea isles and a young Englishman from the "S. S. Bounty," augmented by real, tropical music and an intense scene on the "Bounty" where a brutal captain's tyranny causes a mutiny.

"Young coaches are the order of the day," say Mark Kelly, well-known sports editor who will discuss at 6:20 p. m. the general field of sports and name the best football teams. He will also tell of the invasion of the East by U. S. C. and of the new rules for additional points, making scoring more difficult. Kelly will also discuss baseball, the abolition of the lively ball and the lagging of public interest.

One of Monday afternoon's highlights on KREG, a daily except Saturday and Sunday feature, is the Carnival Hour, a C. B. S. feature originating in the studios of KMTR. "Topsy," "Madame Vodka" and numerous other comediennes and comedians are contributing to the afternoon's merriment.

Tomorrow morning the topic for the sermon to be broadcast over KREG from the Calvary Church will be "Giving Thanks For All Things" with special Thanksgiving music by the choir, under direction of Leland Green. In the evening the Rev. Frank E. Lindgren will talk on "Why God Sent His Son Into the World."

RADIO FEATURES

Time References Are Pacific Standard Time

Two speakers will discuss "The Social Philosophy of the New Deal" in the second program of the new series entitled "Economics of the New Deal," to be broadcast over an NBC network including KECA and KFSD between 5 and 5:30 this evening. They are Rexford G. Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, and Harry W. Laidler, chairman of the board, National Bureau of Economic Research, and executive director of the League for Industrial Democracy.

Presented in honor of the United States' recognition of Russia, a special Russian symphonic concert will be heard over a nation-wide NBC network including KECA and KFSD between 6:30 and 7 tonight.

The second of the Saturday night series of short-wave programs from the Byrd Antarctic Expedition will bring the voices of Admiral Byrd and members of his party across several thousands miles of sea and land to the audience of the Columbia network including KHJ at 7 tonight. The program, as usual, will open in the New York CBS studios with William Daly conducting his orchestra and chorus in the latest Broadway hits for the benefit of the explorers aboard the S. S. Jacob Ruppert. Charles J. V. Murphy, Columbia production man-announcer aboard the ship, will present more brief talks by members of the expedition; a bit of music and song by Alphonse Carbone, cook and harmonica virtuoso; Byron Gay, erstwhile denizen of Tin Pan Alley; and the "Dog Drivers' Quartet" in another group of songs both gay and tearful.

"Leaders in Action," a new series of weekly talks by H. V. Kaltenborn, in which the CBS commentator will discuss prominent figures in the government, will begin on the Columbia network including KHJ at 7:45 tonight. He will be heard at the same time each Saturday. The talks purport to present on successive Saturdays one prominent individual in the administration or in Congress.

Bette Davis, blonde film star, will answer her critics in an interview with Jimmy Fidler during the Hollywood on the Air program at 8:30 tonight, over an NBC network including KECA and KFSD.

SUNDAY

KHJ dedicates a new feature at 8:30 a. m. Sunday when the "Church of the Air" inaugurates its initial program. The "Church of the Air" is a non-denominational period patterned after the eastern program of the same nature offered over CBS. The Georgians Quartet and Claude Reimer, organist, will provide the music for the half hour, with Wade Lane as producer. This program necessitates change of time for the "Sunday Comics" to 8 a. m.

Dr. Christian L. Lange, Norwegian member of the Public Affairs Institute Committee on International Broadcasting, will speak from Geneva, Switzerland, over the Columbia network including KHJ at 9:45 a. m. Sunday. His subject will be "The United States and Europe."

Dr. Daniel A. Poling will answer what he calls the "Oh, yeah?" attitude towards religion in a talk called "Thankful for Whate?" during the National Youth Radio Conference program to be broadcast at 10:30 a. m. Sunday, over an NBC network including KFI.

A novelty is in store for listeners to the New York Philharmonic Orchestra concert to be broadcast over a Columbia network including KHJ at 12 noon Sunday. At that time Bruno Walter, the distinguished German maestro, will be heard in the dual role of conductor and pianist; while Grete Stueckgold and Gustav Schuetzendorf will apear as soloists in an all-German program. The concert will open with Walter leading the orchestra in Robert Schumann's Symphony No. 3 in E flat.

An orchestral version of Franz Liszt's popular Second Hungarian Rhapsody wil be featured on the Hoover Concert program to be heard at 1:30 p. m. Sunday, over an NBC network including KFI. Edward Davies wil sing a baritone solo, "One Alone," from Romberg's "Desert Song" and the Chicago A Cappella Chorus will be heard in the "Pilgrim's Chorus" from Wagner's "Tannhauser."

Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick will be the officiating minister in the program of National Vespers to be offered by the City, County and State Federations of Churches at 2 p. m. Sunday over an NBC network including KFSD. He will discuss "Through the Social Gospel into Personal Religion."

"Dalla sua pace" (On Her All Joy Dependeth), exalted aria from the Mozart opera based on the exploits of Don Juan, will be sung by Nino Martin, Metropolitan Opera tenor, during the broadcast of the Seven Star Revue, at 6 p. m. Sunday over a nation-wide Columbia network including KHJ.

Every kind of music from operatic arias to the latest dance hit wil be included in the American Album of Familiar Music program to be heard at 6:30 p. m. Sunday over an NBC network including KFI.

The true story of Mrs. Rosen and her three sons, Abe, Meyer and Max, all talented musicians, will be given in dramatic form on the "Patri's Dramas of Childhood" program over the Columbia network including KHJ at 7 p. m. Sunday.

The 87 voices of Earl Dancer's Chorus make their second bow over the Columbia network including KHJ when the colored choristers present 30 minutes of spirituals with dramatic interpolations by Jack Van Norstrand beginning at 8:30 p. m. Sunday.

MONDAY

Incidents culled from the explorations of Samuel de Champlain in Canada and New York will be daramatized for the history class of the American School of the Air to be broadcast over the Columbia network including KHJ at 11:30 a. m. Monday.

EBELL SECTION TO MEET NEXT MONDAY

ANAHEIM, Nov. 25. — "The Farm" by Louis Bromfield, a book tha thas created much interest since its recent publication will be reviewed by Mrs. H. D. Newkirk, section leader, on Monday afternon when the Book section of the Ebell club meets at the home of Mrs. George A. Paige, 502 North Zeyn street.

Preceding her review Mrs. William Webb jr. will give a short review of "Flush" by Woolf. A resume of books published during the past month will be given by Mrs. Sid McGraw who will carry this part of the program throughout the year.

"GYPSY" SMITH TALKS BEFORE 3000 PERSONS

ANAHEIM, Nov. 25.—"And God came into a gypsy tent and because of it His word has been preached on five continents and many have been brought to Him," Gypsy Smith told more than 3000 people last night in a voice that trembled with emotion as he recounted the tale of his conversion.

While he has told the story hundreds of times there were tears in his eyes as he spoke of his boyhood that was spent in a gypsy wagon roaming the Anglican counties of Britain as a member of the Romany tribe. He was born in the woods on a March day and was one of five children. While still a boy his mother and her new born child died of small pox and were buried at midnight.

"My father saw her die and in her last moments witnessed a peace come to her that he did not understand, for it was the Spirit that took hold of her. God couldn't let her die alone for He said, "Whosoever calls in the name of the Lord shall be saved."

"My father was restless and in his sorrow was hungering for something that he was a stranger to. He was ready then for conversion, but no one came to preach the gospel to him and we had no Bibles. Of evenings he sat in the firelight and said, "What is this burden struggling in my heart that tells me that I am wrong?"

It was then that he gathered his children to him and went to London to see if what the churches preached was the thing that he wanted. He stopped a man on the streets and asked for directions and that man, unknown to us then and now, preached the gospel to him and that night took him to a midnight service where my father and his brothers were converted. When he came back to our gypsy tent he prayed over us and made everything possible that has come into my life."

Opening his sermon with a description of the life and habits of the gypsy people he said that they were one of the most misunderstood of all people and yet they are as distinctive a race as the Jews.

While no man knows the origin of the gypsies he advanced the theory that they are "the lost tribe" that the Bible tells of, and that perhaps there is a connection between the word gypsy and Egyptian.

"They have retained their identity, individuality and language down through the ages and yet they have had no ministers or teachers or Bibles. Their tradition must be biblical because 85 per cent of the gypsy people have biblical names. Does not that tell the story?"

There are 3,000,000 gypsies in the world, the evangelist said, of which 40,000 are in England. There has never been a gypsy murder in England nor has a gypsy girl ever lost her purity, he said, as he derided the literature that has made them out as villians. They have constancy, honor, truth and stability and their faults are the same as other races in the world, for they pilfer, swear and drink.

In answer to this last charge he spoke on the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and predicted that the United States will become a debauched nation because it is not following Jesus and "whatsoever a man soweth that shall he reap."

100 TABLES FILLED FOR BRIDGE PARTY

ANAHEIM, Nov. 25.—Home than 100 tables were filled Thursday when the four societies from St. Boniface Catholic church were hosts at a bridge and five hundred party in St. Boniface hall. The host groups were Knights of Columbus, Young Ladies Institute, Holy Name society and the Altar society.

The large hall was banked with greenery and yellow chrysanthemums while the stage was filled with pepper bows and flowers suggestive of both the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons.

ANAHEIM RESIDENT FOR 19 YEARS DIES

ANAHEIM, Nov. 25.—Princess C. Curtis, 66, a resident of Orange county for 19 years, died on her ranch east of Anaheim yesterday morning following an extended illness.

Mrs. Curtis is survived by her husband, Harry C., and five sons, John of Eagle Rock, Floyd of Oakland, Clarence and Harry of Anaheim and one daughter, Mrs. Clarice C. Bircher, of Yorba Linda.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Hilgenfeld Funeral parlors with the Rev. Raymond C. Harker officiating. Burial will be in the family lot at the Anaheim sanitarium.

WALNUT GROWERS TO GET PAYMENT DEC. 1

ANAHEIM, Nov. 25.—Walnut growers will receive a first payment on their crop December 1 in order to enable them to pay their taxes, Walter J. Ross, manager of the Anaheim Walnut association, stated this morning. The amount of the payment has not been determined as yet.

The packing house closed on November 20 with a shipment of 325 tons or 60 per cent of last year's crop. Walnuts are selling satisfactorily, Mr. Ross declared.

Forgery Suspect Arrested At L. B.

Word was received in Laguna Beach today by Chief of Police Abe Johnson of the arrest in Long Beach of Howard Anderson, 20, for whom a warrant was issued by Judge C. C. Cravath charging that he forged the name of David Balfour, 152 High drive, Laguna Beach, to a note asking K. Carpenter, a grocer, to turn over $50 due to Balfour. Chief Johnson said he was informed that Anderson is being held in Long Beach on a complaint issued in that city and that he did not know when he will be taken to Laguna Beach for arraignment. Anderson was visiting at the Balfour home at the time of the asserted forgery.

Legal Notice

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA, CALLING A SPECIAL ELECTION TO BE HELD IN SAID CITY ON THE 19TH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1933, AND PROVIDING FOR THE SUBMISSION TO THE QUALIFIED VOTERS OF SAID CITY OF THE PROPOSITION OF INCURRING INDEBTEDNESS FOR THE ERECTION AND CONSTRUCTION OF A CITY HALL ON CITY OWNED PROPERTY, PROVIDING FOR THE ISSUANCE OF BONDS THEREFOR, FOR THE LEVYING OF A TAX FOR THE PAYMENT OF SAID BONDS, CONSOLIDATING SAID SPECIAL ELECTION WITH THE STATE SPECIAL ELECTION TO BE HELD ON DECEMBER 19TH, 1933, DESIGNATING THE POLLING PLACES, AND APPOINTING ELECTION OFFICERS FOR SAID ELECTION.

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Santa Ana, California, at an adjourned regular meeting, held on the 13th day of November, 1933, by a vote of more than two-thirds of its members, duly passed and adopted a Resolution determining:

That the public interest and necessity demand the erection and construction of a City Hall and necessary appurtenances thereto, upon City owned property; and

WHEREAS, said Resolution was duly approved by the Mayor of said City of Santa Ana on the 13th day of November, 1933, and duly attested and certified to by the City Clerk of said City on the 13th day of November, 1933;

NOW, THEREFORE, the City Council of the City of Santa Ana ordains as follows:

SECTION 1. That the proposition of incurring a bonded debt for the purposes set forth in Resolution No. 2370, adopted by the City Council of the City of Santa Ana on the 12th day of September, 1933, be submitted to the qualified voters of said City, at an election to be held for that purpose, and that the election shall be, and the same is hereby called to be held in the City of Santa Ana, California, on Tuesday, December 19, 1933, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified electors of said City the proposition of incurring indebtedness and issuing bonds of said City for the purposes set forth in said Resolution No. 2370.

SECTION 2. That the objects and purposes for which said indebtedness is proposed to be incurred and bonds issued therefor, and the rate of interest of said bonds, are as follows, to-wit:

That the estimated cost of said municipal improvement, as set forth in the last preceding paragraph herein, is the sum of One Hundred Thousand and no/100 Dollars ($100,000.00); that the estimated cost of said municipal improvement is and will be too great to be paid out of the ordinary annual income and revenue of the City of Santa Ana; that the amount of the principal of the indebtedness to be incurred therefor is the sum of Seventy Thousand and no/100 Dollars ($70,000.00); that the maximum rate of interest to be paid on said indebtedness will be five per cent (5%) per annum, which rate shall not be exceeded in the issuance of said bonds; that if the proposition for the incurring of said indebtedness so submitted at said election receives the requisite number of votes, to-wit: two-thirds (2/3) of the votes of the qualified electors voting at such election, bonds of said City in the sum of Seventy Thousand and no/100 Dollars ($70,000.00) shall be issued and sold for the purpose of erecting and constructing said municipal improvement as hereinabove set forth; that the principal and interest of said bonds shall be payable in lawful money of the United States; that said bonds shall be offered for sale and sold only to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, or other fiscal agency of the United States of America, and in the event that said bonds shall not be sold to said Reconstruction Finance Corporation, or other fiscal agency of the United States of America, no further proceedings shall be taken for the erection, construction and completion of said improvement, except by and through new proceedings instituted for said purpose.

SECTION 3. That for the purpose of paying the principal and interest of said bonds, the City Council of the City of Santa Ana shall, at the time of fixing the General Tax levy provided, levy and collect, annually, each year until such bonds are paid, or until there shall be a sum in the treasury of said City set apart for that purpose to meet all sums coming due for the payment of principal and interest on said bonds, a sufficient tax to pay the annual interest on said b

Tonight at 7 o'clock, KREG listeners will be taken to the South Sea islands where many books have been written on love affairs, but nothing written before will equal tonight's broadcast of "Mutiny on the Bounty." This half-hour drama will be replete with excitement, adventure, vivid love scenes and plenty of action. The story concerns an alluring and bewitching princess of the South Sea isles and a young Englishman from the "S. S. Bounty," augmented by real, tropical music and an intense scene on the "Bounty" where a brutal captain's tyranny causes a mutiny.

"Young coaches are the order of the day," say Mark Kelly, well-known sports editor who will discuss at 6:20 p. m. the general field of sports and name the best football teams. He will also tell of the invasion of the East by U. S. C. and of the new rules for additional points, making scoring more difficult. Kelly will also discuss baseball, the abolition of the lively ball and the lagging of public interest.

One of Monday afternoon's highlights on KREG, a daily except Saturday and Sunday feature, is the Carnival Hour, a C. B. S. feature originating in the studios of KMTR. "Topsy," "Madame Vodka" and numerous other comediennes and comedians are contributing to the afternoon's merriment.

Tomorrow morning the topic for the sermon to be broadcast over KREG from the Calvary Church will be "Giving Thanks For All Things" with special Thanksgiving music by the choir, under direction of Leland Green. In the evening the Rev. Frank E. Lindgren will talk on "Why God Sent His Son Into the World."

"GYPSY" SMITH TALKS BEFORE 3000 PERSONS

ANAHEIM, Nov. 25.—"And God came into a gypsy tent and because of it His word has been preached on five continents and many have been brought to Him," Gypsy Smith told more than 3000 people last night in a voice that trembled with emotion as he recounted the tale of his conversion.

While he has told the story hundreds of times there were tears in his eyes as he spoke of his boyhood that was spent in a gypsy wagon roaming the Anglican counties of Britain as a member of the Romany tribe. He was born in the woods on a March day and was one of five children. While still a boy his mother and her new born child died of small pox and were buried at midnight.

"My father saw her die and in her last moments witnessed a peace come to her that he did not understand, for it was the Spirit that took hold of her. God couldn't let her die alone for He said, "Whosoever calls in the name of the Lord shall be saved."

"My father was restless and in his sorrow was hungering for something that he was a stranger to. He was ready then for conversion, but no one came to preach the gospel to him and we had no Bibles. Of evenings he sat in the firelight and said, "What is this burden struggling in my heart that tells me that I am wrong?"

It was then that he gathered his children to him and went to London to see if what the churches preached was the thing that he wanted. He stopped a man on the streets and asked for directions and that man, unknown to us then and now, preached the gospel to him and that night took him to a midnight service where my father and his brothers were converted. When he came back to our gypsy tent he prayed over us and made everything possible that has come into my life."

Opening his sermon with a description of the life and habits of the gypsy people he said that they were one of the most misunderstood of all people and yet they are as distinctive a race as the Jews.

While no man knows the origin of the gypsies he advanced the theory that they are "the lost tribe" that the Bible tells of, and that perhaps there is a connection between the word gypsy and Egyptian.

"They have retained their identity, individuality and language down through the ages and yet they have had no ministers or teachers or Bibles. Their tradition must be biblical because 85 per cent of the gypsy people have biblical names. Does not that tell the story?"

There are 3,000,000 gypsies in the world, the evangelist said, of which 40,000 are in England. There has never been a gypsy murder in England nor has a gypsy girl ever lost her purity, he said, as he derided the literature that has made them out as villians. They have constancy, honor, truth and stability and their faults are the same as other races in the world, for they pilfer, swear and drink.

In answer to this last charge he spoke on the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and predicted that the United States will become a debauched nation because it is not following Jesus and "whatsoever a man soweth that shall he reap."

100 TABLES FILLED FOR BRIDGE PARTY

ANAHEIM, Nov. 25.—Home than 100 tables were filled Thursday when the four societies from St. Boniface Catholic church were hosts at a bridge and five hundred party in St. Boniface hall. The host groups were Knights of Columbus, Young Ladies Institute, Holy Name society and the Altar society.

The large hall was banked with greenery and yellow chrysanthemums while the stage was filled with pepper bows and flowers suggestive of both the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons.

Forgery Suspect Arrested At L. B.

Word was received in Laguna Beach today by Chief of Police Abe Johnson of the arrest in Long Beach of Howard Anderson, 20, for whom a warrant was issued by Judge C. C. Cravath charging that he forged the name of David Balfour, 152 High drive, Laguna Beach, to a note asking K. Carpenter, a grocer, to turn over $50 due to Balfour. Chief Johnson said he was informed that Anderson is being held in Long Beach on a complaint issued in that city and that he did not know when he will be taken to Laguna Beach for arraignment. Anderson was visiting at the Balfour home at the time of the asserted forgery.

Legal Notice

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA, CALLING A SPECIAL ELECTION TO BE HELD IN SAID CITY ON THE 19TH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1933, AND PROVIDING FOR THE SUBMISSION TO THE QUALIFIED VOTERS OF SAID CITY OF THE PROPOSITION OF INCURRING INDEBTEDNESS FOR THE ERECTION AND CONSTRUCTION OF A CITY HALL ON CITY OWNED PROPERTY, PROVIDING FOR THE ISSUANCE OF BONDS THEREFOR, FOR THE LEVYING OF A TAX FOR THE PAYMENT OF SAID BONDS, CONSOLIDATING SAID SPECIAL ELECTION WITH THE STATE SPECIAL ELECTION TO BE HELD ON DECEMBER 19TH, 1933, DESIGNATING THE POLLING PLACES, AND APPOINTING ELECTION OFFICERS FOR SAID ELECTION.

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Santa Ana, California, at an adjourned regular meeting, held on the 13th day of November, 1933, by a vote of more than two-thirds of its members, duly passed and adopted a Resolution determining:

That the public interest and necessity demand the erection and construction of a City Hall and necessary appurtenances thereto, upon City owned property; and

WHEREAS, said Resolution was duly approved by the Mayor of said City of Santa Ana on the 13th day of November, 1933, and duly attested and certified to by the City Clerk of said City on the 13th day of November, 1933;

NOW, THEREFORE, the City Council of the City of Santa Ana ordains as follows:

SECTION 1. That the proposition of incurring a bonded debt for the purposes set forth in Resolution No. 2370, adopted by the City Council of the City of Santa Ana on the 13th day of September, 1933, be submitted to the qualified voters of said City, at an election to be held for that purpose, and that the election shall be, and the same is hereby called to be held in the City of Santa Ana, California, on Tuesday, December 19, 1933, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified electors of said City the proposition of incurring indebtedness and issuing bonds of said City for the purposes set forth in said Resolution No. 2370.

SECTION 2. That the objects and purposes for which said indebtedness is proposed to be incurred and bonds issued therefor, and the rate of interest of said bonds, are as follows, to-wit:

That the estimated cost of said municipal improvement, as set forth in the last preceding paragraph herein, is the sum of One Hundred Thousand and no/100 Dollars ($100,000.00); that the estimated cost of said municipal improvement is and will be too great to be paid out of the ordinary annual income and revenue of the City of Santa Ana; that the amount of the principal of the indebtedness to be incurred therefor is the sum of Seventy Thousand and no/100 Dollars ($70,000.00); that the maximum rate of interest to be paid on said indebtedness will be five per cent (5%) per annum, which rate shall not be exceeded in the issuance of said bonds; that the proposition for the incurring of said indebtedness so submitted at said election receives the requisite number of votes, to-wit: two-thirds (2/3) of the votes of the qualified electors voting at such election, bonds of said City in the sum of Seventy Thousand and no/100 Dollars ($70,000.00) shall be issued and sold for the purpose of erecting and constructing said municipal improvement as hereinabove set forth; that the principal and interest of said bonds shall be payable in lawful money of the United States; that said bonds shall be offered for sale and sold only to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, or other fiscal agency of the United States of America, and in the event that said bonds shall not be sold to said Reconstruction Finance Corporation, or other fiscal agency of the United States of America, no further proceedings shall be taken for the erection, construction and completion of said improvement, except by and through new proceedings instituted for said purpose.

SECTION 3. That for the purpose of paying the principal and interest of said bonds, the City Council of the City of Santa Ana shall, at the time of fixing the General Tax levy provided, levy and collect, annually, each year until such bonds are paid, or until there shall be a sum in the treasury of said City set apart for that purpose to meet all sums coming due for the payment of principal and interest on said bonds, a sufficient tax to pay the annual interest on said bonds, and also such part of the principal thereof as shall become due before the time for fixing the next general tax levy, and that such taxes shall be in addition to all other taxes levied for municipal purposes, and shall be collected at the time and in the same manner as other municipal taxes are collected, and be used for no other purpose other than the payment of the said bonds and accruing interest.

SECTION 4. That the said special Municipal Election to be held on December 19, 1933, as hereinbefore set forth, shall be consolidated with the special State Election to be held on December 19, 1933, and the polling places and officers of election shall be and are hereby designated to be the same as those of the special State Election to be held on December 19, 1933, and the Board of Supervisors of the County of Orange, State of California, is hereby designated, and is hereby authorized, to canvass the ballots cast at said Municipal Election for or against said proposition so submitted.

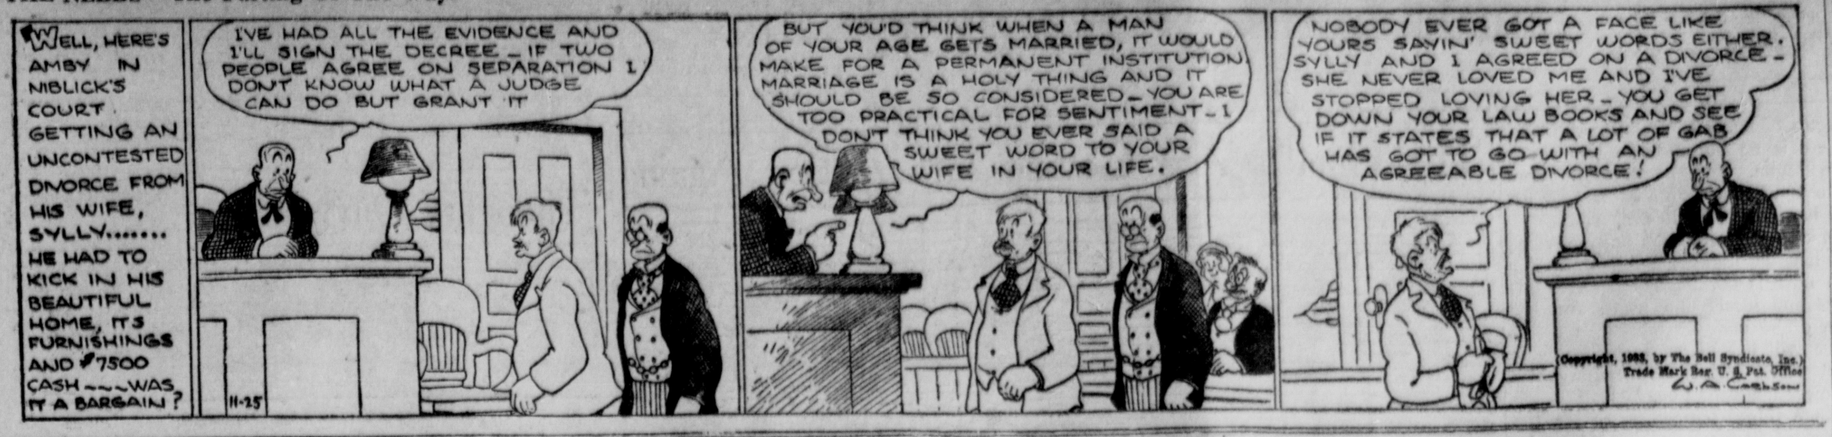

That the ballot to be used at said Election shall contain the following proposition:

"PROPOSITION SUBMITTED TO VOTE OF ELECTORS.

Shall the City of Santa Ana incur a bonded debt of $70,000.00, for the purpose of erecting, constructing and complet

OBSTRUCTIONISTS MUST FACE FACTS AND NECESSITY

Officials of the Federal Reserve Bank who did so much to maintain the Coolidge and Hoover prosperity myth have now aligned themselves against the President and his policy of buying gold. In selling $1,000,000 of government bonds last week these gentlemen followed a policy in opposition to the administration.

Evidently we are going to witness a fight between powerful banking interests, who want the dollar to remain at its present value, and those who want to cheapen the dollar. Taking for granted that the bankers realize the effect of their position, we have the right to say for them that they wish to see liquidation through bankruptcy and forced sales, as well as through voluntary sales at the present price level. Their position is that the government should not interfere. Prices may go still lower or they may rise; but whichever way they turn, these men would take no action. Because of their position on top of the heap they are serenely contented. Never have so few dollars commanded so much property.

The theory of the gold standard is, first, that enough gold exists for the transaction of the business of the world; second, that through its exclusive usage, prices the world over will certainly and positively adjust themselves to that standard.

Prior to the World war, gold was more widely distributed amongst the nations of the world, and to all appearances, the gold standard was satisfactory. (It may have worked a hardship on all except the white races, but that is another question.) Since the World war the concentration of gold in the United States made gold so expensive that France devaluated her gold franc to one-fifth of its former value. Then France discovered that by selling her securities abroad and limiting her imports she could increase her gold reserve. Not content with her pre-war holdings, she continued her financial policy until the United States and France held almost two-thirds of all the gold in the world.

England, awaking from her sleep and realizing that gold could be purchased with paper security, went off the gold standard, and has at this time succeeded in accumulating the largest gold reserve in her history.

Japan, learning a lesson from England, went off the gold standard and straightaway proceeded to undersell England in her own colonies. Now with the United States off the gold standard and the dollar depreciating in value, England is alarmed at the possible loss of her newly acquired markets. In every nation, tariff barriers have been raised to protect the country's industry and to prevent the incurring of foreign obligations which might result in the loss of their gold supply.

Now "money" is fleeing the United States just as it fled from Germany, France and England. The present haven is England, and last week's estimates were to the effect that eight hundred millions of dollars had fled for safety to that country in recent months. Showered with money from this country, sterling increases in price, England is again losing her foreign market and, like the United States, is at the mercy of the very rich, who are moving their mobile wealth from country to country.

With all the historical evidence we now have pointing to the complete breakdown of the gold standard; with France, the last great country now on the gold standard being steadily drained of her precious metal, and almost in a panic as to what to do, it is hard indeed to credit the present obstructionist with the purity of motive and high purposes they chose to clothe themselves with. Perhaps they will be permitted to shunt their wealth from country to country as their fancy dictates, but if these big "sound" money men continue to disrupt the economic systems of the world, governments may find a means to govern the exportation of money as they have found means to limit imports. In other words, they can stop this performance by putting an embargo upon the export of American money.

Scores and scores of conservatives, friends, associates and acquaintances who a few years ago believed that the government should take no hand in alleviating the distress of hard-pressed borrowers now find themselves near the brink of ruin. Confronted with the certainty that higher taxes must be levied in the future to repay the charity loans of today, the energy of the nation should be directed towards the creation of a new monetary standard. The failure of the gold standard is world-wide. It may be that Sweden is pointing the way out by her use of the commodity dollar. In any case, all the world but France, Holland, Switzerland are getting along without gold currency, and our obstructionist will do it also.

MR. SMITH REFLECTS OPINION OF ASSOCIATES

The Honorable Alfred E. Smith joins in with the United States Chamber of Commerce, and the other critics of the President, and denominates the President's financial plan as the "baloney" dollar. Smith suggests that he may thus be lined up with Wall Street. He needn't worry about this particular thing. For the last three or four years it has been perfectly obvious that Mr. Smith has lost practically all touch with the masses. When men are now taking the same position upon matters that Mr. Smith did six and eight and ten years ago, Smith calls it "demagoguery," "baloney," etc.

For many years, Mr. Smith resisted the financial influences that tried to get possession of him, but finally he succumbed. He took the head of the Empire State building, the capital of which runs into the millions; he has become a director of many financial institutions, and while there is no objection to this whatever, he soon began, after he accepted these emoluments, to mouth the words of his new associates. He has continued it ever since.

For Mr. Smith's social outlook and activities we for years had the highest opinion. In the contest which now is on, he has deserted his former friends and ideals and ideas, and has accepted entirely new ones for him. We rather predict that he will not affect a solitary vote in the United States Senate and mighty few votes in the lower house of Congress.

It is a strange thing, sometimes, to see the peculiar quirks of men's minds. Men who have been born and brought up in homes rather better than the moderate well-to-do—such men as Theodore Roosevelt, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Frank A. Vanderlip, are more reliable and dependable in being directed by a social conscience, than men who have suddenly achieved riches, particularly through the route of their political influence getting them into high position.

THE PRESIDENT GULPS

The President experienced one of those embarrassing moments which fall to the lot of everyone often enough. But the President has seemed to be singularly free from them, as one might expect. The episode came about over a glass of soda water. Touring about Warm Springs, the President driving and accompanied by his mother, his personal secretary, and his body-guard, the unseasonably warm weather led him to stop in the village of Warm Springs and ask for glasses of soda water for the party. Heretofore the President being a familiar friend and neighbor in Warm Springs has been treated as such. But now "the Governor" has become "the President" and it wasn't the same. The soda fountain boy was shy, the crowd that gathered around at a respectful distance gazed mutely at the President.

The curious silence was an embarrassment to the executive. He was guilty then and there of gulping his soda water and starting back to the Warm Springs Foundation.

Have you ever tried eating or drinking with a score or more of people silently looking on? Under such circumstances we can well imagine that the bravest warrior would be terribly afraid of getting the food down the "Sunday throat," and gulping is the only way out.

What's Below?

Christian Science Monitor

The Atlantis is in! To the landsman just another ship in from the sea. But to the researchers at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute a galleon has returned from a voyage into the unknown.

Her treasure is an assortment of marine specimens, sample tubes of sea water, handfuls of mud, charts filled with figures of currents, depths and temperatures. Yet to the waiting scientists this cargo means more than would holds crammed with spices and silks and Spanish gold.

For the cargo of the Atlantis will add still more to the light of knowledge that is penetrating the purple darkness of old Ocean's vaults. The nets of the Atlantis, lowered into the sea at the end of cables that coil in five-mile lengths on the winches, have combed those depths long believed to be void and lifeless, and have brought up proof that there is no depth, however profound, where life does not exist. Because of these questing fingers of man's ingenuity the world now knows that in the deepest recesses of the ocean canyons, moving under pressure that gives comprehension pause, fish swim about over a plant life that flourishes with tropical luxuriance.

In the microscopic specimens gleaned in the "vasty deeps" is evidence to shatter many long-held theories as to what's below. Plant life can exist only where there is light, says one of the old theories. And in the depths of ocean there is no light. The Atlantis spreads her charts which give startling evidence of light in the ultraviolet range of the spectrum, invisible light in which marine life thrives.

The figures unroll and the wonders multiply, strange creatures that crawl in the organic oozes on the sea floor, of strange fish that carry their own suns, of infinitesimal creatures daily covering distances which, to a man-size animal, would mean thousands of miles.

Such is the nature of the cargo of the Atlantis. On her decks, and stretching across future voyages, lies the solution to further problems. Hurricanes sweep across the Caribbean, harrying the islands and the southern coasts. Somewhere between the Caribbean and the Azores are the incubators where hurricanes are hatched. When this area is definitely located, and the conditions that "breed" the hurricanes are ascertained, a great step toward offsetting their depredations will have been taken.

The geologist turns his gaze toward the Atlantis, for in her researches he hopes to gain knowledge that will link with his work along the watersheds of the continents. She will bring to him the missing links in the puzzle of continental drifts, of submerged continents and lost mountain ranges.

The Atlantis is in. Another argosy has come up from the Spanish Main.

Glendale News-Press

No Nobel peace prize was awarded in 1932; none the present year. The committee authorized to select a recipient for this distinguished honor found none worthy.

It is almost impossible to conceive how any individual active on behalf of the cause of peace could so stand out above his fellows as to be accounted the greatest in the field.

The people of every nation desire peace. The prospect of war horrifies and terrifies them. Nevertheless, the obvious drift in Europe is in the direction of war. The genius able to divert this trend does not arrive. The private citizen raises his voice, one of a chorus of voices, in protest against armed conflict.

The man in a place of authority is rendered by environment almost as ineffective as a private citizen. Diplomats have not been wise enough or unselfish enough to abandon the old policy of force and greed. National pride is resentful, the faith of all neighbors is under suspicion. No nation is ready to trust another.

If one were to come forward able to convert the world, able to show it how to avoid war without sacrifice of honor, and prove to it the wisdom of his counsel, he would be entitled to the Nobel peace prize, or any other great expression of gratitude an appreciative generation could bestow. But no such figure appears.

The Hunters Are Getting Into Action Again

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE VALUE OF OPINION

I know a kid who used to read
Dime novels all day long,
And everybody said that he'd
Be certain to go wrong.
"That lad," they said, "won't get ahead;
If he keeps on this way
The young galoot a bank will loot
And go to jail some day."
He's now a leading citizen
And people boast, "We knew him when."

I know a boy who used to be
His teacher's little pet,
The child appealed exceedingly
To grown-ups whom he met.
Nice people said, "Dear little Ned
Is such a lovely child,
No chance that he will ever be
Undutiful or wild."
Last week his parents put up bail
To get their offspring out of jail.

I never dare prognosticate;
I always nurse a doubt

NATIONALIZING THE FARMER

History will, I am sure, set down as one of the transcendently statesmanlike contributions of the Roosevelt administration its blueprint of a new relation between the forces of political America and the forces of economic America.

The National Industrial Recovery Act projects a new partnership between government on the one hand, and industry and labor on the other. As I have said before in these articles, it provides for a new kind of cooperation between the Federal Government and the great Trade Associations and the Trade Unions as they function in the American Federation of Labor.

The provisions of the Act are far from perfected, but they do foreshadow organizations of economic forces that will, in effect, serve as a series of industrial governments that shall separate under the chaperonage of the political government.

There is one glaring omission in this Rooseveltian blueprint. American agriculture is not brought into the picture in the same way that American business and American labor are brought in. With respect to American business and American labor the Roosevelt administration seemingly says, "Organize yourselves into nationally representative units under the guidance of your most enlightened instead of your less enlightened leadership, and then the Federal Government can sit down with you to plan how best to use the nation's economic forces for the maximum benefit of the American people as a whole." Maybe I have overlooked something, but I find nothing comparable in current legislation respecting American agriculture.

With respect to American agriculture the Federal Government seems to be detouring around agriculture organization and dealing directly with the individual farmer. This is likely to intensify in agriculture the very individualism the Federal Government is fighting, and rightly fighting, in business and labor.

It seems to me that the Rooseveltian philosophy should complete the circle and drive towards a nationally organized business, a nationally organized labor and a nationally organized agriculture, on the basis of the best agricultural cooperatives we have, and then set deliberately out to create a functioning economic state inside the shell of the political state the founding fathers created, with the political state serving as spur, coach and umpire.

Our Children

DANCING

Dancing is good exercise for school children. Instead of having the children stand on fixed spots on the gymnasium floor and following the commands of a militaristic teacher, "One, two, one two, arms up, chests high, one two, one two," for forty minutes, it is much better to teach them the steps of a folk dance and turn on the music. The children will return to their routine of lessons with rested minds and vitalized bodies instead of the opposite result that is certain to follow a period of execution of commands.

Following commands with precision is extremely fatiguing. We want the children to have physical exercise because sitting in school for hours on end is likely to weary them beyond relief. They become dull and restless and irritable unless they have some change of posture and of thought. Regulation gymnastic exercises are of little help in this situation. What we need is rhythm, easy and effortless movement, and pleasure.

There are people who think that if a child enjoys himself in school he is wasting time and in danger of getting into bad habits. "I don't send him to school for fun. I send him there to learn." Learning seems to be a sad affair. A smile would ruin it for life.

That is a mistake. Learning that is sad does not have the same quality and value that pleasurable learning has. The child remembers the one with distaste and pushes it from him, together with all the people concerned in it. We say, "The associations are not helpful and the memories are weak and the application of the work doubtful." In plain English, the lessons learned in suffering and durance do little good. The lessons that are learned in joy remain strong, they function easily and well. They are worth while and the trouble the school took for them was amply rewarded. So I would make physical training period a happy one.

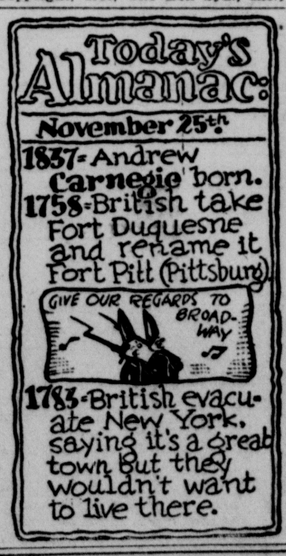

I think corrective work should be done at a special time under the direction of a specialist. The teacher who is licensed to teach thirteen or fourteen academic subjects cannot be expected to know very much about a curved spine and curved spines are deadly important to their unfortunate possessors. All such corrections ought to be scrupulously made by thoroughly trained and expert practitioners.

That leaves us the gym period for gay dances, tableaux, charades and pageants. Arms and legs and backs will be exercised, never fear. The blood will circulate faster and the breath will come and go in its natural rhythm. All that healthy physical exercise can do for a school child can be done in the open air in the playgrounds, in the airy gyms, in pleasant projects.

And you don't always need a gym. A good walk in the woods, a hike through the hills, is splendid exercise. Children and teachers are in danger of losing the habit of walking. It is the best of all exercises for a child. Then let us walk and dance and prance in the carefree spirit of childhood when we have physical exercise. Then we can achieve our end, the growth of healthy, happy children.

OBSTRUCTIONISTS MUST FACE FACTS AND NECESSITY

Officials of the Federal Reserve Bank who did so much to maintain the Coolidge and Hoover prosperity myth have now aligned themselves against the President and his policy of buying gold. In selling $1,000,000 of government bonds last week these gentlemen followed a policy in opposition to the administration.

Evidently we are going to witness a fight between powerful banking interests, who want the dollar to remain at its present value, and those who want to cheapen the dollar. Taking for granted that the bankers realize the effect of their position, we have the right to say for them that they wish to see liquidation through bankruptcy and forced sales, as well as through voluntary sales at the present price level. Their position is that the government should not interfere. Prices may go still lower or they may rise; but whichever way they turn, these men would take no action. Because of their position on top of the heap they are serenely contented. Never have so few dollars commanded so much property.

The theory of the gold standard is, first, that enough gold exists for the transaction of the business of the world; second, that through its exclusive usage, prices the world over will certainly and positively adjust themselves to that standard.

Prior to the World war, gold was more widely distributed amongst the nations of the world, and to all appearances, the gold standard was satisfactory. (It may have worked a hardship on all except the white races, but that is another question.) Since the World war the concentration of gold in the United States made gold so expensive that France devaluated her gold franc to one-fifth of its former value. Then France discovered that by selling her securities abroad and limiting her imports she could increase her gold reserve. Not content with her pre-war holdings, she continued her financial policy until the United States and France held almost two-thirds of all the gold in the world.

England, awaking from her sleep and realizing that gold could be purchased with paper security, went off the gold standard, and has at this time succeeded in accumulating the largest gold reserve in her history.

Japan, learning a lesson from England, went off the gold standard and straightaway proceeded to undersell England in her own colonies. Now with the United States off the gold standard and the dollar depreciating in value, England is alarmed at the possible loss of her newly acquired markets. In every nation, tariff barriers have been raised to protect the country's industry and to prevent the incurring of foreign obligations which might result in the loss of their gold supply.

Now "money" is fleeing the United States just as it fled from Germany, France and England. The present haven is England, and last week's estimates were to the effect that eight hundred millions of dollars had fled for safety to that country in recent months. Showered with money from this country, sterling increases in price, England is again losing her foreign market and, like the United States, is at the mercy of the very rich, who are moving their mobile wealth from country to country.

With all the historical evidence we now have pointing to the complete breakdown of the gold standard; with France, the last great country now on the gold standard being steadily drained of her precious metal, and almost in a panic as to what to do, it is hard indeed to credit the present obstructionist with the purity of motive and high purposes they chose to clothe themselves with. Perhaps they will be permitted to shunt their wealth from country to country as their fancy dictates, but if these big "sound" money men continue to disrupt the economic systems of the world, governments may find a means to govern the exportation of money as they have found means to limit imports. In other words, they can stop this performance by putting an embargo upon the export of American money.

Scores and scores of conservatives, friends, associates and acquaintances who a few years ago believed that the government should take no hand in alleviating the distress of hard-pressed borrowers now find themselves near the brink of ruin. Confronted with the certainty that higher taxes must be levied in the future to repay the charity loans of today, the energy of the nation should be directed towards the creation of a new monetary standard. The failure of the gold standard is world-wide. It may be that Sweden is pointing the way out by her use of the commodity dollar. In any case, all the world but France, Holland, Switzerland are getting along without gold currency, and our obstructionist will do it also.

MR. SMITH REFLECTS OPINION OF ASSOCIATES

The Honorable Alfred E. Smith joins in with the United States Chamber of Commerce, and the other critics of the President, and denominates the President's financial plan as the "baloney" dollar. Smith suggests that he may thus be lined up with Wall Street. He needn't worry about this particular thing. For the last three or four years it has been perfectly obvious that Mr. Smith has lost practically all touch with the masses. When men are now taking the same position upon matters that Mr. Smith did six and eight and ten years ago, Smith calls it "demagoguery," "baloney," etc.

For many years, Mr. Smith resisted the financial influences that tried to get possession of him, but finally he succumbed. He took the head of the Empire State building, the capital of which runs into the millions; he has become a director of many financial institutions, and while there is no objection to this whatever, he soon began, after he accepted these emoluments, to mouth the words of his new associates. He has continued it ever since.

For Mr. Smith's social outlook and activities we for years had the highest opinion. In the contest which now is on, he has deserted his former friends and ideals and ideas, and has accepted entirely new ones for him. We rather predict that he will not affect a solitary vote in the United States Senate and mighty few votes in the lower house of Congress.

It is a strange thing, sometimes, to see the peculiar quirks of men's minds. Men who have been born and brought up in homes rather better than the moderate well-to-do—such men as Theodore Roosevelt, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Frank A. Vanderlip, are more reliable and dependable in being directed by a social conscience, than men who have suddenly achieved riches, particularly through the route of their political influence getting them into high position.

THE PRESIDENT GULPS

The President experienced one of those embarrassing moments which fall to the lot of everyone often enough. But the President has seemed to be singularly free from them, as one might expect. The episode came about over a glass of soda water. Touring about Warm Springs, the President driving and accompanied by his mother, his personal secretary, and his body-guard, the unseasonably warm weather led him to stop in the village of Warm Springs and ask for glasses of soda water for the party. Heretofore the President being a familiar friend and neighbor in Warm Springs has been treated as such. But now "the Governor" has become "the President" and it wasn't the same. The soda fountain boy was shy, the crowd that gathered around at a respectful distance gazed mutely at the President.

The curious silence was an embarrassment to the executive. He was guilty then and there of gulping his soda water and starting back to the Warm Springs Foundation.

Have you ever tried eating or drinking with a score or more of people silently looking on? Under such circumstances we can well imagine that the bravest warrior would be terribly afraid of getting the food down the "Sunday throat," and gulping is the only way out.

What's Below?

Christian Science Monitor

The Atlantis is in! To the landsman just another ship in from the sea. But to the researchers at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute a galleon has returned from a voyage into the unknown.

Her treasure is an assortment of marine specimens, sample tubes of sea water, handfuls of mud, charts filled with figures of currents, depths and temperatures. Yet to the waiting scientists this cargo means more than would holds crammed with spices and silks and Spanish gold.

For the cargo of the Atlantis will add still more to the light of knowledge that is penetrating the purple darkness of old Ocean's vaults. The nets of the Atlantis, lowered into the sea at the end of cables that coil in five-mile lengths on the winches, have combed those depths long believed to be void and lifeless, and have brought up proof that there is no depth, however profound, where life does not exist. Because of these questing fingers of man's ingenuity the world now knows that in the deepest recesses of the ocean canyons, moving under pressure that gives comprehension pause, fish swim about over a plant life that flourishes with tropical luxuriance.

In the microscopic specimens gleaned in the "vasty deeps" is evidence to shatter many long-held theories as to what's below. Plant life can exist only where there is light, says one of the old theories. And in the depths of ocean there is no light. The Atlantis spreads her charts which give startling evidence of light in the ultraviolet range of the spectrum, invisible light in which marine life thrives.

The figures unroll and the wonders multiply, strange creatures that crawl in the organic oozes on the sea floor, of strange fish that carry their own suns, of infinitesimal creatures daily covering distances which, to a man-size animal, would mean thousands of miles.

Such is the nature of the cargo of the Atlantis. On her decks, and stretching across future voyages, lies the solution to further problems. Hurricanes sweep across the Caribbean, harrying the islands and the southern coasts. Somewhere between the Caribbean and the Azores are the incubators where hurricanes are hatched. When this area is definitely located, and the conditions that "breed" the hurricanes are ascertained, a great step toward offsetting their depredations will have been taken.

The geologist turns his gaze toward the Atlantis, for in her researches he hopes to gain knowledge that will link with his work along the watersheds of the continents. She will bring to him the missing links in the puzzle of continental drifts, of submerged continents and lost mountain ranges.

The Atlantis is in. Another argosy has come up from the Spanish Main.

Glendale News-Press

No Nobel peace prize was awarded in 1932; none the present year. The committee authorized to select a recipient for this distinguished honor found none worthy.

It is almost impossible to conceive how any individual active on behalf of the cause of peace could so stand out above his fellows as to be accounted the greatest in the field.

The people of every nation desire peace. The prospect of war horrifies and terrifies them. Nevertheless, the obvious drift in Europe is in the direction of war. The genius able to divert this trend does not arrive. The private citizen raises his voice, one of a chorus of voices, in protest against armed conflict.

The man in a place of authority is rendered by environment almost as ineffective as a private citizen. Diplomats have not been wise enough or unselfish enough to abandon the old policy of force and greed. National pride is resentful, the faith of all neighbors is under suspicion. No nation is ready to trust another.

If one were to come forward able to convert the world, able to show it how to avoid war without sacrifice of honor, and prove to it the wisdom of his counsel, he would be entitled to the Nobel peace prize, or any other great expression of gratitude an appreciative generation could bestow. But no such figure appears.

THE VALUE OF OPINION

I know a kid who used to read
Dime novels all day long,
And everybody said that he'd
Be certain to go wrong.
"That lad," they said, "won't get ahead;
If he keeps on this way
The young galoot a bank will loot
And go to jail some day."
He's now a leading citizen
And people boast, "We knew him when."

I know a boy who used to be
His teacher's little pet,
The child appealed exceedingly
To grown-ups whom he met.
Nice people said, "Dear little Ned
Is such a lovely child,
No chance that he will ever be
Undutiful or wild."
Last week his parents put up bail
To get their offspring out of jail.

I never dare prognosticate;
I always nurse a doubt
When people whom I know debate
How urchins will turn out.
Some lads I've known, when they were grand
Have garnered fame and wealth,
While other lads have turned out cads
Or gained their bread by stealth.
Despite their birth and pedigree
You've always got to wait and see.
